Introduction

Both humanities are issues that are culture based and aesthetics as well. The fundamental role of humanities is to look at a society with the aim of fostering, highlighting and preserving. It is also ensuring that all that is best and beautiful is evoked. The role of humanities is to provide that all people are sophisticated articulated and lastly intellectually cosmopolitan. No wonder conservatives do hate the humanities and even the people who support it. Philosophy on the other hand, predominantly deals with tolerances and many others that are not within it. Therefore it can be defined as the cognition of human to ask and answer the question about the universe around us, both concerning and non- concerning humans. As a result, this definition makes philosophy be pertinent to all studies around it. Therefore, it is the philosophy of religion of mind, and philosophy of science as well.

Humanities are an academic discipline where aspects of human society and culture are being studied. Therefore .humanities also uses methods that are primarily critical, speculative and compost of historical element .humanities also involve the study of modern and ancient languages, philosophy, literature, human geography, politics law, and religion. In secondary schools, it is being offered as literature, art, and global studies

Anthropology

Anthropology is the study of humans or science of totality of existence of human. It is meant to integrate different aspects of social sciences human biology and humanities. In ancient time disciplines of academic institutionally have been divided into three broad domains. Whereby, the natural sciences seek to derive the general laws under verifiable experiments. This would mean that, the humanities aim to study local traditions through literature, arts, and music whereby emphasis on understanding particular individual's eras or events. In the United States of America, they have divided anthropology into different sub-fields that is archaeology biological or physical anthropology, anthropological linguistics and lastly cultural anthropology. This area is predominantly offered at the most undergraduate students. Notably, sociocultural anthropology is the most scientific study of humanities. Therefore, the main focus of anthropology is the provision of the most holistic account of humans and the nature of humanity as well. Consequently, this would mean that they only specialize in linguistics, cultural and historical aspects of whichever problem.

In western societies, anthrophony had risen as sciences being complex and industrial in nature. Consequently, within the anthropology trend and methodological drive, people have been studied in communities with a more social and straightforward organization.

Archaeology

It is the study of human activity, recovery and research of human culture not excluded. Its record consists of artifacts, biofacts, and cultural aspects among others. It is considered to be a branch of

Reading Texts, Reading Lives Daniel Morris,Helen Maxson,2012-06-14 Our culture attempts to separate competing ideological factions by denying relationships between multiple perspectives and influences outside of one's own narrow interpretive community The distinguished essayists in this volume find Daniel R Schwarz's pluralistic self-questioning approach to what he calls reading texts and reading lives quite relevant to the current historical moment and political situation A legendary scholar of modernist literature Schwarz's critical principles are a healthy corrective to cultural hubris The essayists treat works ranging from fictions by Joyce Conrad Morrison and Woolf to the poetry of Yeats to Holocaust literature to the environmental writings of Wendell Berry to the photographs of Lee Friedlander The authors focus on different works but they follow Schwarz in stressing formal elements most often associated with traditional realism while keeping an eye on historical and author-centered approaches The essayists also follow Schwarz in their emphasis on narrative cohesion and in how they look for signs of agency among characters who possess the will to alter their fate even in a seemingly random universe such as the one depicted by Conrad Readers with eyes to ethics and aesthetics they follow Schwarz in encouraging a values-centered approach that leaves room for the reader to address the ways in which reading a text correlates to the reader's ability to find meaning and value in experience outside the text Like Schwarz the essays look for intentionality of authorial meaning rather than something called an author function as well as for the relationship between lived experience and the imagined world of the literary work rather than the endless semiotic play of an ultimately indecipherable text      Poetics of Liveliness Ada Smailbegović,2021-10-29 Can poetry act as an aesthetic amplification device akin to a microscope through which we can sense minute or nearly imperceptible phenomena such as the folding of molecules into their three-dimensional shapes the transformations that make up the life cycle of a silkworm or the vaporous movements that constitute the ever-shifting edges of clouds We tend to think of these subjects as reserved for science but as Ada Smailbegović argues twentieth and twenty-first century writers have intermingled scientific methodologies with poetic form to reveal unfolding processes of change Their works can be envisioned as laboratories within which the methodologies of experimentation natural historical description and taxonomic classification allow poetic language to register the rhythms and durations of material transformation Poetics of Liveliness moves across scales to explore the realms of molecules fibers tissues and clouds It investigates works such as Christian Bök's insertion of a poetic text into the DNA code of living bacteria in order to generate a new poem in the shape of a protein molecule Jen Bervin's considerations of silk fibers and their use in biomedicine Gertrude Stein's examination of brain tissues in medical school and its subsequent influence on her literary taxonomies of character and Lisa Robertson's studies of nineteenth-century meteorology and the soft architecture of clouds In their attempt to understand physical processes unfolding within lively material worlds Smailbegović contends these poets have developed a distinctive materialist poetics Structured as a poetic cosmology akin to Lucretius's On the Nature of Things which begins at the atomic level and expands out to the vastness of the universe Poetics of Liveliness provides an innovative and surprising vision of the relationship between science and poetry Translations of Power Elizabeth J.

Bellamy,2019-06-07 Elizabeth J Bellamy here casts new theoretical light on the Renaissance genre of the dynastic epic Drawing upon Freudian and Lacanian psychoanalysis to illuminate the emergence of an epic subjecthood she focuses on Virgil's Aeneid Ariosto's Orlando furioso Tasso's Gerusalemme liberata and Spenser's Faerie Queene in an attempt to demonstrate how the operations of the unconscious may be interpreted within narrative history Bellamy first evaluates the psychoanalytic approach to epic as a possible alternative to the new historicism Turning to the Aeneid she discusses Freud's neurotic relation to Rome as a founding image for a historical unconscious She then interweaves a genealogy of epic subjecthood with the motif of the translatio imperii likening the translations of power that constitute the translatio imperii to extended meditations on the fate of Troy throughout literary history According to Bellamy the epic genre manifests a repeated displacement and repression of its Trojan origins and the doomed city of Troy represents the locus of epic's own narrative narcissism Offering provocative analyses of epic temporality and of the function of the death drive in epic narrative she concludes that dynastic epic may be seen as a structure of narcissistic desire which undermines the capacity of the epic to embody a fully articulated historical subject Translations of Power will enliven current debates among scholars and students of Renaissance culture literary theory gender studies and psychoanalytic criticism American Book Publishing

Poetry of the Civil Rights Movements in Australia and the United States, 1960s-1980s Ameer Chasib Furaih, 2024-09-03

This book examines the poetries of two Aboriginal Australian poets, namely Oodgeroo Noonuccal (formerly Kath Walker, 1920-1993) and Lionel Fogarty (1958), and two African American Black Arts poets, namely Amiri Baraka (formerly Everett LeRoi Jones, 1934-2014) and Sonia Sanchez (1943), to demonstrate their role in the struggle for civil and human rights of their peoples from the 1960s. The book demonstrates commonalities and differences in the strategies of these poets' literary and political resistance. These poet-activists, though ethnically diverse and geographically dispersed, share comparable socio-political concerns and aspirations. Their activism is not a reflection of a single ideological current but a bricolage of many ideologies and perspectives. They have engaged in trans-Pacific political movements and transgressed the borders of any one ideological territory. It is important to establish Aboriginal and African American trans-Pacific communication because these poets have collaborated and engaged in global politics, whether in the form of Garveyism or the transnation. Their poetries are characterized by an irresistible drive towards international rhizomatic collaboration and engagement. This is a transcontinental literary influence exerted by African American poets on Aboriginal poets during the 1960s and beyond.
