Facing the World Anastasios (Archbishop of Tirana and all Albania), 2003 The process of globalization evokes either euphoria or alarm Some view it as an unmistakable sign of progress while others see it as a threat Nevertheless the accelerated development of economic scientific political and social links among all the peoples of the world has turned our planet into a megalopolis replete with slums In this work Archbishop Anastasios presents his conviction that the ecumenical vision of the Orthodox Church is the best response to the growing global condition In the Orthodox tradition everything is understood within a universal context from the creation of the world to the vision of the new heaven and new earth Human enterprise as a whole and the salvation of the entire world are seen as the basic themes of Holy Scripture In this work Archbishop Anastasios discusses Orthodox perspectives on human rights the dialogue with Islam and the relationship between culture and the gospel and provides an analysis of world religions His words invite us to broaden our field of vision to encompass the whole earth agendas     Fault Lines in the Orthodox World Sebastian Rimestad, Emil Hilton Saggau, 2025-03-06 Throughout the past years the Orthodox world has seen numerous political and theological confrontations New borders have been shaped by churches and states This only increased in light of the Russian backed conflict in Ukraine from 2014 and onwards which has led to new theological lines of thinking geopolitical confrontations and an acute need for diplomatic handling of crisis At the centre is the Russian Orthodox Church's global role and its effects in Ukraine The confrontations are born out of a complex entanglement of church politics theological differences legal tensions national allegiances and the very concrete political and military clashes between nation states In light of the war in Ukraine Global Orthodoxy has seen new fault lines in the making This volume gathers chapters that shed light on these entanglements and their political theological and geopolitical consequences The book is not limited to the Russian Ukrainian conflict but also includes papers focusing on other nations churches and aspects theological theoretical geopolitical empirical etc     Beyond the East-West Divide Anna Marie Aagaard, Peter Bouteneff, 2001 Orthodox participation in the World Council of Churches has always been a paradox enthusiastically committed and yet plagued by complaints This situation has lately reached crisis proportions two Orthodox churches have withdrawn their membership more threaten to follow Is this an Orthodox problem Or is there something fundamentally wrong with the ecumenical machinery In this book two theologians one an Orthodox and one a Lutheran engage in an extended dialogue to illumine some of the issues and possible ways forward The issues they discuss fall squarely within the agenda of the Special Commission on Orthodox Participation in the WCC which was created in Harare in 1998     Pentecost in Asia Thomas Charles Fox, 2002 What would the Catholic Church look like if an unyielding search for justice and harmony characterized its mission in the world What if the Church's priorities shifted so that living in solidarity with the laity especially the poorest among them became its primary goal How would Catholicism appear to the world and to other religions if simply living out the Gospels became its primary mode of evangelization What if Catholic bishops looked to their theologians as venerable masters incorporating them into deliberations on theology and pastoral care How would Catholic authority be transformed if building consensus became a primary means of finding direction Or if leaders knew in the final analysis authority had to be earned from their people This would be a new kind of Catholicism And as journalist Thomas C Fox shows us this Catholicism has already been born and has been coming to life in Asia over the past thirty years It is a new Catholicism that offers a fresh new vision of Church a global vision for the 21st century     The Price of Prophecy Alexander F. C. Webster, 1993     Witness to the World John Meyendorff, 1987 This book reflects Father Meyendorff's fundamental convictions concerning 1 Orthodox participation in ecumenical dialogue 2 the Church's responsibilities in education and mission and 3 spiritual developments in Russia     Globalization and Orthodox Christianity Victor Roudometof, 2013-10-15 With approximately 200 to 300 million adherents worldwide Orthodox Christianity is among the largest branches of Christianity yet it remains relatively understudied This book examines the rich and complex entanglements between Orthodox Christianity and globalization offering a substantive contribution to the relationship between religion and globalization as well as the relationship between Orthodox Christianity and the sociology of religion and more broadly the interdisciplinary field of Religious Studies While deeply engaged with history this book does not simply narrate the history of Orthodox Christianity as a world religion nor does it address theological issues or cover all the individual trajectories of each subgroup or subdivision of the faith Orthodox Christianity is the object of the analysis but author Victor Roudometof speaks to a broader audience interested in culture religion and globalization Roudometof argues in favor of using globalization instead of modernization as the main theoretical vehicle for analyzing religion displacing secularization in order to argue for multiple hybridizations of religion as a suitable strategy for analyzing religious phenomena It offers Orthodox Christianity as a test case that illustrates the presence of historically specific but theoretically distinct glocalizations applicable to all faiths

