World Trade Law after Neoliberalism Andrew Lang, 2013-01-17 The rise of economic liberalism in the latter stages of the 20th century coincided with a fundamental transformation of international economic governance especially through the law of the World Trade Organization In this book Andrew Lang provides a new account of this transformation and considers its enduring implications for international law Against the commonly held idea that neoliberal policy prescriptions were encoded into WTO law Lang argues that the last decades of the 20th century saw a reinvention of the international trade regime and a reconstitution of its internal structures of knowledge In addition the book explores the way that resistance to economic liberalism was expressed and articulated over the same period in other areas of international law most prominently international human rights law It considers the promise and limitations of this form of inter regime contestation arguing that measures to ensure greater collaboration and cooperation between regimes may fail in their objectives if they are not accompanied by a simultaneous destabilization of each regime s structures of knowledge and characteristic features With that in mind the book contributes to a full and productive contestation of the nature and purpose of global economic governance

Gender, Equality and Social Justice Sharron FitzGerald, Jane Freedman, 2022-09-19 This book addresses a gap in both contemporary theorising and empirical analysis of the European Union s EU law and policy frameworks on migration sex work and anti trafficking Drawing on the authors previous research on these policies and with their practical experience of engaging with various EU institutions in law and policy making fora around gender equality and justice the work examines the processes involved in constructing and enacting policy frameworks and legal interventions on these issues within a feminist analytical framework The authors map how EU agenda setting operates and detail the roles that various EU institutions external groups and actors including non governmental organisations play in promoting or blocking policy on these three issues The book draws on feminist theorising on gender policy making and social justice to develop a general theoretical framework to help us understand how and why a consensus has seemingly been achieved at EU level on what constitutes gender equality in these three policy areas The book presents a valuable resource for academics researchers and policy makers in Law Migration EU policy making and Gender Studies

Globalization Development and Social Justice Ann El Khoury,2015-03-27 Are there existing alternatives to corporate globalization What are the prospects for and commonalities between communities and movements such as Occupy the World Social Forum and alternative economies Globalization Development and Social Justice advances the proposition that another globalization is not only possible but already exists It demonstrates that there are multiple pathways towards development with social justice and argues that enabling propositional agency rather than oppositional agency such as resistance is a more effective alternative to neoliberal globalization El Khoury develops a theory of infraglobalization that emphasizes creative constitution not just contestation of global and local processes The book features case studies and examples of diverse economic practice and innovative emergent political forms from the Global South and North These case studies are located in the informal social economy and community development as well as everyday practices from prefigurative politics to community cooperatives and participatory planning This book makes an important contribution to debates about the prospects for and practices of a transformative grassroots globalization and to critical debates about globalization and development strategies It will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations globalization social movement studies political and economic geography sociology anthropology and development studies Human Rights: Chinese and Dutch Perspectives Liu Nanlai,Tao Zhenghua,Fried van Hoof,Jacqueline Smith,Peter R. Baehr,2023-08-28 This volume contains the papers which were presented at a symposium on human rights held in September 1994 in Beijing and organized within the framework of an academic programme of co operation between the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences and the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences The focal point of most of the papers is the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action adopted during the 1993 Vienna World Conference on Human Rights which from the perspective of particularly the Chinese participants is considered as marking a new beginning in the field of human rights Taking the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action as a point of departure the following main themes were the subject of discussion at the symposium and are more or less similarly reflected in the present volume universality versus particularity individual rights versus collective rights national sovereignty and matters of international concern ratification of international treaties

Need-Based Distributive Justice Stefan Traub,Bernhard Kittel,2020-04-29 This book explores the foundations and potential of a theory of need based distributive justice supported by experimental evidence The core idea is that need based distributive justice may have some legitimacy advantages over other important principles of distribution like equality and equity and therefore involves less dispute over the distribution and redistribution of scarce resources In seven chapters eleven scholars from the fields of philosophy psychology sociology political science and economics outline the normative and positive building blocks of such a theory by critically reviewing the literature on distributive justice from their respective disciplinary perspectives They address important theoretical and practical issues concerning the rationality of needs identification at the individual level and the recognition of needs at the societal level They also investigate whether and how the dynamics of distribution procedures that allocate resources according to the need principle leads to social stability focusing on the economic incentives that arise from need based redistribution The final chapter provides a synthesis and outlines a framework for a theory of justice based on ten hypotheses derived from the insights presented The Human Right to Water Malcolm Langford,Anna F. S. Russell,2017-10-05 The first book to engage in a comprehensive examination of the human right to water in theory and in practice
