Essays In New Testament Interpretation:

Essays in New Testament Interpretation C. F. D. Moule, 1982-07-08 This selection of the Rev C F D Moule's essays represents the whole range of Professor Moule's contribution to New Testament studies New Testament Interpretation I. Howard Marshall, 2006-10-01 These eighteen pieces have been commissioned to provide a succinct yet comprehensive guide to the best of recent evangelical thinking about how the New Testament is to be interpreted so that it may speak most clearly to today's world The need for such a handbook can be felt more keenly as on the one side a secularized world dismisses the biblical faith as outmoded unworkable and unsatisfying and on the other numerous Christian communities committed to taking that faith with ultimate seriousness are driven by controversies about how to read and understand the Bible Following the editor's introduction in which I Howard Marshall examines a familiar New Testament passage in order to exemplify the problems and rewards that await the careful interpreter the essays are arranged under four headings beginning with overviews of the history of New Testament study and the role of the interpreter's presuppositions in this enterprise then going on to discuss the various critical tools the methods of exegesis and the application of the New Testament to the faith and life of the contemporary reader An annotated bibliography concludes the presentation Because the issues involved here have too often been ignored in many quarters more than one approach to or opinion about a given matter may surface in these essays yet undergirding this diversity is the author's shared conviction as conservative evangelicals with a high regard for the authority of Holy Scripture that we are called upon to study the Bible with the full use of our minds As the editor writes The passages which we interpret must be the means through which God speaks to men and women today Our belief in the inspiration of the Bible is thus a testimony that New Testament exegesis is not just a problem it is a real possibility God can and does speak to men through even the most ignorant of expositors of his Word At the same time he calls us on to devote ourselves to his Word and use every resource to make its message the more clear Current Issues in New Textlinguistic Analysis of Selected Old Testament Texts in Matthew 1-4 Jeffery L. Capshaw, 2004 While providing exciting research opportunities the New Testament's use of the Old Testament continues to create interpretive difficulties Although Matthew's use of the Old Testament generated much scholarly discussion throughout the historical critical period during the contemporary period specific interest in Matthew's Old Testament usage seemed to decrease Recently however many powerful analytical approaches have come to the fore in biblical studies including various text centered methods such as textlinguistics also known as discourse analysis This book applies one specific type of discourse grammar to several Old Testament citations in Matthew's Gospel This analysis is presented both to initiate discussion and to show how this and similar methods might be utilized to contribute important perspectives on the New Testament's use of the Old Testament

Discourse Features of New Testament Greek Stephen H. Levinsohn,2025-03-31 This coursebook is designed to be used in connection with lectures and discussion groups or in a self instruction environment The book takes a functional approach and builds on the principle that choice implies meaning Each chapter presents one or more discourse features of Koine Greek that have been shown to make a significant contribution to the exegesis of the Greek New Testament Part I discusses default orders of constituents in clauses sentences and phrases together with the significance of marked orders Part II identifies the constraint that each common conjunction imposes on how readers are to relate the sentence concerned to its context Part III considers patterns of reference including why once participants have been introduced they are sometimes referred to only in the verb and sometimes by means of a pronoun or noun phrase as well It also addresses the significance of omitting the article when referring to activated participants or concepts Part IV describes some features that have the effect of backgrounding or highlighting information such as the encoding of information in a participial or relative clause and the use of the historical present Part V considers how different ways of introducing reported speeches reflect their status in stories It also discusses the motivations for reporting conversation directly versus indirectly and the significance of introducing direct speech with recitativum The final part reviews criteria that may be cited to support or reject the segmenting of passages into sub units Readers need a basic knowledge of introductory Greek and discourse analysis All examples in the text are provided with a word by word translation Review questions and suggested answers are provided to assist in applying the principles In this edition the content has been extensively reviewed and polished including errata corrections from the prior edition Bridges in New Testament Interpretation Neil Elliott,Werner H.

Kelber,2018-04-30 The field of New Testament studies often appears splintered into widely different specializations and narrowly defined research projects Nevertheless some of the most important insights have come about when curious men and women have defied disciplinary boundaries and drawn on other fields of knowledge in order to gain a more adequate view of history The essays in Bridges in New Testament Interpretation offer surveys of the current scholarly discussion in areas of New Testament and Christian origins where cross disciplinary fertilization has been decisive and describe the role that interdisciplinary bridges especially as led by Richard A Horsley have played Topics include the socioeconomic history of Roman Palestine the historical Jesus in political and media contexts communication media orality and social context in the study of Q the Gospels in the context of oral culture performance and social memory reading Paul's letters in the context of Roman imperial culture the narrativization of early Christianity in relation to the ancient media environment and the role of power in shaping our understanding of history as evident in people's history the historical agency of subordinate classes and the role of public and hidden transcripts in contexts shaped by power relations Essays also address the role of the interpreter as engaged with the social and political concerns of our time The sum is even greater than the parts presenting a powerful argument for the value of further exploration across interdisciplinary bridges

A Discourse Analysis of the Letter to the Hebrews Cynthia Long Westfall, 2006-06-22 This study attempts to analyse the text of Hebrews with a method of discourse analysis primarily based on a form of systemic functional linguistics developed for Hellenistic Greek but it is also informed by other linguistic studies It begins with a general survey of the literature that is either influential or representative of approaches to the structure of Hebrews The survey is followed by an introduction to the terminology and definitions of discourse analysis as well as the theory behind the methodology and describes a procedure for analysing text Hebrews is treated as having three sections The first section of Hebrews 1:1-4:16 demonstrates the organization of the units the topic of the units the prominent text and the relationship of the first section with the rest of the discourse The second section of Hebrews 4:11-10:25 is described in two parts 4:11-7:28 and 8:1-10:25 because of its length There is an overlap between the first and second sections in 4:11-16 and between the second and third sections in 10:19-25 Both of these passages have a concluding function for the preceding context and a staging function for the following context so that they look backwards and forwards The third and final section in 10:19-13:25 contains the climax or discourse peak The study is concluded with a description of the coherence of the discourse and a presentation of a mental representation of the text JSNTS and Studies in New Testament Greek subseries
