

Metaphysics

Metaphysics is a branch in philosophy that primarily concerns with defining reality, nature of things which exist, and abstract concepts like time, space, being, identity etc. The first ever mention of metaphysics was in Aristotle's book Ta meta ta physika, which translates to "after the Physics". This book deals with the study of being, questions about reality and existence. However, modern metaphysics is a much broader concept than what was earlier defined. Many ideas in metaphysics can sometimes contradict modern concepts of sciences. Due to this conflict between ideas often rises. However, metaphysics of nature and science can inspire scientific inquiries particularly in fields of quantum physics and cosmology. Metaphysical ideas try to define a reality outside of our understanding and experiences. They raise questions about life and beyond. Only through constant questions about truth of this world, new innovations and discoveries can occur. There are different fields of metaphysical studies that include cosmology, ontology and epistemology.

Cosmology is defined as the study of the universe. It is considered a major branch metaphysics as it seeks answers to the truth of the universe. Cosmology is also considered to be a part of astrophysics and astronomy. Ontology refers to the understanding of being, and the nature of the world. Ontology can be used in many modern sciences such as information science, computational technology business and scientific research. Epistemology is the branch of metaphysics which deals with the studying of knowledge, its origins and limits. It has widespread applications in scientific research and data acquisition. The core concept of science is to learn and understand truths of the world. Through experimentation and studies we seek to increase our knowledge and understanding of the world. Only through constant questions of the reality and truth of the universe, these scientific inquiries can be possible. This in fact is the sole reason why metaphysics plays an important part in all branches of science and research and will continue to do so in future.

Pearce, 2017-12-08 Idealism is a family of metaphysical views each of which gives priority to the mental The best known forms of idealism in Western philosophy are Berkeleyan idealism which gives ontological priority to the mental minds and ideas over the physical bodies and Kantian idealism which gives a kind of explanatory priority to the mental the structure of the understanding over the physical the structure of the empirical world Although idealism was once a dominant view in Western philosophy it has suffered almost total neglect over the last several decades This book rectifies this situation by bringing together seventeen essays by leading philosophers on the topic of metaphysical idealism The various essays explain attack or defend a variety of idealistic theories including not only Berkeleyan and Kantian idealisms but also those developed in traditions less familiar to analytic philosophers including Buddhism and Hassidic Judaism Although a number of the articles draw on historical sources all will be of interest to philosophers working in contemporary metaphysics This volume aims to spark a revival of serious philosophical interest in metaphysical idealism Philosophy of Being Oliva Blanchette, 2003 This work aims to reopen the fundamental question of being It raises the question of being after the natural sciences and phenomenology have run their course and pursues it

Armour,2012-12-06 A book with so Hegelian a title should I suppose be more Hegelian than this one I share with Hegel the conviction that the rational is the real and the real is the rational I have learned something from Hegel and borrowed here and there But the reader should not jump to conclusions I rather fear that anti Hegelians will not get past the title and that Hegelians upon discovering heresy will give up after the first chapter but I continue to hope that my fear is quite unjustified I should I think say something about the relation between this book and an earlier work a University of London Ph D thesis entitled Some Problems in British Idealist Ontology a Re examination and Attempted Reconstruction There I surveyed some key problems in idealist metaphysics and also endeavoured to discover just how strong a case could be made for the idealist position I decided that a pretty strong case could be made and I was very nearly convinced by it The position I have developed here is no longer strictly speaking idealist though it is perhaps more nearly idealist than anything else I have used some ideas developed in the earlier work and some of the chapter titles are the same

Divine and Human Action Thomas V. Morris, 2019-05-15

Reality and Value Arthur Campbell

Garnett, 2019-03-06 Originally published in 1937 This book addresses the importance of the theory of values that rests on a general metaphysical understanding founded on a comprehensive view of all aspects of the world The author speaks against the absolutist theories with a realistic one encompassing a theory of space and time and considering value as an object of immediate intuition These great philosophical questions feed into discussions of the philosophy of religion and of science Garnett distinguishes between spiritual and other values on the ground that the spiritual values are not subjective to satiety while other values are He contends that our knowledge of mind is as direct and reliable as our knowledge of the physical world This is an important early book by an influential 20th Century thinker

The Individual and Reality Edward

Douglas Fawcett, 1909

Selves Galen Strawson, 2009-07-30 What is the self Does it exist If it does exist what is it like It s not clear that we even know what we re asking about when we ask these large metaphysical questions The idea of the self comes very naturally to us and it seems rather important but it s also extremely puzzling As for the word self it s been taken in so many different ways that it seems that you can mean more or less what you like by it and come up with almost any answer Galen Strawson proposes to approach the seeming problem of the self by starting from the thing that makes it seem there is a problem in the first place our experience of the self our experience of having or being a self a hidden inner mental presence or locus of consciousness He argues that we should consider the phenomenology experience of the self before we attempt its metaphysics its existence and nature And when we have considered what it s like for human beings assuming we can generalize about ourselves we need to consider what it might be like for other possible creatures what s the very least that might count as experience of oneself as a self This he proposes will give us a good idea of what we ought to be looking for when we go on to ask whether there is such a thing an idea worth following wherever it leads It leads Strawson to conclude that selves inner subjects of experience do indeed exist But they bear little resemblance to traditional conceptions of the self Modes of Referring and the Problem of Universals ,2021-09-09 Individuality Jorge J. E. Gracia,1988-01-01

The author begins by distinguishing six fundamental issues on the metaphysics of individuality He then proceeds to examine the relation among these issues and to demonstrate that ignorance of the interrelationships has caused confusion in philosophy In spite of the intricacy of the subject matter the discussion is always clear the arguments explicitly evaluated and the solutions original In addition Gracia has assembled an array of historical and contemporary information from Plato to Strawson that is unavailable elsewhere The Metaphysics of Everyday Life Lynne Rudder Baker,2009-09-24 Lynne Rudder Baker presents and defends a unique account of the material world the Constitution View In contrast to leading metaphysical views that take everyday things to be either non existent or reducible to micro objects the Constitution View construes familiar things as irreducible parts of reality Although they are ultimately constituted by microphysical particles everyday objects are neither identical to nor reducible to the aggregates of microphysical particles that constitute them The result is genuine ontological diversity people bacteria donkeys mountains and microscopes are fundamentally different kinds of things all constituted by but not identical to aggregates of particles Baker supports her account with discussions of non reductive causation vagueness mereology artefacts three dimensionalism ontological novelty ontological levels and emergence The upshot is a unified ontological theory of the entire material world that irreducibly contains people as well as non human living things and inanimate objects Cause for Thought John W. Burbidge,2014-06-01 Does the fact that everything has a cause imply that all events are causally determined Drawing on discussions from the history of philosophy John Burbidge s Cause for Thought captures the diverse dynamics found in physics chemistry biology animal psychology and rational action At each level forms of activity emerge that cannot be reduced to the functioning of simpler more elementary components By exploring the logic of what happens when two causal conditions reciprocally interact Burbidge develops a concept of complex cause in which an agent generates effects not simply because of the action of its constituent components but also because of the way those components mutually supplement and reinforce one another By extending this to the interaction of agents with their environment Burbidge throws light on the structure of organisms on the distinctive contributions of consciousness and rationality and on the quest for a comprehensive explanation of the cosmos Recovering the force and legitimacy of metaphysical inquiry by focusing on the concept of cause and causality Cause for Thought offers a new way of understanding
