including indigenous communities and multiple scales of potential conflicts and compromises This groundbreaking book covers 15 contributions organized around four cross cutting themes of communities and livelihoods class representation and power dispossession and displacement and environmental justice and community empowerment This book will be of great interest to students and scholars in tourism geography anthropology sociology environmental studies and natural resources management

Environmental Conflict and Democracy in Canada Laurie E. Adkin, 2010-01-01 The urgent need to resolve conflicts over forests fisheries farming practices urban sprawl and greenhouse gas reductions among many others calls for a critical rethinking of the nature of our democracy and citizenship This work aims to move the ideas of green democracy and ecological citizenship from the margins to the centre of discussion and debate in Canada Environmental Conflict and Democracy in Canada offers sixteen case studies to demonstrate that environmental conflicts are always about our rights and responsibilities as citizens as well as the quality of our democratic institutions By bringing together environmental politics and democratic theory this path breaking collection charts a new course for research and activism one that reveals the deficits of citizenship and how democracy must be extended to achieve a socially just ecologically sustainable society

Johnson,2020-03-06 The Far North a land of extreme weather and intense beauty is the only region of North America whose ecosystems have remained reasonably intact Humans are newcomers there and nature predominates As is widely known recent changes in the Earth s atmosphere have the potential to create rapid climatic shifts in our life time and well into the future These changes a product of southern industrial society will have the greatest impact on ecosystems at northern latitudes which until now have remained largely undisturbed In this fragile balance as terrestrial and aquatic habitats change animal and human populations will be irrevocably altered Feminist Political Ecology and the Economics of Care Christine Bauhardt,Wendy

Trettin,2018-12-19 Forested wetlands are a major component of northern landscapes important both for their ecological functions and their socioeconomic values Historically these lands have been used for timber and fiber products hunting fishing trapping food gathering and recreation There are many questions about the use and management of these lands in the future particularly with respect to forest products hydrology and water quality plant and wildlife ecology landscape dynamics and wetland restoration Northern Forested Wetlands Ecology and Management provides a synthesis of current research and literature It examines the status distribution and use of these wetland resources The book focuses on understanding the role of wetlands in the landscape and on how to manage these wetlands and sustain their important functions This is a primary reference text for the study and management of northern forested wetlands providing a forum for information discovered by researchers and managers from many nations

Environmental Problem Solving Alan Miller, 2013-12-01 Human influences create both environmental problems and barriers to effective policy aimed at addressing those problems In effect environmental managers manage people as much as they manage the environment Therefore they must gain an understanding of the psychological and sociopolitical dimensions of environmental problems that they are attempting to resolve In Environmental Problem Solving Alan Miller reappraises conventional analyses of environmental problems using lessons from the psychosocial disciplines He combines the disciplines of ecology political sociology and psychology to produce a more adaptive approach to problem solving that is specifically geared toward the environmental field Numerous case studies demonstrate the practical application of theory in a way that is useful to technical and scientific professionals as well as to policy makers and planners Alan Miller is Professor of Psychology at the University of New Brunswick
