Essays in Modern European Historiography Samuel William Halperin, 1970      Some Historians of Modern Europe Bernadotte Everly Schmitt, 1942 Published January 1942 Bibliographical notes at end of each essay      Essays in Modern European Historiography. Ed. and with an Introd. by S. William Halperin S. William Halperin (ed), 1970      Some Historians of Modern Europe Bernadotte Everly Schmitt, 1966      Essays in Modern European History John J. Murray, 1951      The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History, 1350-1750 Hamish Scott, 2015-07-23 This Handbook re examines the concept of early modern history in a European and global context The term early modern has been familiar especially in Anglophone scholarship for four decades and is securely established in teaching research and scholarly publishing More recently however the unity implied in the notion has fragmented while the usefulness and even the validity of the term and the historical periodisation which it incorporates have been questioned The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern European History 1350 1750 provides an account of the development of the subject during the past half century but primarily offers an integrated and comprehensive survey of present knowledge together with some suggestions as to how the field is developing It aims both to interrogate the notion of early modernity itself and to survey early modern Europe as an established field of study The overriding aim will be to establish that early modern is not simply a chronological label but possesses a substantive integrity Volume I examines Peoples and Place assessing structural factors such as climate printing and the revolution in information social and economic developments and religion including chapters on Orthodoxy Judaism and Islam      New Directions in European Historiography Georg G. Iggers, 1984-07 Impressive analytical essays on the transformation of historical studies in Europe In four impressively researched essays Georg Iggers recounts the transformation of historical studies in Europe during the twentieth century with particular emphasis on the historiography of the past fifteen years Although the book does survey a broad area of contemporary historical thought it is primarily a careful analytical examination of the methodological and theoretical reorientation of certain influential European historians The first essay discusses the emergence at German Universities during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries of the concept of history as a scientific discipline distinct from the classical tradition of literary history and the later broad acceptance of this mode of Enquiry in the Western world Against this background Mr Iggers then considers the challenge to this mode of the political social and intellectual upheavals of the twentieth century especially after World War II The three essays following examine important attempts to develop alternate paradigms for historical study the French historians of the Annales tradition the German political historians of the 1960s the various Marxist historians of France Poland East Germany and Great Britain In despite of the frequent insistence by philosophers and theorists of history that history is not a science in contemporary terms historians themselves have striven in recent years to strengthen the quantitative aspects of historical study moving away from traditional patterns of writing and adopting methods and concepts from the systematic social sciences Mr Iggers book is an excellent introduction to these contemporary changes in historiography and in its comparative analyses itself makes a contribution to historical studies      Some Historians of Modern Europe B.
