Industrial Policies and Economic Restructuring Zheng Yongnian, Sarah Y. Tong, 2014-07-11 In the past three decades China has successfully transformed itself from an extremely poor economy to the world's second largest economy The country's phenomenal economic growth has been sustained primarily by its rapid and continuous industrialisation Currently industry accounts for nearly two fifths of China's gross domestic product and since 2009 China has been the world's largest exporter of manufactured products This book explores the question of how far this industrial growth has been the product of government policies It discusses how government policies and their priorities have developed and evolved examines how industrial policies are linked to policies in other areas such as trade technology and regional development and assesses how new policy initiatives are encouraging China's increasing success in new technology intensive industries It also demonstrates how China's industrial policies are linked to development of industrial clusters and regions Trade and Security Charles M. Dobbs, 2010-02-19 In a strange way the United States achieved its goal for the Vietnam War but forgot why it was fighting It was not fighting to keep South Vietnam from falling to the communists it was fighting in Indochina to buy time for the other free nations of the region to develop economically and strengthen their respective relationships with their polities In 1961 the region seemed weak economically Japan was on the eve of its great expansion that turned it into the world's second largest economy for many years South Korea and Taiwan still depended on US economic assistance and focused more on the perceived communist threat than improving the quality of life for their peoples Thailand similarly watched the civil war in Laos the Philippines needed to develop stability in government and the Malay peoples moved from Malaya to Malaysia to Malaysia and Singapore all the while warily watching events in Indonesia Trade and Security discusses how the US government sought to rally the region against the Communist threat and in part opened the American economy to exploitation by its East Asian allies and how those Allies used the Cold War and the perceived Chinese threat to gain greater access despite the consequent damage the American economy suffered While US financial officials complained about the increasing damage to the domestic economy and to the worsening balance of trade and balance of payments deficits diplomatic and military leaders remained fixated on the general superpower confrontation with the Soviet Union and the regional competition with the People's Republic of China New Economy, New Myth Jean Gadrey, 2003 With so much written about the new economy this book employs a mixture of academic rigour and readable prose making it a distinctive and intriguing read for those interested in the internet bubble and the furor that surrounded it e-Business Strategies for

How Asia Got Rich Edith Terry, 2015-05-20 Within a few short months in 1997 Asian economies that had been considered not only healthy but miraculous suddenly fell off a precipice as investors withdrew massively first from Asian currencies and in rapid order from equity markets across the region. On October 27 1997 the turmoil in Asian markets spooked Wall Street in the largest single day decline in history a drop of 550 points. It was predicted that the Asian crash could drive the US trade deficit from 191 billion to 300 billion by 1998 creating huge new tensions in relations with some of the largest US trading partners. These wrenching changes following a generation of success raise numerous questions about the steps that led to the crisis its likely outcome and the limits and constraints of Asian capitalism. Edith Terry presents a blow by blow account of the crisis beginning with the 1996 collapse of the Bangkok Bank of Commerce. In her overview she links the fall of the Asian miracle with the theme of globalization arguing that the crisis demonstrates the urgency of dismantling restraints to trade investment and financial services and that the United States should take leadership in pushing for new and sweeping reform through the World Trade Organization and in bilateral negotiations with its trading partners. The final section of the book deals with the rise of the Asian miracle how the myth was created who created it why it succeeded for so long and is informed by analysis of the Japanese prototype.

Studies in Specialized Discourse John Flowerdew, Maurizio Gotti, 2006 This book analyses the various features of specialized discourse in order to assess its degree of specificity and diversification as compared to general language. Prior to any analysis of such traits the notion of specialized discourse and its distinctive properties are clarified also as compared to other features frequently occurring in specialized texts which cannot be considered distinctive. The presence of such properties are accounted for not only in linguistic but also in pragmatic terms since the approach is interpretative rather than merely descriptive. The complexity of this discourse calls for a multidimensional analysis covering both lexis and morpho syntax as well as textual patterning. Some lexical aspects morphosyntactic features and textual genres are also examined from a diachronic perspective thus showing how various conventions concerning specialized discourse have developed over the last
