

The background of the cover is a detailed still life illustration. In the foreground, an open book with lined pages lies on a dark wooden desk. A quill pen rests on the right page, and a small glass inkwell is nearby. To the left, a potted plant with green leaves is visible. In the background, more books are stacked on a shelf, and a large, ornate lamp with a feather in its holder stands to the right. The overall scene is dimly lit, creating a scholarly and historical atmosphere.

Book 1 Michel Montaigne, David G. Payne, 2014-10-13 Of all egotists Montaigne if not the greatest was the most fascinating because perhaps he was the least affected and most truthful What he did and what he had professed to do was to dissect his mind and show us as best he could how it was made and what relation it bore to external objects He investigated his mental structure as a schoolboy pulls his watch to pieces to examine the mechanism of the works and the result accompanied by illustrations abounding with originality and force he delivered to his fellow men in a book Eloquence rhetorical effect poetry were alike remote from his design He did not write from necessity scarcely perhaps for fame But he desired to leave France nay and the world something to be remembered by something which should tell what kind of a man he was what he felt thought suffered and he succeeded immeasurably I apprehend beyond his expectations Wm C Hazlitt from the Preface to the 1877 edition This is a well formatted edition of the 1877 edition designed for those who simply want to enjoy reading the essays This volume incorporates Book One essays 1 57 of the three books in the Essays Plutarch in English, s meaning The result has generally been unfortunate and I have in the case of all these interpolations on Cotton s part felt bound where I did not cancel them to throw them down into the notes not thinking it right that Montaigne should be allowed any longer to stand sponsor for what he never wrote and reluctant on the other hand to suppress the intruding matter entirely where it appeared to possess a value of Its own About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The British and Anglo-Irish Thing-Essay from 1701 to 2021 Daniel Schneider,2023-09-29 While the it narrative the thing poem and thing theatre have been around for some time the essay which is often considered literature s fourth genre is still lacking its thing subgenre Yet particularly British and Anglo Irish literature display a long albeit so far implicit tradition of texts that can be categorised as thing essays Starting with Jonathan Swift s Meditation upon a Broomstick 1701 and continuing until today these texts draw broader insights from the contemplation of a material item of daily life This book provides the first theoretical conceptualisation of this genre Bringing elements from essay studies and the New Materialisms together it shows why the essay lends itself particularly well to literarisations of the personal relationships that people foster to everyday objects While the idiosyncrasies of each essay show the versatility of thing essays the study also seeks to unearth changing attitudes towards things and thus towards people s material surroundings in general throughout time In order to account for such synchronic and diachronic differences in thing essays this study develops a typology of three modes via which things can be approached essayistically In the book s second part this framework will be employed in close readings and historicisations of 14 thing essays from 1701 until 2021 Ranging from satire to sentimental writing from religion to consumerism from class to gender differences from feelings of nationality to exoticism from the French Revolution to Freud and from art to everyday life the stylistic and thematic broadness of these thing essays ultimately shows the multifarious connections between human life and materiality

The Poetics of Literary Transfer in Early Modern France and England
Hassan Melehy, 2016-02-24 Examining both familiar and underappreciated texts Hassan Melehy foregrounds the relationships that early modern French and English writers conceived with both their classical predecessors and authors from flourishing literary traditions in neighboring countries In order to present their own avowedly national literatures as successfully surpassing others they engaged in a paradoxical strategy of presenting other traditions as both inspiring and dead Each of the book s four sections focuses on one early modern author Joachim Du Bellay Edmund Spenser Michel de Montaigne and William Shakespeare Melehy details the elaborate strategies that each author uses to rewrite and overcome the work of predecessors His book touches on issues highly pertinent to current early modern studies among these are translation the relationship between classicism and writing in the vernacular the role of literature in the consolidation of the state attitudes toward colonial expansion and the New World and definitions of modernity and the past
