Growing Up in the Care of Relatives Or Friends Mike Doolan, Paul Nixon, Patrice Lawrence, 2004

Restorative Justice and Family Violence Joan Pennell, 2025-09-25 By engaging families in taking charge of their affairs restorative justice can reverse family violence

But the expansion of restorative programming into family violence is stymied by fears of setting family members at risk and heightening agency liability if harm results. How does this anthology counter these fears? In response, it provides two decades of studies documenting successes of a restorative approach with gendered and intergenerational violence. It offers feminist frameworks to explain how these successes are achieved. And finally, the author turns to cultural and religious messages from her own upbringing as a Quaker Religious Society of Friends to explain why a restorative approach makes lasting and just peace in homes. The aim is to encourage others to identify such principles in their own backgrounds to safely and confidently expand the use of restorative programming to safeguard children and adults in the home.

This collection discusses the origins and theoretical underpinnings of family-led decision making and brings together the current research on the efficacy and limitations of FGCs into a single text. This insightful book also covers topics such as the use of FGCs in different areas of children and families social work, uses case studies to illustrate current practice and explores whether FGCs should become a mainstream function of children and families social work.

Kinship Care Elaine Farmer, Sue Moyers, 2008-05-15 This book compares formal kinship care to traditional foster placements. The authors explore whether children placed with family and friends fare better or worse than other foster children, what services are provided and needed, and how kin care is experienced by carers, children, and social workers.
