Excavations At The Early Bronze Age Cemetery Of Tiwal Esh Sharqi:

Excavations at the Early Bronze Age Cemetery of Tiwal Esh-Sharqi Jonathan N. Tubb, 1990 A report on excavations undertaken by the author on behalf of the British Museum which examined 37 tombs in an area to the south of Tell Umm Hammad close to the River Jordan All but one of the tombs belonged to the Early Bronze IV period and dated to the last quarter of the 3rd millennium BC a time characterised by semi sedentary occupation Most tombs were shaft tombs but two were stone lined graves Well illustrated Excavations at the Early Bronze IV Sites of Jebel Qa'agir and Be'er Resisim William G. Dever, 2018-07-17 This volume is the final report of excavations carried out in the Hebron hills and the Negev desert in 1967 1980 on behalf of Hebrew Union College in Jerusalem and the University of Arizona They were pioneering multidisciplinary projects that helped to illuminate what was then a poorly known Dark Age in the cultural history of ancient Palestine a nonurban interlude of pastoral nomadic movements over several centuries ca 2400 2000 B C E between the great urban civilizations of the early Bronze Ages Eighteen appendixes by specialists in many disciplines analyze all aspects of material culture and human and animal remains A history of previous scholarship and a synthesis of the EB IV period in both Israel and Jordan conclude the volume which will be a landmark study for many years The Archaeology of the Bronze Age Levant Raphael Greenberg, 2019-11-07 An up to date systematic depiction of Bronze Age societies of the Levant their evolution and their interactions and entanglements with neighboring regions Death and Burial within the Ancient Levant (4500-550 BCE) Jennie Bradbury, 2025-03-28 This book offers a comprehensive survey of burial practices in the ancient Levant and challenges some of the assumptions behind previous attempts to find a normative burial practice Exploring the dazzling variety of ways in which the living deal with the dead this book utilises big data projects and legacy data to highlight the sheer diversity of burial practices in the ancient Levant Theorizing that some types of burial are significantly underrepresented this volume argues for the necessity of analysing both the existing and non existing data at multiple scales of analysis Thus rather than attempting to identify a normative or typical burial the volume highlights the multitude of ways in which the living approached and interacted with the dead across the ancient Levant from the Late Chalcolithic to the Iron Age fifth to first millennia BCE In doing so it acknowledges and foregrounds variability not only in terms of so called atypicality but also in terms of burials and practices that have been mistakenly lumped together in the drive to produce narratives of similarity and normative behaviour This volume also explores some of the broader patterns and temporal spatial shifts that shed light on wider changes in the ways in which humans perceived of the dead and themselves the living over time While predominantly focused on the modern regions of Israel Jordan Lebanon Palestine and Syria this book also engages with these broader themes across Western Asia and the Mediterranean adopting an interdisciplinary and cross cultural approach to understanding temporal and spatial variability This book is of relevance for students and researchers of Ancient Western Asia as well as those of the archaeology of death and burial The Amorites and the Bronze Age Near East Aaron

