Mayer, Elisabeth Vanderheiden, Orna Braun-Lewensohn, Gila Chen, Kiyoko Sueda, Brightness Mangolothi, Saba Safdar, Soyeon Kim, 2023-07-08 This edited volume focuses on women's empowerment for a sustainable future. It takes cultural and transcultural and positive psychology perspectives into consideration and explores the topic of women's empowerment from diverse stances across social strata, cultural divides as well as economic and political divisions. It addresses the critique of the overly Western focus of positive psychology on this topic by adopting a transnational and transcultural lens and by taking non-WEIRD (Western Educated Industrialized Rich Democratic) samples into in-depth consideration. The chapters therefore focus on women from diverse socio-cultural, political, socio-economic backgrounds and discuss their ways of empowering others and being empowered. They also discuss related positive psychology constructs such as coping, resilience, transformation, growth, leadership, creativity, identity development, sustainable action as well as positive socio-economic, political, and eco-sustainable thought and action. The volume as a whole looks at women's leadership as a factor of empowerment. A further fundamental assumption is that women's empowerment is needed to create a sustainable future at micro, meso, and macro levels which presumes safety, peace, ecological considerations, and compassionate leadership.

Aspirations and women's empowerment: Evidence from Kyrgyzstan Kosec, Katrina, Song, Jie, 2018-12-18. We find strong empirical evidence that raising aspirations is one route to empowering women. Higher aspirations on the part of husbands predicts more egalitarian gender attitudes for both the husband and his wife. However, higher aspirations on the part of wives may be an even more important predictor of women's empowerment. In particular, higher aspirations on the part of wives predict both more egalitarian gender attitudes for both the husband and his wife as well as greater involvement of women in household decision making as agreed by both the wife and her husband.

Does market inclusion empower women? Evidence from Bangladesh Raghunathan, Kalyani, Ramani, Gayathri, Rubin, Deborah, Pereira, Audrey, Ahmed, Akhter, Malapit, Hazel J., Quisumbing, Agnes R., 2021-03-17

Increased market inclusion through participation in agricultural value chains may increase employment and household incomes but evidence on its empowerment impacts is mixed In societies with restrictive social norms greater market inclusion can enhance existing income and empowerment inequalities by relegating marginalized groups including women to low value chains or lower value nodes within those chains We use primary data from rural Bangladesh to investigate the associations between households primary economic activity agricultural wage earning production or entrepreneurship and absolute and relative levels of men s and women s empowerment Women in producer households on average fare better on empowerment outcomes than women in wage earner or entrepreneur households the opposite is true for men The gap between men s and women s empowerment scores is also lowest in producer households A decomposition of these results into composite indicators yields insights into potential trade offs while accompanying qualitative work highlights the importance of social and cultural norms in shaping the economic roles women can adopt With a push towards diversification of agriculture into higher value market oriented crops more careful programming is needed to ensure that market inclusion translates into an increase in women s empowerment
