Excavations at Fishbourne, 1961-1969: The Glass Donald Benjamin Harden, Jennifer Price, 1971 Excavations at Fishbourne 1961-1969 Ann Grant, 1971 Rescue Excavation , 2014-06-15 Government sponsorship of rescue archaeology became a recognised policy before the 1939 45 war and grew massively in scale over the succeeding decades in response to the huge growth in construction and redevelopment which was affecting both urban and rural areas In the early 1970s when it became clear that effort and funding needed to be concentrated on the post excavation and publication requirements of the work a programme was instituted to bring to completion those projects which had received government funding over the previous decades and to ensure that the information resulting from the work was publicly available This report charts the achievements of that programme It covers projects which received government funding between 1938 and 1972 the date when regional archaeological organisations were set up to cope with the still growing demands for rescue archaeology and central government therefore ceased to have direct responsibility for the work It lists under each site the excavators who worked on the site the dates of the excavations the broad archaeological periods represented details of publications resulting from the work and where relevant the number of the NAR archive deposit It is a valuable resource not only as a record of the large amount of work carried out with public funding since the war but also as a mine of information about the investigations that have taken place in all areas of archaeology in England over the last half century Communities and Connections Chris Gosden, 2007-11-08 A collection of essays by many of the leading specialists in the archaeology of the Iron Age and early Roman periods in Britain and western Europe paying tribute to Professor Sir Barry Cunliffe The subjects covered range over more than a thousand years and from the Atlantic coasts to the eastern Mediterranean Research Problems in Zooarchaeology D.R. Brothwell, Kenneth D Thomas, Juliet Clutton-Brock, 2016-06-16 Papers from an important conference on zooarchaeology reflecting state of the art work on the study of human relationship to animals in ancient times Rural Baths in Roman Britain Giacomo Savani, 2025-02-18 This book explores the function and socio cultural significance of rural bathhouses seeking to redefine our understanding of the relationships between these buildings and the identities of the communities residing in the countryside of Roman Britain The popularity of baths in antiquity and their archaeological distinctiveness have led both antiquarians and many modern scholars to take their function and more crucially their socio cultural significance for granted which is especially pronounced in the provincial context of Roman Britain By applying the theoretical framework of sensory archaeology Savani examines issues of receptivity social acceptance and cultural interaction broadening our understanding of the cultural and social transformations occurring in the province Focusing on two regions South East and Central South West England Savani uncovers the previously underappreciated role of rural baths in connecting a more diverse range of people than has been traditionally acknowledged It also underscores the critical importance of sensory experience in the acceptance of bathing practices in rural areas and the affective connections formed by various social groups around these practices Rural Baths in Roman Britain is an invaluable resource for scholars of both the archaeology and culture of Roman Britain as well as those working on processes of cultural interactions within the Roman provinces more broadly

Romano-Celtic Élites and Their Religion Geoffrey William Adams, 2005

Villas, Sanctuaries and Settlement in the Romano-British Countryside Martin Henig, Grahame Soffe, Kate Adcock, Anthony King, 2023-03-02 This volume brings together a range of papers on buildings that have been categorised as villas mainly in Roman Britain from the Isle of Wight to Shropshire It comprises the first such survey for almost half a century

UnRoman Britain Dr Miles Russell, Stuart Laycock, 2011-09-30 Roman Britain is usually thought of as a land full of togas towns and baths with Britons happily going about their Roman lives under the benign gaze of Rome This is to a great extent a myth that developed after Roman control of Britain came to an end in particular when the British Empire was at its height in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries In fact Britain was one of the least enthusiastic elements of the Roman Empire The northern part of Britain was never conquered at all despite repeated attempts Some Britons adopted Roman ways in order to advance themselves and become part of the new order or just because they liked the new range of products available However many failed to acknowledge the Roman lifestyle at all while many others were only outwardly Romanised clinging to their own identities under the occupation Britain never fully embraced the Empire and was itself never fully accepted by the rest of the Roman world Even the Roman army in Britain became chronically rebellious and a source of instability that ultimately affected the whole Empire As Roman power weakened the Britons abandoned both Rome and almost all Roman culture and the island became a land of warring kingdoms as it had been before

