Seventeenth-Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier Noah H. Thomas, 2018-11-13 A unique contribution to the archaeological literature on the Southwest Seventeenth Century Metallurgy on the Spanish Colonial Frontier introduces a wealth of data from one of the few known colonial metal production sites in the Southwest Archaeologist Noah H Thomas draws on and summarizes ten seasons of excavation from the Pueblo of Paa ko to provide a critical analysis of archaeological features and materials related to metal production during the early colonial period AD 1598 1680 Extrapolating from the data Thomas provides a theoretical interpretation of these data that is grounded in theories of agency practice and notions of value shaped in culture In addition to the critical analysis of archaeological features and materials this work brings to light a little known aspect of the colonial experience the production of metal by indigenous Pueblo people Using the ethnography of Pueblo peoples and seventh century European manuals of metallurgy Thomas addresses how the situated agency of indigenous practitioners incorporated within colonial industries shaped the metallurgy industry in the Spanish colonial period The resulting analysis investigates how economic technical and social knowledge was communicated contested and transformed across the social and cultural boundaries present in early colonial communities Viewing these transformations through an ethnohistorical lens Thomas builds a social and historical context within which to understand the decisions made by colonial actors at the time

Oysters in the Land of Cacao Bradley E. Ensor, 2020-09-01 For decades the Chontalpa region of Tabasco Mexico conjured images of the possible origins of the Itz who migrated conquered or otherwise influenced much of Mesoamerica In Oysters in the Land of Cacao archaeologist Bradley E Ensor provides an important resource for Mesoamerican Gulf Coast archaeology by offering a new and detailed picture of the coastal sites vital to understanding regional interactions and social dynamics This book synthesizes data from multiyear investigations at a coastal site complex in Tabasco Islas de Los Cerros ILC providing the first modern systematic descriptions and analyses of material culture that challenge preconceptions while enabling new perspectives on cultural developments from the Formative to Late Classic periods through the lens of regional comparisons and contemporary theoretical trends

Ensor introduces a political ecological understanding of the environment and archaeological features overturns a misconception that the latter were formative shell middens provides an alternative pottery classification more appropriate for the materials and for contemporary theory and introduces new approaches for addressing formation processes and settlement history Building on the empirical analyses and discussions of problems in Mesoamerican archaeology this book contributes new approaches to practice and agency perspectives holistically integrating intra and interclass agency kinship strategies gender and age dynamics layered cultural identities landscapes social memory and foodways and feasting Oysters in the Land of Cacao addresses issues important to coastal archaeology within and beyond Mesoamerica It delivers an overdue regional synthesis and new observations on settlement patterns elite power and political economies Tracking Prehistoric Migrations Jeffery J. Clark, 2001-02-01 This monograph takes a fresh look at migration in light of the recent resurgence of interest in this topic within archaeology The author develops a reliable approach for detecting and assessing the impact of migration based on conceptions of style in anthropology From numerous ethnoarchaeological and ethnohistoric case studies material culture attributes are isolated that tend to be associated only with the groups that produce them Clark uses this approach to evaluate Puebloan migration into the Tonto Basin of east central Arizona during the early Classic period A D 1200 1325 focusing on a community that had been developing with substantial Hohokam influence prior to this interval He identifies Puebloan enclaves in the indigenous settlements based on culturally specific differences in the organization of domestic space and in technological styles reflected in wall construction and utilitarian ceramic manufacture Puebloan migration was initially limited in scale resulting in the co residence of migrants and local groups within a single community Once this co residence settlement pattern is reconstructed relations between the two groups are examined and the short term and long term impacts of migration are assessed The early Classic period is associated with the appearance of the Salado horizon in the Tonto Basin The results of this research suggest that migration and co residence was common throughout the basins and valleys in the region defined by the Salado horizon although each local sequence relates a unique story The methodological and theoretical implications of Clark s work extend well beyond the Salado and the Southwest and apply to any situation in which the scale and impact of prehistoric migration are contested White Mountain Redware Roy L. Carlson, 2022-02-08 A study of the styles of decoration found on the early southwestern pottery known as White Mountain Redware The White Mountain Redware tradition an arbitrary division of the Cibola painted pottery tradition is composed of those vessels which have a red slip and painted decoration in either black or black and white which when grouped into pottery types have a geographic locus within or immediately adjacent to the Cibola area and which share a number of other attributes indicative of close historical relationships Mogollon Culture in the Forestdale Valley, East-Central Arizona Emil W. Haury, 2015-11-01 Forestdale did more than any other single area to validate the emerging concept of a separate Mogollon culture and in this compilation Haury provides the reader with not only the complete archaeological picture of this valley but also the history of the development of the concept. Any Southwestern archaeologist and readers who want to stay abreast of the details of North American prehistory should read this book. American Antiquity Classic site reports establish the Mogollon on their own cultural track distinct from the Anasazi and also document the earliest known association of tree ring dates with pottery in the Southwest. The excavations of Mogollon sites reported on in this volume were conducted at the early 1939-1941 field schools in Forestdale, Arizona.

