The History of the Crusades

The strong, skilled, knights planned to travel all across northeastern Europe to fight the ultimate battles to expand their territories, but what were they doing? Crusading. It went on more than 150 years according to historian debates. The crusades had a history of 8 bloody battles, Pope Urban II had to make an educated decision for the people, and the crusades left their mark on the world.

The history of the crusades began when Western Europe had gained significant power by the end of the 11th century although it still did not have as much as other Mediterranean civilizations. Seljuk Turks invaded Byzantium and gained control of a vast number of land. "After years of chaos and civil war, the general Alexius Comnenus seized the Byzantine throne in 1081 and consolidated control over the remaining empire as Emperor Alexius I (History)." In 1095, Alexius asked Pope Urban II for troops to help against the Turkish threat. He knew that he could not do it alone, and that the Pope had helped emperors times before.

So what was the harm in asking? What Alexius didn't know this would be the mark of a new beginning and the start of the Crusades. "In November 1095, at the Council of Clermont in southern France, the Pope called on western Christians to take up arms to aid the Byzantines and recapture the Holy Land from Muslim control (History)." This was the birth of the crusades. The crusades were knights who would travel across Europe, battling, killing thousands, to expand their territory. "After pronouncing a solemn vow, each warrior received a cross from the hands of the pope or his legates, and was thenceforth considered a soldier of the Church.

Crusaders were also granted indulgences and temporal privileges, such as exemption from civil jurisdiction, inviolability of persons or lands, etc. (Bréhier)." A lot tried to go on the crusades. Even the priests and monks, who had taken religious vows, tried to go. They often found loop holes and went on the crusades. It was very tough. It meant leaving your family behind for years or possibly forever. In 1096, The First Crusade began and the knights attacked Nicea. In 1098, they headed toward Jerusalem.

In order to get into Jerusalem, the Crusaders murdered hundreds of men, women, and children. Something that would haunt them forever and still be remembered today. In 1147, the Second Crusade began as they went after Damascus' army, which was a fail. The Third Crusade began in 1187, which ended with a peace treaty with Richard and Saladin. The Fourth Crusade was when they declared war on Constantinople. The Fifth Crusade, was by Pope Innocent III, the Crusaders attacked Egypt for their land and sea, but failed due to Muslim defenders. The battles went on until finally it ended.

Why did Pope Urban II decide to help Alexios I Komnenos in 1095 CE against the Turkish threat? Maybe for his own reasons, such as being the Pope of the Western and Eastern Christian c
