Current Developments in Anthropological Genetics Michael H. Crawford, James H. Mielke, 2012-12-06 This volume examines the interrelationship of ecology subsistence patterns and the observed genetic variation in human populations. Hence the book is divided conceptually into the following categories: nonhuman primates, hunters and gatherers, nomads, swidden agriculturalists, peasants and farmers, religious isolates, and modern and urban aggregates. While many of these populations have experienced and are experiencing acculturation as a result of contact with technologically more advanced groups, the genetic structures described in this volume attempt to reconstruct the traditional patterns as well as genetic changes because of contact. Most chapters also integrate biological, genetic, social, and demographic data within an ecological frame, thus presenting a holistic view of the population structures of ecologically distinct groups. The first chapter examines the body of early nonhuman primate literature that emphasized ecological determinism in effecting the population structure of our primate ancestors' relatives. It also examines more recent literature since 1970 in which it became apparent that greater flexibility exists in primate social structure within specific environmental frameworks. Thus it appears that our nonhuman primate evolutionary heritage is not one of ecological determinism in social organization but one of flexibility and rapid change, suggesting the evolutionary success of our species is based upon a system of flexibility and that social adaptations can be accomplished in a number of diverse ways.

The Evolution of Modern Human Diversity Marta Mirazón Lahr, 1996-05-30 Investigates the two main theories of how and where humans evolved.

Human Evolutionary Biology Michael P. Muehlenbein, 2010-07-29 A wide ranging and inclusive text focusing on topics in human evolution and the understanding of modern human variation and adaptability.

Race and Human Diversity Robert L. Anemone, 2015-09-04 This book lays out some of the basic problems of a biological theory of race, in particular the arbitrariness of most racial classifications based on biological differences between populations. It provides the biological background to a consideration of the biology of human differences.

Rethinking Evolution in the Museum Monique Scott, 2007-11-19 Rethinking Evolution in the Museum explores the ways diverse natural history museum audiences imagine their evolutionary heritage. In particular, the book considers how the meanings constructed by audiences of museum exhibitions are a product of dynamic interplay between museum iconography and powerful images museum visitors bring with them to the museum. In doing so, the book illustrates how the preconceived images held by museum audiences about anthropology, Africa, and the museum itself strongly impact the human origins exhibition experience. Although museological theory has come increasingly to recognize that museum audiences make meaning in exhibitions or make their own complex interpretations of museum exhibitions few scholars have explicitly asked how Rethinking Evolution in the Museum however provides a rare window into visitor perceptions at four world class museums the Natural History Museum and Horniman Museum in London the National Museums of Kenya in Nairobi and the American Museum of Natural History in New York Through rigorous and novel mixed methods quantitative and qualitative covering nearly 500 museum visitors this innovative study shows that audiences of human origins exhibitions interpret evolution exhibitions through a profoundly complex convergence of personal political intellectual emotional and cultural interpretive strategies This book also reveals that natural history museum visitors often respond to museum exhibitions similarly because they use common cultural tools picked up from globalized popular media circulating outside of the museum One tool of particular interest is the notion that human evolution has proceeded linearly from a bestial African prehistory to a civilized European present Despite critical growths in anthropological science and museum displays the outdated Victorian progress motif lingers persistently in popular media and the popular imagination Rethinking Evolution in the Museum sheds light on our relationship with natural history museums and will be crucial to those people interested in understanding the connection between the visitor the museum and media culture outside of the museum context World Anthropology boxes in each chapter providing ideas for essay topics and classroom discussion Advances in Growth Curve and Structural Equation Modeling Ratan Dasgupta,2018-09-03 This book explains and explores the growth curve model as a tool to gain insights into various research topics of interest to academics and practitioners alike It includes studies on growth models for repeated measurement mixture experiments and optimal designs for growth prediction in order to find an optimum design for the most efficient estimation of the parameters of the mixture models It presents longitudinal studies conducted on the mathematical aptitude and intelligence quotient of tribal population in North Eastern states of India and innovative statistical analysis showing that the status of tribes is improving over time These results are supplemented by similar cross sectional studies and a retrospective longitudinal study of the social environment in North Eastern tribes indicating that the growth status of the social environment is improving Child health is an important topic in developing countries and as such the book features an overview of the growth and nutritional status of children aged 5 to 18 in India Characterization of Extended Uniform Distribution and its applications for quality control in industrial production and in yield data of tuber crops among others are discussed Characterizations of distribution in terms of performance rate are also proved There is also a contribution examining the past and present status of mangroves in Sunderban region of the Indian state of West Bengal from an ecological viewpoint using a growth curve model set up Lastly it includes a chapter on a statistical study of platelet size decomposition and related growth model Highlighting the importance of growth curve modelling as it applies to actual field data and encouraging more theoretically inclined statisticians to look into theoretical issues that need investigation the book disseminates applications of the growth curve model to real world problems and addresses related theoretical issues for the attention of theoreticians and practitioners

