Social and Economic Policies in Korea Dong-Myeon Shin, 2003-12-08 The sustained remarkable economic growth in the East Asian countries Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Singapore has brought about a great deal of debate over the role of the state in the market and society. Shin analyses the dynamic process of state interventions in the economy and social affairs in Korea from the early 1960s until the present, with special reference to five policy areas: macro economic policy, industrial policy, social security policy, labour policy, and education and training policy. Social and Economic Policies in Korea develops a unique explanation about the development of Korean social policy using the concepts of policy idea, policy network, and policy linkages to examine the causes, patterns, and consequences of state interventions in the economy and social affairs over time. Policy and Economic Performance in Divided Korea during the Cold War Era: 1945-91 Nicholas Eberstadt, 2010-03-16 In Policy and Economic Performance in Divided Korea during the Cold War Era: 1945-91, Eberstadt presents an impressive compilation of hard-to-find comparative data on economic performance for the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) or North Korea and the Republic of Korea (ROK) or South Korea over two critical generations. By a number of indicators, Eberstadt argues, Kim Il Sung's North Korea actually outperformed South Korea for much of this period, not only in the years immediately following partition but perhaps also into the 1970s

This incisive book probes the dynamics that inform the nation's domestic and foreign policies, examining key leadership institutions and personalities as well as prospects for the next regime. In outlining the major events behind Kim Chong-il's assumption of power, Ken E. Gause illuminates the environment that shaped Chong-il's worldview and his concept of the regime and his role in it. The book focuses on regime politics since 1994. Among other critical topics, the book examines the evolution of North Korean decision making with regard to its internal and external affairs and how both are intermingled. North Korea Hy-Sang Lee,2000-11-30 As perennial famine and material shortages call into question the tenability of North Korea s military authoritarian government the international community has struggled to reconcile contradictory humanitarian economic and political goals in formulating foreign policy and aid responses to the secretive Pyongyang regime In a historical analysis drawing heavily on primary sources Lee attacks the problem at its root the assumption of policy makers that Pyongyang s belligerence and intractability is an attempt to secure autonomy and national legitimacy in the eyes of the world Rather Lee argues close review of the available evidence demonstrates convincingly that forced reunification with South Korea is the only discernible goal of the Pyongyang government and that the key strategy of the reunification program is a war of attrition against the U S military presence in the South Lee begins with a summary history and moves on to examine the formation of the North Korean communist state in the wake of World War II The implementation of state programs in the 1950s and 1960s follows including the drive towards industrialization the emergence of the Juche ideology and collectivization of agriculture Remaining chapters focus on the recent history of North Korea and offer concluding analysis and remarks
