Evolution Of Canadas Metropolitan Economies:

The Evolution of Canada's Metropolitan Economies William J. Coffey, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1994      The Transformation of Canada's Pacific Metropolis Thomas A. Hutton, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1998 This volume documents the economic and socio cultural transformation of Vancouver over the last decade analyzing the city's distinctive growth trajectory. It describes how Vancouver has undergone a complex series of demographic, economic, and socio cultural changes that have given the city a radically different profile as a gateway to the Pacific, a multi cultural metropolis, a preferred destination for Asian immigrants, and an integral part of new regional entities such as the Cascadia ecological and economic zone. In addition to Vancouver's deepening engagement with Asia Pacific markets and societies, the chapters examine the restructuring of the city's economy and labour force, the formation of new external linkages, the changes in class community and metropolitan structures, and the patterns of urban reconstruction. The final chapter discusses the implications of the Vancouver experience for structural change and the post industrial city region.      Canada and the Global Economy

John N. H. Britton, 1996. An analysis of geographic trends in the Canadian economy studying patterns of development, consumption shifts in employment, and the locational behavior of industries. The 24 essays written by Canadian economic geographers explore themes in regards to the openness of the Canadian economy, its simple economic geography, regional variation of resources, and urban development, its rapid advances in technology, and the role of government in national and international markets. Canadian card order number C96 900023 5. Annotation copyright by Book News Inc, Portland, OR.

Busting Bureaucracy to Reclaim Our Schools Stephen B. Lawton, Joseph Freedman, Heather-jane Robertson, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1995. In this book, the author argues that the bureaucratization of schooling has interfered with the process of education. The costs, complexity, and rigidity of the educational edifice leaves it unresponsive to parental concerns and reluctant to measure its own inadequacies such as illiteracy and high dropout rates among students. The author identifies two conceptual bases for action to address this problem: public choice theory and agency theory. The issue of identity in its relation to education is then made the case for charter schools in Canada, stressing definitions of community, parental rights, and the need to combat bureaucratic tendencies. Two discussants respond to the author's analysis, one amplifying his call for charter schools and the other arguing that the basis for demanding reform is less clear than the author claims.

Services and Metropolitan Development Peter W. Daniels, 2002-11-01. The dynamics of national and international urban systems as well as individual metropolitan areas are closely connected with the decisions and actions of firms and institutions in the service sector. Services and Metropolitan Development explores the processes guiding both the development and the spatial impacts of services on the urban system and individual areas. The book describes the symbiotic relationship between the internationalisation of services and the effects of this restructuring on urban systems. The multidisciplinary nature of the subject and its global development are reflected by the international range of contributors.

specialists in geography business management economics and public administration The book analyses the theoretical conceptual and measurement issues confronting research on the development of services in North America Northern Europe and Australia

The New Economy of the Inner City Thomas A. Hutton, 2009-12-07 The New Economy of the Inner City presents a penetrating analysis of contemporary new industry formation and its theoretical signifiers derived from compelling case studies situated in four global cities London Singapore San Francisco and Vancouver

A Trading Nation Michael Hart, 2002 Canada has always been a trading nation From the early days of fur and fish to the present when a remarkable 90 percent of the gross national product is attributable to exports and imports Canadians have relied on international trade to bolster their economy A Trading Nation a brilliantly crafted overview and analysis of the historical foundations of modern Canadian trade policy is the first survey to address the history of Canadian commercial policy in over 50 years Michael Hart skillfully guides readers through more than three centuries of Canadian trade history His engaging narrative explains how Canadians have largely come to accept that a country that derives much of its wealth from international commerce has much to gain from an open well ordered international economy Close attention to trade and related economic policy choices he argues is crucial if Canada intends to adapt to the challenges of the new globalized economy

