Living Off Landscape Francois Jullien,2018-01-09 Is it only through vision that we can perceive a landscape Is the space opened by the landscape truly an expanse cut off by the horizon Do we observe a landscape in the way that we watch a show What ultimately does it mean to look In this important new book one of France s most influential living theorists argues that the first civilization to truly consider landscape was China In giving landscape the name mountain s water s the Chinese language provides a powerful alternative to Western biases The Chinese conception speaks of a correlation between high and low between the still and the motile between what has form and what is formless between what we see and what we hear No longer a matter of vision landscape becomes a matter of living Francois Jullien invites the reader to explore reason s unthought choices and to take a fresh look at our more basic involvement in the world

Postcards from France Gai Reid,2015-05-12 Postcards from

France is a story of how the sensual powers of this essentially feminine country healed a profound loss of love identity and place Seeking peace and joy after the death of the two most significant people in her life the author returns to France a place where she feels an inexplicable sense of belonging Here I become the person who lives inside my skin not the person who lives inside my house and inhabits my job Stories of French experiences move through the ages taking you from the sublime to the repugnant the humorous to the poignant Madame Paris sits proud and sanguine with her Mona Lisa smile hinting at her knowledge of what has happened throughout the centuries without judgment without sentiment She glances at her cobblestone streets that once ran with blood as she gestures to her elegant opulence She flips through the dissent and the creativity with no discernable preference and mingles all that she has been and seen into an infallible sense of self You will travel to some of the most enthralling villages in Provence the best of Normandy Brittany the regal Loire Valley and the incomparable Paris as the author digs into the history of new and familiar parts of France for colour context and meaning then sends it home on postcards to herself Salut I am sitting in history in the sun flecked shade of a plane tree that could have been planted when Mozart was learning to play piano or when Marie Antoinette was attempting to figure out her bewildering husband and king of France Louis XVI Remember this moment Je suis tr s content With love me France
