Ephross,Thomas V. Vassil,2005-02-09 Social workers planners health professionals and human service administrators spend much of their time in meetings working in and with groups What meaning does participation in these groups have for members Some of the events that are most important for members of the various professions and those whom they serve take place within these groups Health and human services depend upon their working groups for their development and allocation of resources their standards of quality and the evaluation of their success or failure In short these groups are relied upon to come up with creative solutions to complex problems Despite the amount of time spent in meetings committees and so on very little has been written about the skills necessary for effective participation and leadership within working groups With that in mind Ephross and Vassil combine innovative group theory and practice in this how to guide for professionals who take a variety of roles within the group They draw on examples from social agencies a hospital a low income community and the boardroom providing practical principles for day to day group life based on a democratic model This revised edition also explores the changes that have taken place in the structure and operation of working groups in recent years and the heightened expectations for groups within large organizations Group Workers at Work Paul H.