A. Burke, 2021 A diachronic yet nuanced study of Amorite identity from Mesopotamia to Egypt over a millennium of Bronze Age history     The Global History of Paleopathology Jane E. Buikstra, Charlotte Roberts, 2012-06-07 The first comprehensive global history of the discipline of paleopathology     Digging Up Jericho Rachel Thyrza Sparks, Bill Finlayson, Bart Wagemakers, Josef Mario Briffa SJ, 2020-01-23 21 papers present a holistic perspective on the research and public value of the site of Jericho an iconic site with a long and impressive history stretching from the Epipalaeolithic to the present day Covering all aspects of archaeological work from past to present and beyond they re evaluate and assess the legacy of this important site     Excavations at Tell Um Hammad, 1982-1984 Svend W. Helms, 1992 This new work at Tell Um Hammad now gives the first comprehensive set of ceramic lithic architectural and stratigraphic data which will form the basis of all further interpretation Striving towards an explanation of the historical processes between the village economies of the Chalcolithic period and the full Early Bronze Age this volume will be a standard reference work for both historians and archaeologists of the Near East     The Archaeology of Jordan and Beyond Lawrence E. Stager, Joseph A. Greene, Michael D. Coogan, 2018-07-17 James A Sauer was for many years the Director of the American Center of Oriental Research in Amman Jordan leading it to the preeminent place it now occupies as a research institution dedicated to the archaeology and history of Transjordan This volume honors him with more than 50 contributions from colleagues and friends With this volume the Harvard Semitic Museum inaugurates a new series entitled Studies in the Archaeology and History of the Levant     'To Aleppo gone ...': Essays in honour of Jonathan N. Tubb Irving Finkel, J.A. Fraser, St John Simpson, 2023-05-18 A festschrift in honour of Jonathan Tubb former Levant curator and Keeper of the Department of the Middle East at the British Museum 44 contributions reflect Jonathan's career and professional interests with a focus on the Jordan Valley and southern Levant but also north Syria Mesopotamia and the protection of endangered cultural heritage     The Jordan Valley Survey, 1953 Albert Leonard, 1992     Canaanites Jonathan N. Tubb, 1998 Canaanites explores the ancient population of the Western Levant Israel Transjordan Lebanon and coastal Syria examining the development of its distinctive culture from the early farming communities of the eighth millennium B C to the fragmentation of its social and cultural ideals in the latter half of the first millennium B C Jonathan N Tubb makes judicious use of the Hebrew Bible in describing Canaanite culture He views the Bible as a rich resource for understanding the literary and theological heritage of Israel which he classifies as a subculture of Canaan At the same time he reveals the limitations of the Bible as a historical document arguing that to reconstruct the Canaanites history we must first look at the archaeological data Tubb stresses the continuity of Canaanite civilization portraying events such as the imposition of Egyptian imperial rule and the development of historical Israel as episodic interruptions     Settlement and Society in the Early Bronze Age I and II, Southern Levant Alexander H. Joffe, 1993 This book discusses the development of indigenous patterns of small scale complexity during the Early Bronze I and II periods ca 3500 2700 BCE in the Southern Levant Aspects of methodology are outlined including an assessment of archaeological surveys and their limitations The book discusses the background to the emergence of complex societies during the fourth and third millennia BCE suggesting that the Southern Levant was preadapted to cycles of rising and collapsing complexity by mechanisms of social decomposition and reformulation Using settlement pattern data as a focal point the book synthesizes the available data for the emergence of Early Bronze II urbanism and trade oriented economies in the Southern Levant from Early Bronze I village level organization stressing the importance of intersocietal contacts Mediterranean crop production and highland lowland exchange The book is designed to synthesize the evidence for early urban development in the Southern Levant and to situate the discussion in terms generally associated with the large core civilizations of Mesopotamia and Egypt It therefore addresses issues of interest to scholars working in the Southern Levant as well as those seeking cross cultural perspectives on early complex societies

Studies in Archaeological Conservation Chris Caple, Vicky Garlick, 2020-12-14 Studies in Archaeological Conservation features a range of case studies that explore the techniques and approaches used in current conservation practice around the world and taken together provide a picture of present practice in some of the world leading museums and heritage organisations Archaeological excavations produce thousands of corroded and degraded fragments of metal ceramic and organic material that are transformed by archaeological conservators into the beautiful and informative objects that fill the cases of museums The knowledge and expertise required to undertake this transformation is demonstrated within this book in a series of 26 fascinating case studies in archaeological conservation and artefact investigation undertaken in laboratories around the world These case studies are contextualised by a detailed introductory chapter which explores the challenges presented by researching and conserving archaeological artefacts and details how the case studies illustrate the current state of the subject Studies in Archaeological Conservation is the first book for over a quarter of a century to show the range and diversity of archaeological conservation in this case through a series of case studies As a result the book will be of great interest to practising conservators conservation students and archaeologists around the world

