Taylor,2004 Parenting Skills and Collaborative Services for Students with Disabilities is a valuable resource for teaching institutions public schools parents and parental groups and agencies serving disabled individuals Jacket Gist Michael W. Anderson (Licensed psychologist),Timothy D. Johanson,2013-11-20 In GIST The Essence of Raising Life Ready Kids psychologist Michael Anderson and pediatrician Dr Tim Johanson take parenting into a new paradigm Raising children today has never been more challenging as parents feel the stress watching their children grow up not ready for life in the adult world Short Guide on Understanding and Parenting Teenagers emmln,2024-06-25 No matter what happens teenagers will always act like teenagers No matter how prepared we think we are or how much we've planned teenagers often find ways to rebel Their attitudes can change drastically especially when they hit puberty Even if they were well behaved as children they can become quite different when they embrace the teen lifestyle We've all been through it ourselves and in some way or another we caused our parents headaches and heartaches just as teenagers do now Adolescence is a time of immense change in every person's life It involves rapid physical emotional and mental development Teenagers embark on a journey of self discovery forming their identities and seeking independence Parenting during this period requires patience understanding and flexible strategies to support their growth and well being Teenagers undergo significant developmental changes that shape their behaviors and perspectives Physically puberty brings hormonal shifts and growth spurts affecting their appearance and bodily functions Emotionally they experience heightened sensitivity mood swings and a desire for independence Their brains also undergo important rewiring improving their ability to think critically while they are still learning to control impulses and make decisions Think back to when we were teenagers and struggled to understand our feelings felt misunderstood by our families and dealt with skin issues at the worst times Today's teenagers face similar challenges often feeling overwhelmed by their changing bodies and emotions Like a virus teenage issues can change over time Effective parenting is crucial during this period though there's no perfect approach It involves finding a balance between providing guidance and allowing independence Open Communication Open communication is key Click as it sounds but it is the key and also one of the hardest thing to do As parents especially those who work full time we may not always have the time or energy to communicate everything to our teenagers We may lose our patience or be dealing with unresolved childhood issues that cloud our judgment However breaking this cycle is essential for becoming better parents Open communication creates a safe space for teenagers to express their thoughts feelings and concerns without fear of judgment We may become upset about what our teenagers post on social media but we should step back control our reactions and learn to express our views without being prejudiced or authoritarian Instead we must listen actively and accept their emotions even when we don't necessarily agree with their ideas Else they will block you and you wouldn't know what's going on anymore Setting Boundaries Setting clear boundaries while promoting independence helps teenagers understand the expectations and consequences of their actions Collaborating with them to establish rules respects their growing autonomy while ensuring mutual respect and responsibility For example my ninth grade son attends one of the prestigious science schools in the Philippines When he asked to join the volleyball club I agreed under the condition that it wouldn't affect his academics I also made it clear that he couldn't use tiredness from practices as an excuse to skip classes Another practice I follow is recognizing and celebrating my teen's unique interests strengths and preferences Despite my preference for him to choose the ABM Accountancy Business and Management strand I fully supported his decision to pursue STEM Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics In ninth grade we discovered his strength in research so we supported him throughout his experiments in tenth grade We also discuss his plans for college and I ve encouraged him to pursue any field that involves Tech such as Biotech or Agritech Respect Their Individuality Even when he was young I always involved my son in decisions that impacted his life In sixth grade I encouraged him to consider attending my old high school which was within walking distance and offered an advanced science program through DOST However he expressed a preference for Quezon City Science High School so we had him take the entrance exam which he successfully passed Empower Decision Making By eighth grade he started feeling the pressure and jokingly remarked that he should have followed our advice He found his classmates highly competitive and superior I reminded him that attending that school had been his dream and he needed to persevere Together we discussed his priorities what adjustments he needed to make and how to manage his time effectively for academics We also talked about handling peer pressure and maintaining his composure Parenting during this challenging time was tough because teenagers as mentioned earlier often find ways to rebel and may not always be receptive However through patience and consistency I was able to share my experiences and knowledge with him Model Positive Behavior I strongly believe in leading by example My understanding of my teenager s behavior is influenced by my experience managing younger staff at work where I encounter various attitudes This prepared me well for puberty as I ve practiced active listening and developed patience When it comes to expressing my feelings I ensure I don t react during his tantrums Instead I give him space to express his emotions There have been moments when I felt like reacting impulsively but I ve chosen to remain silent I wait a day or two before discussing my thoughts with him explaining how his tantrums affected me Over time I ve observed that he has started apologizing on his own and explaining why he acted out This is the behavior I encourage him to adopt in his interactions at school I consistently emphasize to him the importance of avoiding unnecessary conflicts and asserting his rights at the right time I stress that not every situation needs to be resolved through argumentation Encourage Independence Having experienced smart shaming myself I understand the importance of equipping my teenager with skills beyond academics I firmly believe in household chores as a foundation for developing mental and emotional readiness Chores can be a challenge for teens especially boys While I might ask him to do the dishes I give him the flexibility to choose when he completes them Over time he has taken the initiative without needing reminders whether it s doing laundry or cleaning his room The one area we re still working on is establishing a bedtime routine He struggles to go to bed early but I emphasize the importance of waking up on time for class regardless of how much sleep he gets I prioritize attendance over sleep believing it s a necessary trade off for staying up late Promote Healthy Habits Encouraging healthy habits is challenging for us due to our night shift work schedule and the resulting lack of adequate sleep Nevertheless I consistently remind my teenager to take his vitamins ensure he drinks sterilized milk and prioritize sleep Lately I ve been making an effort to engage in small conversations with him encourage volleyball setting drills and discuss topics related to volleyball players I also encourage him to spend time outdoors with his friends or participate in volleyball practice games to prevent him from being glued to screens at home Stay Informed and Involved Lastly it s crucial to stay informed and engaged Fortunately I have a good memory for names so when my son shares stories about his activities I can always recall the people he mentions This shows him that I care and pay attention which encourages him to share more enthusiastically Research is a topic we delve into extensively He often asks me to review his projects and we discuss his coaches teammates and strategies for presenting his ideas in a constructive and impactful manner Whenever I inquire about his day and he mentions I do not know the people involved I ensure not to press further unless he chooses to share more willingly Indeed parenting teenagers is a dynamic journey that requires adaptability patience and unconditional love By understanding their developmental needs and fostering a supportive environment parents can empower teenagers to navigate adolescence with confidence and resilience Effective parenting during this transformative phase lays the foundation for healthy relationships personal growth and future success In essence parenting teenagers is about being a guiding presence offering support and nurturing their journey toward adulthood with understanding and respect for their evolving identities and aspirations Teenagers will always be teenagers and someday they will become parents or educators themselves Let s remind them that they once experienced the challenges of adolescence and we were there to support them through it
