

Class chart. Make a chart that shows how jobs have changed in your countries in the past 10 years. Who were the employers before? Who are the employers now? What kinds of jobs were common 10 years ago? Five years ago? Today? What has caused these changes? Why have these changes happened?

Country	Jobs 10 years ago	Jobs 5 years ago	Jobs today

Make sentences describing the changes in jobs in your country. Use there is, there are, there was, there were to indicate the present tense and the past tense.

Examples.

In my country, there were many factory jobs 10 years ago. Now, there is unemployment.

In my country, there were many farms with different crops 10 years ago. Now there are only large farms that export coffee.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

Time lines. Put up a long strip of paper on the wall of your classroom (by attaching smaller strips). Make two time lines on the strip. Put dates on the two lines, starting with about 50 years ago and ending with this year. Then add important dates and events in your countries or in the world on the top time line. On the bottom time line, add important dates or events in your families' lives or your own lives.

Watzke, Miguel Mantero, 2022-01-01 Language and Society is the fifth volume of the Readings in Language Studies series published by the International Society for Language Studies Inc Edited by Paul Chamness Miller Hidehiro Endo John L Watzke and Miguel Mantero volume five sustains the society's mission to organize and disseminate the work of its contributing members through peer reviewed publications The book presents international perspectives on language and society in three thematic sections teaching practices pedagogy policy and culture A resource for scholars and students Language and Society represents the latest scholarship in new and emergent areas of inquiry Gender, Literacy, and Empowerment in Morocco Fatima Agnaou, 2004-08-02 This book's concept concerns the positive correlation between literacy and women's development and empowerment in developing countries Progress in Preventing AIDS? David Ross Buchanan, George Peter Cernada, 2019-03-19 Originally published in the International Quarterly of Community Health Education this work presents twenty one chapters about the state of HIV AIDS prevention programs in a global context

Teachers as Course Developers Kathleen Graves, 1996-02-23 Teachers as Course Developers is a book about how language teachers themselves rather than curriculum specialists develop and implement their own courses It uses a unique case study approach featuring the stories of six teachers who successfully designed their own courses in different settings in Japan the U S and Latin America The book provides a framework for the processes of course development which any teacher can use in developing his or her own courses Each chapter highlights a different aspect of the framework based on the particular teacher's approach and examines how the teacher has utilized or departed from the framework in meeting the challenges of a particular situation Each narrative is followed by a set of tasks and discussion questions An annotated bibliography is also included Values, Philosophies, and Beliefs in TESOL: Making a Statement Graham Crookes, 2009-02-16 This insightful book chronicles the many influences and developments that have helped shape the language teaching profession today Negotiating Critical Literacies in Classrooms Barbara Comber, Anne Simpson, 2001-06-01 Negotiating Critical Literacies in Classrooms brings together accounts of educators who have sought to make a difference in the lives of their students through literacy education from university classrooms in the United States England and South Africa to policy and curriculum development in Singapore and Australia Each chapter represents the results of extended research on classroom practice The authors in this collection write as teachers The literacy classrooms they explore range from the early years of schooling to primary and secondary education through to community and university sites Although the volume is organized around different levels of education clearly overlapping themes emerge across the chapters including identity formation and textual practices politicizing curriculum and textbook production and changing the power relations in classroom talk around text An overarching theme of this collection is the belief that there is no one generic universal critical literacy in theory or in practice Rather the authors reveal how a range of theories can serve as productive starting points for educators working on social justice agendas through the literacy curriculum and equally important how particular critical literacy theories or pedagogies must be worked out in specific locations In each of these accounts educators explain how they have taken a body of theory and worked with and on it in classrooms Their rich portrayals and narratives of classroom realities illustrate the unanticipated effects of pedagogies that emerge in specific contexts Experiences from the classrooms have led them to revise theories that are central to critical literacy including constructs such as empowerment resistance and multiple readings This collection documents what occurs when educators confront the difficult ethical and political issues that evolve in particular classroom situations Negotiating Critical Literacies in Classrooms is appropriate as a text for courses in language and literacy education and will be of broad interest to educational researchers practitioners and theorists The practical classroom focus makes this book accessible and of interest to a wide range of teachers and an excellent resource for professional development The international scope will appeal to a global educational readership