Children in the Ancient Near Eastern Household Kristine Garroway, 2014-10-21 Children were an important part of the ancient Near Eastern household This idea seems straightforward but it can be understood in many ways On a basic level children are necessary for the perpetuation of a household On a deeper level the definitions of child and member of the household are far from categorical This book begins to explore the multiple definitions of child and the way the child fits within a household It examines what membership in the household looks like for children and what factors contribute to it A study addressing what a child is and how a child's gender and social status affect her place in the household is vital to a proper understanding of the ancient Near Eastern household Despite their importance children have long been marginalized in discussions of ancient societies Only recently has this trend begun to change within biblical and ancient Near Eastern scholarship A recent wave of studies especially in relation to the Hebrew Bible has started to address children in their own right In light of the current state of scholarship on children the purpose of this book is threefold First Garroway continues to fill out the picture of the child in the ancient Near East by compiling child centric texts and archaeological realia In analyzing these materials she surveys the relationship between children and ancient Near Eastern society by examining the extent to which structuring forces in a community such as social status and gender contribute to the process of a child s becoming a member of his household and society Finally this information provides a base for future research for example a cross cultural study of children in the ancient Near East in Classical Antiquity

Life on the Watershed Eva Kaptijn,2009 The scarcity of water is a major problem in many parts of the Near East today and has been so in the past To survive in such a region people should be able to structurally attain more water than rainfall alone can supply The archaeology of this area should not only identify when people inhabited such a region and what the character of this habitation was but also how people were able to survive in such a region and why they chose to live there in the first place In this book these questions have been studied for the Zerqa Triangle a region in the middle Jordan Valley around Tell Deir Alla Jordan By means of a detailed pedestrian archaeological survey the intensity of habitation of the region from the Neolithic to early modern periods is investigated Efforts have been undertaken to reconstruct the agricultural practices in the various periods and simultaneously the means by which the different communities were able to practice agriculture in other words how did they irrigate the land By focussing on the different social responses of communities conclusions have been drawn on how and why people managed to create a living in this arid but potentially very fertile region This book not only contributes to the ongoing discussion of the archaeology of marginal areas but also provides a huge amount of new data on the archaeology of the Jordan Valley both in the form of newly discovered settlement sites from several different periods as well as remains from several more inconspicuous types of human activity present in the countryside

Dolmens in the Levant James A. Fraser,2018-01-17 When Western explorers first encountered dolmens in the Levant they thought they had discovered the origins of a megalithic phenomenon that spread as far as the Atlantic coast Although European dolmens are now considered an unrelated tradition many researchers continue to approach dolmens in the Levant as part of a trans regional phenomenon that spanned the Taurus mountains to the Arabian peninsula By tightly defining the term dolmen itself this book brings these mysterious monuments into sharper focus Drawing on historical archaeological and geological sources it is shown that dolmens in the Levant mostly concentrate in the eastern escarpment of the Jordan Rift Valley and in the Galilean hills They cluster near proto urban settlements of the Early Bronze I period 3700 3000 BCE in particular geological zones suitable for the extraction of megalithic slabs Rather than approaching dolmens as a regional phenomenon this book considers dolmens as part of a local burial tradition whose tomb forms varied depending on geological constraints Dolmens in the Levant is essential for anyone interested in the rise of civilisations in the ancient Middle East and particularly those who have wondered at the origins of these enigmatic burial monuments that dominate the landscape

millennium BC witnessed severe dislocations in the social economic and political structures of the lands at the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea the Levant In the south in what is now Israel the Palestinian Territories and Jordan hitherto thriving urban centres disappeared to be replaced for several centuries      Achaios Evangelia Papadopoulou,Vassilis Chrysikopoulos,Gioulika Christakopoulou,2016-07-10 In Achaios thirty five scholars from six different countries have contributed with thirty one papers as a small token of appreciation gratitude and affection to a true scholar who devoted his life studying and revealing the long journeys of the Mycenaeans and their culture      A Land in Between Melissa Kennedy,2020-12-01 The Orontes Valley in western Syria is a land in between positioned between the small trading centres of the coast and the huge urban agglomerations of the Euphrates Valley and the Syro Mesopotamian plains beyond As such it provides a critical missing link in our understanding of the archaeology of this region in the early urban age A Land in Between documents the material culture and socio political relationships of the Orontes Valley and its neighbours during the second half of the 3rd millennium BCE The authors demonstrate that the valley was a chief conduit for the exchange of knowledge and goods that fuelled the first urban age in western Syria This lays the foundation for a comparative perspective providing a clearer understanding of key differences between the Orontes region and its neighbours and insights into how patterns of material and political association changed over time