The Ecosystem Approach in Anthropology Emilio F. Moran, 1990 A reassessment of the ecosystem concept for anthropology Lone Survivors Chris Stringer, 2012-03-13 Outlines a reassessment of human evolution that draws on recent fossil findings and challenges current theories to say that humans coexisted and competed across the African continent while exchanging genes tools and behaviors source citeur

Handbook of Evolutionary Research in Archaeology Anna Marie Prentiss, 2019-06-03 Evolutionary Research in Archaeology seeks to provide a comprehensive overview of contemporary evolutionary research in archaeology The book will provide a single source for introduction and overview of basic and advanced evolutionary concepts and research programs in archaeology Content will be organized around four areas of critical research including microevolutionary and macroevolutionary process human ecology studies evolutionary ecology demography and niche construction and evolutionary cognitive archaeology Authors of individual chapters will address theoretical foundations history of research contemporary contributions and debates and implications for the future for their respective topics As appropriate authors present or discuss short empirical case studies to illustrate key arguments

Transitions Before the Transition Erella Hovers, Steven Kuhn, 2007-01-06 Modern human origins and the fate of the Neanderthals are arguably the most compelling and contentious arenas in paleoanthropology The much discussed split between advocates of a single early emergence of anatomically modern humans in sub Saharan Africa and supporters of various regional continuity positions is only part of the picture Equally if not more important are questions surrounding the origins of modern behavior and the relationships between anatomical and behavioral changes that occurred during the past 200 000 years Although modern humans as a species may be defined in terms of their skeletal anatomy it is their behavior and the social and cognitive structures that support that behavior which most clearly distinguish Homo sapiens from earlier forms of humans This book assembles researchers working in Eurasia and Africa to discuss the archaeological record of the Middle Paleolithic and the Middle

Stone Age This is a time period when Homo sapiens last shared the world with other species and during which patterns of behavior characteristic of modern humans developed and coalesced Contributions to this volume query and challenge some current notions about the tempo and mode of cultural evolution and about the processes that underlie the emergence of modern behavior The papers focus on several fundamental questions Do typical elements of modern human behavior appear suddenly or are there earlier archaeological precursors of them Are the archaeological records of the Middle Paleolithic and Middle Stone Age unchanging and monotonous or are there detectable evolutionary trends within these periods Coming to diverse conclusions the papers in this volume open up new avenues to thinking about this crucial interval in human evolutionary history

The Lifeways of Hunter-Gatherers Robert L. Kelly, 2013-04-15 In this book Robert L Kelly challenges the preconceptions that hunter gatherers were Paleolithic relics living in a raw state of nature instead crafting a position that emphasizes their diversity and downplays attempts to model the original foraging lifeway or to use foragers to depict human nature stripped to its core Kelly reviews the anthropological literature for variation among living foragers in terms of diet mobility sharing land tenure technology exchange male female relations division of labor marriage descent and political organization Using the paradigm of human behavioral ecology he analyzes the diversity in these areas and seeks to explain rather than explain away variability and argues for an approach to prehistory that uses archaeological data to test theory rather than one that uses ethnographic analogy to reconstruct the past

archaeologists biological anthropologists geneticists and linguists in order to provide a comprehensive account of the history and evolution of human populations residing in the subcontinent New theories and methodologies presented provide new interpretations about the cultural history and evolution of populations in South Asia

Emergence and Diversity of Modern Human Behavior in Paleolithic Asia Yousuke Kaifu, Masami Izuho, Ted Goebel, Hiroyuki Sato, Akira Ono, 2014-12-19 Despite the obvious geographic importance of eastern Asia in human migration its discussion in the context of the emergence and dispersal of modern humans has been rare Emergence and Diversity of Modern Human Behavior in Paleolithic Asia focuses long overdue scholarly attention on this under studied area of the world Arising from a 2011 symposium sponsored by the National Museum of Nature and Science in Tokyo this book gathers the work of archaeologists from the Pacific Rim of Asia Australia and North America to address the relative lack of attention given to the emergence of modern human behavior as manifested in Asia during the worldwide dispersal from Africa

Africa, the Cradle of Human Diversity, 2021-11-22 This book explores important chapters of past and recent African history from a multidisciplinary perspective It covers an extensive time range from the evolution of early humans to the complex cultural and genetic diversity of modern day populations in Africa Through a comprehensive list of chapters the book focuses on different time periods geographic regions and cultural and biological aspects of human diversity across the continent Each chapter summarises current knowledge with perspectives from a varied set of international researchers from diverse areas of expertise The book provides a valuable resource for scholars interested in evolutionary history and human diversity in Africa Contributors are Shaun Aron Ananyo Choudhury Bernard Clist Cesar Fortes Lima Rosa Fregel Jackson S Kimambo Faye Lander Marlize Lombard Fidelis T Masao Ezekia Mtetwa Gilbert Pwiti Mich le Ramsay Thembi Russell Carina Schlebusch Dhriti Sengupta Plan Shenjere Nyabezi M rio Vicente
