The Economics and Management of World Fisheries Trond Bjørndal, Gordon Munro, 2012-10-25 Capture fisheries make contributions to the world economy that are below their potential Many of the world s capture fishery resources have been overexploited with some facing collapse This book presents an overview of the current economics of capture fisheries and examines how they can achieve their full economic potential

Report of the International Workshop on the Implementation of International Fisheries Instruments and Factors of Unsustainability and Overexploitation in Fisheries FAO/Japan Government Cooperative Programme, 2004-01-01 The workshop referred closely to the results of a first workshop held in Bangkok in 2002 The International Workshop on Factors Contributing to Unsustainability and Overexploitation in Fisheries but aimed more specifically at answering the following three major questions What are the major obstacles to the implementation of major legal instruments What are the main lessons learned and the possible paths to solutions for improved implementation What are the possible gaps that may exist in these instruments to guide the international community in improving the management of marine fisheries The workshop was based on a review of eleven case studies each relating to one of the following categories of fishery large volume small pelagics tuna and tuna like species large volume demersals and coastal fisheries This publication contains the report of the Workshop discussion papers containing case studies and notes submitted by participants The document and in particular the conclusions adopted by workshop participants will serve as a basis for further analytical work aimed at improved fisheries management and a more effective implementation of major international fisheries instruments Marine Fisheries Review ,1988 The Closing of the Frontier John G. Butcher,2022-07-18

This book is the first on the history of the marine fisheries of Southeast Asia It takes as its central theme the movement of fisheries into new fishing grounds particularly the diverse ecosystems that make up the seas of Southeast Asia This process accelerated between the 1950s and 1970s in what the author calls the great fish race Catches soared as the population of the region grew demand from Japan and North America for shrimps and tuna increased and fishers adopted more efficient ways of locating catching and preserving fish But the great fish race soon brought about the severe depletion of one fish population after another while pollution and the destruction of mangroves and coral reefs degraded fish habitats Today the relentless movement into new fishing grounds has come to an end for there are no new fishing grounds to exploit The frontier of fisheries has closed The challenge now is to exploit the seas in ways that preserve the diversity of marine life while providing the people of the region with a source of food long into the future Strategies and Options for Increasing and Sustaining Fisheries and Aquaculture Production to Benefit Poorer Households in Asia ,2008

Guidelines on the Collection of Demographic and Socio-economic Information on Fishing Communities for Use in Coastal and Aquatic Resources Management Lolita V. Villareal,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2004-01-01 These guidelines specify key indicators for the identification of demographic issues in coastal area management and for monitoring the impact of management measures on the socio economic well being of coastal and fishing communities The guidelines also identify data sources and methods for the collection of data Case studies on the use of demographic data in coastal area management in Italy and the United States of America and a summary of the proceedings of a regional workshop on the use of demographic data in coastal area management in the Philippines and other Southeast and South Asian countries provide practical examples of how demographic indicators are used Assessment, management and future directions for coastal fisheries in Asian countries Silvestre, G. et al,2003-12-08 In Asia the fisheries sector is important in terms of food security livelihoods and foreign exchange earnings However as in many parts of the world there are signs that capture fisheries are fully exploited or overfished Management of fisheries in the region is often hampered by lack of information on the status of fisheries in terms of biological social economic policy and governance aspects This regional project documents an alarming decline on coastal fishery resources based on historic research surveys in South and Southeast Asia Socio economic analyses and policy reviews highlight the importance of the fisheries sector but also the challenges facing it Potential interventions to improve fisheries management in the countries are outlined and defined with
