Economics in Urban Conservation Lichfield Nathaniel,1988      Urban Conservation and Urban Economic Development Phyllis Myers (urban planning and conservation professional),1980      The Economics of Uniqueness Guido Licciardi,Rana Amirtahmasebi,2012-10-01 In a world where half of the population lives in cities and more than 90 percent of urban growth is occurring in the developing world cities struggle to modernize without completely losing their unique character which is embodied by their historic cores and cultural heritage assets As countries develop cultural heritage can provide a crucial element of continuity and stability the past can become a foundation for the future This book collects innovative research papers authored by leading scholars and practitioners in heritage economics and presents the most current knowledge on how heritage assets can serve as drivers of local economic development What this book tries to suggest is a workable approach to explicitly take into account the cultural dimensions of urban regeneration in agglomerations that have a history and possess a unique character going beyond an approach based solely on major cultural heritage assets or landmarks The knowledge disseminated through this book will help stakeholders involved in preparation implementation and supervision of development investments to better assess the values of cultural heritage assets and incorporate them in urban development policies      Handbook of Cultural Economics, Third Edition Ruth Towse,Trilce Navarrete Hernández,2020-03-28 Cultural economics has become well established as a subject of interest for students and teachers of courses ranging from economics to arts administration as well as for policy makers and practitioners in the creative industries Digitisation has had a tremendous impact on many areas of the creative economy and the third edition of this popular book fully reflects it      Urban Economics and Land Use in America: The Transformation of Cities in the Twentieth Century Alan Rabinowitz,2015-06-11 This is a book about the reality of place in America the events and influences that led to the America we recognize today It is a book about the growth of American cities and their suburbs during the twentieth century about institutions and metropolitan governance about real estate development and finance about housing and the lack of it about the emergence and perhaps the eventual debilitation of cities and suburbs alike Incorporating the thinking of visionary city planners and land use economists the author presents a lucid primer on the economics of land its development and usage and on how things actually get done in the real estate industry      Urban Land Economics Herbert Benjamin Dorau,Albert Greene Hinman,1928      Cultural Commons and Urban Dynamics Emanuela Macri,Valeria Morea,Michele Trimarchi,2020-10-13 Today cities are being intensively reshaped by unexpected dynamics The rise and growth of the digital economy have fundamentally changed the relationship between the urban fabric and its resident community overcoming the conventional hierarchy based on production priorities Moreover contemporary society discovers new labour conditions and ways of satisfying needs and desires by developing new synergies and links This book examines cultural and urban commons from a multidisciplinary perspective Economists architects urban planners sociologists designers political scientists and artists explore the impact and implications of cultural commons on urban change The contributions discuss both cases of successful urban participation and cases of strong social conflict while also addressing a host of institutional contradictions and dilemmas The first part of the book examines urban commons in response to institutional constraints from a theoretical point of view The second and third parts apply the theories to case studies and discuss various practices of sustainable planning and re appropriation in the urban context In closing the fourth part develops a new urban agenda as artists imagine it This book will appeal to scholars interested in the social economic and institutional implications of cultural and urban commons and provide useful insights and tools to help local governments and policymakers manage social cultural and economic change

The Historic Urban Landscape Francesco Bandarin,Ron van Oers,2012-03-19 Much of the current debate on how we should preserve our cultural heritage revolves around urban sites historic monuments in urban settings historic districts or complete historic towns The growing complexity of urban heritage conservation makes reaching a consensus on how to manage urban heritage difficult Additionally the sharp increase in the world s population now living in urban areas combined with a lack of policies to facilitate a sustainable use of heritage assets means the pressure on historic sites is set to rise Unless new and innovative ways of managing these sites can be agreed on there is a real danger that historic cities as we know them today will not survive the first decades of the 21st century The Historic Urban Landscape managing heritage in an urban century offers a comprehensive overview of the intellectual developments in urban conservation The book examines its modern interpretations and critiques and the way in which the classical approach has been challenged by the evolution of the conceptual and operational context of urban management Analyses are provided of how World Heritage sites are managed with associated debates and decisions to inform the development of local urban conservation policies and practices The authors offer unique insights from UNESCO's World Heritage Centre and the book is richly illustrated with colour photographs Examples are drawn from urban heritage sites worldwide from Timbuktu to Liverpool to demonstrate key issues and best practice in urban conservation today The book offers an invaluable resource for architects planners surveyors and engineers worldwide working in heritage conservation as well as for local authority conservation officers and managers of heritage sites

Evaluation in Planning Nathaniel Lichfield, Angela Barbanente, Dino Borri, Abdul Khakee, Anna Prat, 2013-03-09 This book is the result of a three day workshop on Evaluation in theory and practice in spatial planning held in Ramsey Hall University College London in September 1996 Some 30 people from 8 different countries attended and 20 papers were presented The majority of them now form the basis for this book This occasion was the third on the topic the two preceding having taken place in Umea in June 1992 and in Bari in 1994 Following these three meetings we can now say that this small industrious international family really enjoy meeting up from time to time at each others places in the presence of older members and new children each one presenting his her own recent experiences It particularly enjoys exchanging views and arguing about the current state and the future of evaluation in spatial planning all families have their vices It is also pleasing to see these experiences and discussions resulting in a book for those who could not attend and for the broader clan in the field Not long time ago but ages in the accelerated academic time scale evaluation in planning established its own role and distinct features as an instrument for helping the decision making process Now this role and these features are exposed to major challenges First the evolution of planning theory has led to the conception of new planning paradigms based on theories of complexity and communicative rationality