Social Functions of Language in a Mexican-American Community George Carpenter Barker, 1972-08. Social Functions of Language in a Mexican American Community is an inquiry into how language functions in the life of a bilingual minority group in process of cultural change. This study investigated the acculturation and assimilation of individuals of Mexican descent living in Tucson, Arizona. Specifically, the language usage and interpersonal relations of individuals from representative families in the bilingual community of Tucson, the usage of bilingual social groups in the community, and the linguistic and cultural contacts between bilinguals and members of the larger Tucson community were examined. Data were drawn from observational studies of individuals and families, observation of group activities, and observation supplemented by questionnaires on the cultural interests of Mexican children and their families. Some conclusions of the study were that Spanish came to be identified in the Mexican community as the language of intimate and family relations, while English came to be identified as the language of formal social relations and of all relations with Anglos. It was also found that the younger American-born group reject both Spanish and English in favor of their own language. Pacheco Tables depicting the characteristics of 20 families, the language usage of families, and the language usage in personal relationships of English and Spanish are included. Suggestions for further research are made.

Prehistory, Personality, and Place Jefferson Reid, Stephanie Whittlesey, 2010-02-15. When Emil Haury defined the ancient Mogollon in the 1930s as a culture distinct from their Ancestral Pueblo and Hohokam neighbors, he triggered a major intellectual controversy in the history of southwestern archaeology centering on whether the Mogollon were truly a different culture or merely a backwoods variant of a better-known people. In this book, archaeologists Jefferson Reid and Stephanie Whittlesey tell the story of the remarkable individuals who discovered the Mogollon culture, fought to validate it, and eventually resolved the controversy. Reid and Whittlesey present the arguments and actions surrounding the Mogollon discovery, definition, and debate. Drawing on extensive interviews conducted with Haury before his death in 1992, they explore facets of the debate that scholars pursued at various times and places and how ultimately the New Archaeology shifted attention from the research questions of cultural affiliation and antiquity that had been at the heart of the controversy. In gathering the facts and anecdotes surrounding the debate, Reid and Whittlesey offer a compelling picture of an academician who was committed to understanding the unwritten past, who believed wholeheartedly in the techniques of scientific archaeology, and who used his influence to assist scholarship rather than to advance his own career. Prehistory, Personality, and Place depicts a real archaeologist practicing real archaeology, one that is fashioned from potsherds and pit houses a true understanding of prehistoric peoples But more than the chronicle of a controversy it is a book about places and personalities the role of place in shaping archaeologists intellect and personalities as well as the unusual intersections of people and places that produced resolutions of some intractable problems in Southwest history Life beyond the Boundaries Karen Harry, Sarah A. Herr, 2018-04-02 Life beyond the Boundaries explores identity formation on the edges of the ancient Southwest Focusing on some of the more poorly understood regions including the Jornada Mogollon the Gallina and the Pimer a Alta the authors use methods drawn from material culture science anthropology and history to investigate themes related to the construction of social identity along the perimeters of the American Southwest Through an archaeological lens the volume examines the social experiences of people who lived in edge regions Through mobility and the development of extensive social networks people living in these areas were introduced to the ideas and practices of other cultural groups As their spatial distances from core areas increased the degree to which they participated in the economic social political and ritual practices of ancestral core areas increasingly varied As a result the social identities of people living in edge zones were often though not always fluid and situational Drawing on an increase of available information and bringing new attention to understudied areas the book will be of interest to scholars of Southwestern archaeology and other researchers interested in the archaeology of low populated and decentralized regions and identity formation Life beyond the Boundaries considers the various roles that edge regions played in local and regional trajectories of the prehistoric and protohistoric Southwest and how place influenced the development of social identity Contributors Lewis Borck Dale S Brenneman Jeffery J Clark Severin Fowles Patricia A Gilman Lauren E Jelinek Myles R Miller Barbara J Mills Matthew A Peeples Kellam Throgmorton James T Watson Archaeology of Prehistoric Native America Guy E.