Global Voices Joy Bray, 2008 Just Peace Semegnish Asfaw, Alexios Chehadeh, Marian Gh Simion, 2012 Despite their largely pacifist origins Christianity and Christian traditions can claim only limited success in their efforts to conciliate conflict avoid violence and stop war The eminent contributors to this deeply reflective book believe it is time to look to the East to the very different perspectives among Orthodox Christians on issues of war and the justice that must undergird peace From Europe and Russia as well as the Middle East and Asia two dozen Orthodox theologians and church people cast the classic dilemmas of war and peace military service just war and religious nationalism into a deeper theological framework The book examines the historical characterizations of Orthodoxy in a variety of settings and nations Greece Oriental Christianity Bulgaria Armenia Western Europe etc dilemmas of nationalism for the churches the Russian Orthodox Church and the military the invasion of Iraq globalization fundamentalism interreligious tensions the ecclesial vocation of peacemaking

For the Peace from Above Hildo Bos, Jim Forest, 2011-09-01 Since the early days of the Church Christians have struggled to come to terms with Christ's words of peace and His example of peace In Christ's life as recorded in the New Testament it is striking that He neither killed anyone nor summoned any of His disciples to kill Indeed the final miracle Christ performed before His execution was to heal an enemy's wound an injury caused by the Apostle Peter in an attempt to defend his master Yet in the course of more than twenty centuries of Christian history we see Christians often involved in war and in surveying the calendar of saints find not only those who refused to take part in war but also those who served in the military though no one has been canonized due to his skill as a soldier Besides the millions of Christians who have fought in armies often against fellow Christians we also find many priests bishops and theologians who have advocated war and blessed its weapons Our subject is an urgent one Many people today live either near conflict areas or are directly touched by war or in areas where terrorist actions may suddenly occur Everyone on the planet is in some way affected by wars in progress or wars in the making as well as the consequences of wars in the past Every day thousands of Christians struggle in thought and prayer with some of the most difficult of questions May I fight injustice by violent methods Am I allowed to kill in combat Are there limits on what I can do in the defense of my country Am I as a Christian allowed to disobey demands that I believe are unjust or violate the Gospel When the demands of my country seem at odds with the demands of the Kingdom of God how do I respond to this conflict Rarely do we find easy answers to these and similar questions Thus those of us in the Orthodox Christian tradition search for help in Holy Scripture the canons provided to us by ecumenical councils the witness of the saints the writing of the Fathers of the Church as well as theologians of recent times Imitation of saintly forebears alone however will not solve our problems Different eras have adopted different attitudes Also many of today's problems never existed before not least the changed character of war in an era of weapons of mass destruction terrorism and mass propaganda Yet knowledge of the thought and action undertaken by the Orthodox Churches on the issues of war and peace in recent decades surely can help us find ways out of the dead ends that many communities are experiencing today This is the aim of this book To Renew the Face of the Earth Justice & Peace Commission. Diocese of Bridgetown, Catholic Church. Diocese of Bridgetown (Barbados), 2004 Church, World, Mission Alexander Schmemmann, 1979 The questions raised in this collection of essays pertain to a wide range of subjects history theology liturgy canonical order the ecumenical movement mission One underlying question from which they all stem and to which they all ultimately refer gives them an inner unity and cohesion What is the destiny of the Orthodox Church in this second half of the twentieth century in a world and culture radically different from those that shaped the Orthodox mentality thought forms and lifestyles of the past This book is essential reading for all interested in the role of Orthodoxy in the world today Book cover For the Peace from on High James H. Forest, Hildo Bos, 2007-12 A unique collection of texts on war peace and nationalism from an Orthodox Christian perspective Relevant texts from holy scripture church canons liturgical services church fathers official church statements and contemporary authors are presented in an accessible and logical way and accompanied by a number of case studies that look at certain issues in greater detail Several texts are published for the first time or for the first time in English such as the decisions of the third pan Orthodox conference in Chamb sy 1986 on the contribution of the Orthodox church to peace Includes an extensive bibliography on all subjects
