The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City Paul Wheatley, 2017-07-12 These two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the North China plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c They describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of North and Central China Author Paul Wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in Shang China with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the Americas Mesopotamia Egypt Southeast Asia the Mediterranean and the Yoruba territories The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary Western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other Those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of Western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient China The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City examines the cosmological symbolism of the Chinese city constructed as a world unto itself It suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmo magical role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the Hellenistic world Whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the Chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer

The Remaking of the Chinese Character and Identity in the 21st Century Wenshan Jia, 2001-09-30 Wenshan Jia demonstrates that a true liberation of Chinese civic discourse can start with a focus on indigenous cultural practices such as

face practices the understanding that every human face offers a distinct cultural grammar for acting speaking and feeling Chinese character and identity the author argues are primarily functions of communication and as such these practices are of enormous consequence to the necessary reconstruction of Chinese identity in the changing socioeconomic context of the 21st century In this way Jia finds a middle ground between the advocacy of complete Westernization and radical Chinese nationalism as a pragmatic alternative communication is key Never before has facework research been approached so systematically from the standpoint of its relationship to character and identity Jia's work substantially advances the literature on Chinese communication and presents a unique perspective on its relationship to social transformation This new paradigm of facework including analytical methods such as Circular Questioning in addition to major case studies challenges traditional views while pointing the way toward a new and valuable social constructionist view