Hierarchy, Information and Power Hongmian Gong, 2018-02-02 This book is a collection of selected papers presented in the 2012 annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers in New York honoring James O Wheeler 1938-2010 The eight papers are informed and inspired by James O Wheeler's many contributions to urban geography particularly in the areas of urban hierarchy information flows cities in the telecommunications age and cities as corporate command and control centers They adopt and extend Jim Wheeler's corporate and/or hierarchical approaches to discuss institutional investment in the U S corporate interlocking directorates and fast growing firms in Canada corporate intangible assets in South Korea urban development in Beijing and Macau and social and cultural diversity of global cities such as New York Although these two approaches are not the fanciest ones in today's urban geography they are essential to the understanding of how urban areas are connected and what drives this interconnectedness in this age of globalization This book was previously published as a special issue of Urban Geography

Essays in Canadian Economic History Harold A. Innis, 2017-01-01 This volume collects Innis published and unpublished essays on economic history from 1929 to 1952 thereby charting the development of the arguments and ideas found in his books The Fur Trade in Canada and The Cod Fisheries

Urban Governance in Canada Katherine A. Graham, Susan D. Phillips, Allan M. Maslove, 1998

Reclaiming Development Kari Levitt, 2005 For over 20 years the developing world has been adjusting to the agendas of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank In the 1990s Structural Adjustment Programmes were repackaged and marketed as the coming of the golden age of globalisation promising benefits to countries that adopt neo liberal policies Whether by convention or apparent absence of viable alternatives Caribbean governments have been quick to implement policies of deregulation liberalisation and privatisation In this they have been supported by their intellectuals who have been equally quick in embracing globalisation and too ready to concede the end of national sovereignty Kari Levitt argues that it is time to reclaim the right to development and the right of nations to engage in the international economy on their own terms She advocates an international rule based order which permits space for member countries to follow divergent paths to development according to their own philosophies institutions cultures and societal priorities This book represents a historic sweep of Caribbean thought and personalities over the past 30 years drawn against the background of the changes in the international political economy Whether in her collaboration with Lloyd Best on the Plantation Economy Model her analyses of Debt and Adjustment or her insistence on the right of sovereign nations to pursue their own development path Kari Levitt remains consistent in her conviction that development whether of individuals or nations must be rooted in time and place and cannot be imposed by external prescription

Metropolitan Economic Development Alejandra Trejo Nieto, José L. Niño-Amézquita, 2019-08-28 Metropolitan areas are home to a significant proportion of the world's population and its economic output Taking Mexico as a case study and weaving in comparisons from Latin America and developed countries this book explores current trends and policy issues around urbanisation metropolisation economic development and city region governance Despite their fundamental economic relevance the analysis and monitoring of metropolitan economies in Mexico and other countries in the Global South under a comparative perspective are relatively scarce This volume contains empirical analysis based on comparative perspectives with relation to international experiences It will be of interest to advanced students researchers and policymakers in urban policy urban economics regional studies economic geography and Latin American studies

The Role of Canadian Municipalities in Economic Development Michael Skelly, Intergovernmental Committee on Urban and Regional Research (Canada), 1995 The first part of this report discusses definitions general issues and trends in the role of local government Issues discussed include those affecting municipal economic development initiatives the type of role in economic development that is appropriate for municipalities changes in the focus of municipal economic development and comparisons between municipal economic development initiatives in Canada and the United States The report then examines provincial legislation governing the powers of municipalities to promote economic development The third part presents results of a survey of Canadian municipalities and local economic development organizations on their economic development practices The survey examined such matters as economic development techniques used local business liaison and promotion public amenity and infrastructure improvements export development tourism promotion job creation initiatives regulations and financial tools Results are presented by province or territory The appendix includes a copy of the survey questionnaire

Canada in the European Age, 1453-1919 R.T. Naylor, 2006-07-10 When Canada in the European Age 1453 1919 was first published it reversed traditional methodology by placing Canada's evolution in the context of the rise and fall of empires around the world not just in the Americas R T Naylor contends that the struggle for property and political rights in early nineteenth century Newfoundland is incomprehensible without an understanding of events as distinct as the Afro American slave trade or the Napoleonic Wars the opening of the natural resource frontier of British Columbia makes sense only if seen as another manifestation of the same historical forces that fired the opening shots in the Opium wars in China and the fate of Canada's native peoples may have been different in form but not in essence from that of the aboriginal inhabitants on almost every continent
