Higher Education Quality Assurance in Sub-Saharan Africa Peter Nicolas Materu, 2007 This report assesses the status and practice of higher education quality assurance in Sub-Saharan Africa focusing on degree granting tertiary institutions A main finding is that structured national level quality assurance processes in African higher education are a very recent phenomenon and that most countries face major capacity constraints Only about a third of them have established structured national quality assurance mechanism often only as recently as during the last ten years Activities differ in their scope and rigor ranging from simple licensing of institutions by the minister responsible for higher education to comprehensive system wide program accreditation and ranking of institutions Within institutions of higher learning self assessment and academic audits are gradually being adopted to supplement traditional quality assurance methods However knowledge about and experience with self assessments are limited The main challenges to quality assurance system in Africa are cost and human capacity requirements For countries with large tertiary systems the report recommends institutional rather than program accreditation as a cost effective option However where tertiary systems are small and underdeveloped a less formal self assessment for each institution may be necessary until the capacity could be strengthened to support a more formal national quality assurance agency in the long run

Quality Assurance and

Institutional Transformation Shuiyun Liu, 2016-05-03 This book illustrates the higher education quality assurance system and its impact on institutional transformation in China. It starts by describing the higher education system in China and its quality assessment schemes. It discusses in detail the Quality Assessment of Undergraduate Education (QAUE) and the Subject Evaluation, two of the most influential external quality assessment schemes which are conducted on the institutional and subject levels respectively. In the second part of this book, QAUE is taken as an example for the impact analysis. Using case studies, it explores the impact of the QAUE on various dimensions of quality provisions in universities with different statuses and presents the views of various stakeholders. Based on the empirical findings from the Chinese schemes and the theories on organizational change and the mechanism of external quality assessment, it proposes a model to describe how quality assessment interacts with the evaluated universities and causes them to change.

The Philosophy of Information Quality Luciano Floridi, Phyllis Illari, 2014-08-01 This work fulfills the need for a conceptual and technical framework to improve understanding of Information Quality (IQ) and Information Quality standards. In order to support the cross-fertilization of theory and practice, the latest research is presented in this book. The perspectives of experts from beyond the origins of IQ in computer science are included; library and information science practitioners and academics, philosophers of information, of engineering and technology, and of science are all contributors to this volume. The chapters in this volume are based on the work of a collaborative research project involving the Arts and Humanities Research Council and Google and led by Professor Luciano Floridi, University of Oxford. This work will be of interest to anyone handling data, including those from commercial, public, governmental, and academic organizations. The expert editors' contributions introduce issues of interest to scientists, database curators, and philosophers, even though the issues may be disguised in the language and examples common to a different discipline.
