Econ Nonindustrial Private Forests World Bank Country Economic Report:

Institutions, Sustainability, and Natural Resources Shashi Kant,R. Albert Berry,2006-01-17 A new economic theory rather than a new public policy based on old theory is needed to guide humanity toward sustainability Institutions are a critical dimension of sustainability and sustainable forest management and economic analysis of institutional dimension requires an inclusionist rather than an exclusionist approach This book provides a systematic critique of neoclassical economic approaches and their limitations with respect to sustainability Leading institutional economists discuss theoretical perspectives about appropriate institutions for sustainable forest management markets for environmental services deforestation and specialization and some country experiences about Kyoto Protocol international trade biodiversity conservation and sustainable forest management in general The book includes the ideas from old as well as new institutional economics and discusses the main features of Post Newtonian economics This book follows a companion book Economics Sustainability and Natural Resources Economics of Sustainable Forest Management volume 1 of the series Private or Socialistic Forestry? Matti Palo,Erkki Lehto,2012-02-15 While deforestation continues at an alarming rate around the world discussions on the range of underlying causes continue The premise is that studying successful transitions from deforestation to sustainable forestry ex post in Finland can provide novel insights into how deforestation in the tropics might be reduced in the future Our fundamental question here is why Finland succeeded to stop deforestation for a century ago and why not the same is feasible in the contemporary tropical countries This book presents a novel integrated theory within which this case study on Finland and contemporary modeling of underlying causes of tropical deforestation are developed Finland remains the world s second largest net exporter of forest products while maintaining the highest forest cover in Europe A transition from deforestation to sustainable industrial forestry took place in Finland during the first part of the 20th century The underlying causes of this transition are compared via our theory with deforestation in 74 contemporary tropical countries Both appear similar and support our theory The interaction of public policies and market institutions has appeared to be critical during this transition The study s findings suggest that private forest ownership with a continuous increase in the real value of forests and alleviation of poverty under non corruptive conditions has been a necessary but not a sufficient condition for this transition In a parallel way public policies have also proved to be a necessary but not sufficient condition in this transition The conclusion is that socialistic forestry along with corruption is artificially maintaining too low values in the tropical forests The opportunity cost of sustainable forestry remains too high and deforestation by extensification of agriculture therefore continues The prevailing socialistic forestry with dominating public forest ownership is by purpose maintaining administratively set low stumpage prices leading to low value of forests wide corruption and continuous forest degradation and deforestation An effective remedy to raise the value of forests is found to be within forestry The Environment Index ,1986 Annual Report - Resources for the Future Resources for the Future,1979 Services in