Roman Artefacts and Society Ellen Swift, 2017-02-09 In this book Ellen Swift uses design theory previously neglected in Roman archaeology to investigate Roman artefacts in a new way making a significant contribution to both Roman social history and our understanding of the relationships that exist between artefacts and people Based on extensive data collection and the close study of artefacts from museum collections and archives the book examines the relationship between artefacts everyday behaviour and experience The concept of affordances features of an artefact that make possible and incline users towards particular uses for functional artefacts is an important one for the approach taken This concept is carefully evaluated by considering affordances in relation to other sources of evidence such as use wear archaeological context the end products resulting from artefact use and experimental reconstruction Artefact types explored in the case studies include locks and keys pens shears glass vessels dice boxes and finger rings using material mainly drawn from the north western Roman provinces with some material also from Roman Egypt The book then considers how we can use artefacts to understand particular aspects of Roman behaviour and experience including discrepant experiences according to factors such as age social position and left or right handedness which are fostered through artefact design The relationship between production and users of artefacts is also explored investigating what particular production methods make possible in terms of user experience and also examining production constraints that have unintended consequences for users The book examines topics such as the perceived agency of objects differences in social practice across the provinces cultural change and development in daily practice and the persistence of tradition and social convention It shows that design intentions everyday habits of use and the constraints of production processes each contribute to the reproduction and transformation of material culture

Blagg, Martin Millett, 2016-12-31 Digital reprint of this important collection of papers which form the companion to Early Roman Empire in the East Oxbow 1997 Fourteen contributions examine the interaction of Roman and native peoples in the formative years of the Roman provinces in Italy Gaul Spain and Portugal Germany and Britain Contents Introduction Thomas Blagg and Martin Millett The creation of provincial landscape the Roman impact on Cisalpine Gaul Nicholas Purcell Romanization a point of view Richard Reece Romanization historical issues and archaeological interpretation Martin Millett The romanization of Belgic Gaul Colin Haselgrove Lower Germany proto urban settlement developments and the integration of native society J H F Bloemers Relations between Roman occupation and the Limesvorland in the province of Germania Inferior Jurgen Kunow Early Roman military installations and Ubian settlements in the Lower Rhine Michael Gechter Some observations on acculturation process at the edge of the Roman world S D Trow Processes in the development of the coastal communities of Hispania Citerior in the Republican period Simon Keay Romanization and urban development in Lusitania Jonathan Edmondson Urban munificence and the growth of urban consciousness in Roman Spain Nicola Mackie First century Roman houses in Gaul and Britain T F C Blagg Towards an assessment of the economic and social consequences of the Roman conquest of Gaul J F Drinkwater The emergence of Romano Celtic religion Anthony King

Bone, Antler, Ivory and Horn Arthur MacGregor, 2014-10-30 Artefacts made from skeletal materials since the Roman period were before this book neglected as a serious area of study This is a comprehensive account which reviews over fifty categories of artefact The book starts with a consideration of the formation morphology and mechanical properties of the materials and illuminates characteristics concerning working with them Following chapters discuss the organisation of the industry and trade in such items including the changing status of the industry over time Archaeological evidence is combined with that from historical and ethnological sources with many illustrations providing key visual reference Originally published in 1985

Towns in Decline, AD100-1600 Terry Slater, 2017-07-05 Many European towns have experienced loss of population degradation of physical structure and profound economic change at least once since the height of the Roman Empire This volume is an examination of the various causes of these changes the results which flowed from them and the reasons why some urban centres survived revived and eventually flourished again while others failed and died The contributors bring to bear the techniques of history and archaeology the perspectives of economics agronomy medicine architecture and planning geography and law to the study The result is a synthesis which connects the Decline of the Roman Empire to the effects of the Black Death and the economic transformation of Renaissance Florence
