essays and discussion with Fulbright scholar Mr Tasawar Baig and Professor David Earnest at Old Dominion University Some ideas and thoughts were also inspired by Professor Robert Putnam at the Harvard University John F Kennedy School of Government and Professor Zbigniew Kazimierz Brzezinski former US National Security Advisor when they did lectures and special discussion with me at Old Dominion University in 2009 and 2012 respectively In The Third Wave 1991 Samuel Huntington explains various sociopolitical factors caused radical political changes in developing countries His analysis shows that for Africa the main obstacle for building democracy is economy While for East Asia and the Middle East the major obstacle are culture and religion Huntington s analysis oversimplified the driving factors of democratization in specific case such as China a hybrid of Capitalist economy and communist politics This paper measures the current democratization of Chinese politics from three perspectives social capital rapid economic development and radical social movement Thus the grand question is whether these factors can lead to a regime change in China The author draws a conclusion that the radical political change is possible but not desirable in Chinese politics In the eyes of rising Chinese middle Class a Singaporean political transformation or South Korean democratization is more favored than radical democratization Following the US Presidential election China went through a one week meeting of the 18th National Congress starting on November 8 2012 Without much surprise Xi replaced Hu becoming the core of Chinese communist power The power transition seems to be smooth in Chinese media coverage However anecdotes rumors unofficial reports and foreign news exposed the political battle behind the stage President Xi is now facing a stark different situation compared to Hu Today China is the world s second largest economy At the same time China is experiencing rising mass disturbance every year As a non democracy leaders past experience network and personality can greatly influence state policies With more people getting rich and educated the mass claim the mismatch between Chinese politics and economy Other than changing domestic Chinese politics China has drawn much attention internationally China s presence in Africa and the Middle East tightens the nerves of U S policy makers Is China a peaceful or benign riser Where is China heading toward What interests are Chinese companies pursuing and what strategies are they using globally The book investigates these questions in different chapters Globalization is the current trend As a propeller China s participation in global trade greatly shapes world order In return global trade also produced effects on China s domestic labor market particularly on the traditional Chinese women labors This book is a sound recipe integrating both faces of China domestically and internationally     Institutional System Analysis in Political Economy Taner Akan, 2016-03-09 The enduring debate on institutional pillars of contemporary political economies has gathered a noticeable momentum in terms of the change path dependence and varieties of capitalism By taking a methodological standpoint claiming that the current structure and the future of contemporary societies can only be understood by using an evolutionary and macro institutional approach that would explain the trajectories of social structures from a systemic perspective this book first aims at formulating a novel analytical framework thus Institutional System

Analysis in Political Economy This framework comprises inter alia a model of path dependent changes and then attempts to apply it to the case of the Ottoman Turkish social system In sum the book develops an interaction theoretic and evolutionarily structured approach with an aim to better capture the path dependence and change of political economic and cultural action in terms of their intersectional dynamics
