

A vibrant red background serves as the canvas for a dense collage of 20th-century history. The title "THE 20th CENTURY" is prominently displayed in the center in large, bold, yellow letters with a black outline. Surrounding the text are numerous cutouts of significant figures and events. On the left, there's a mix of faces including Albert Einstein, Marilyn Monroe, and Winston Churchill. On the right, figures like Vladimir Lenin, Adolf Hitler, and John F. Kennedy are visible. The bottom section features a variety of scenes: a rocket launch, a nuclear mushroom cloud, a soldier in a trench, and a person in a space suit. The collage effectively captures the breadth and intensity of the 20th century.

Doerer,J.N. Kraay,2012-12-06 The answer to philosophical questions will often depend on the position one takes regarding the fact value problem It is therefore not surprising that in the tradition of western philosophy the past 200 years or so record an animated discussion of it In the present collection the debate is continued by representatives of various schools in contemporary western thought A number of philosophers from non western cultures too enter into it The contributions do not all reflect on the same theme nor do they use the same approach Essays written by philosophers sympathetic to the analytical tradition are followed by reflections on the part of those inspired by the nomenclature. A third group of contributions is by non-western thinkers who are more likely to approach the problem in terms of culture. Their engagement with the issue clearly shows among other things that it is almost exclusively in the western tradition that the fact-value distinction is often understood as an outright dichotomy. The occasion for the publication of this collection is Dr Cornelis Anthonie van Peursen's retirement as Professor of Philosophy. This year he leaves the Free University Amsterdam. Until 1982 he was professor at the University of Leyden as well. In the Netherlands and beyond he has become known for his concern with constructive comparison of diverging philosophical trends and the cross-cultural fertilization of thought. Characteristic of his career are his efforts to render the results of academic philosophizing understandable to a broader audience.

The 20th Century Mary Ellen Sterling, 1997-06 Observing Agriculture in Early Twentieth-Century Italy Federico D'Onofrio, 2016-05-20 Agricultural Economists in Early Twentieth-Century Italy describes how Italian agricultural economists collected information about the economy of Italy between the Giolittian and the Fascist eras. The book carefully describes three main forms of economic observation: enquiries, statistics and farm surveys. For each of these forms of observation, the main participants to the investigation are discussed with their respective agendas alongside the purposes of the investigation and its practical constraints. This work introduces the concept of stakeholder statistics and stresses the two-way relation between the observer and the observed in the co-production of observational knowledge. Practices of observation developed together with agricultural economics as a discipline and a profession. The study of forms of investigation therefore shed light on the constitution of a coherent and self-conscious group of agricultural economists in Italy and the scientific and methodological alliances they forged with agricultural economists elsewhere in Europe. Thanks to ambitious research projects, Ghino Valenti in the Giolittian period and Arrigo Serpieri after the First World War led the transformation of Italian agricultural economists from agents of estate owners to social and economic experts in the service of the Italian state. The group of agricultural economists who gathered around Serpieri played an important role in supplying the ideology of the agricultural elites with economic content, especially after the First World War along lines that resemble the development of agrarian ideologies in other countries of Central Europe This work discusses how observation entered the political debate on agricultural policies of the Fascist regime namely the so called Ruralismo The World Almanac and Book of Facts ,1942 Lists news events population figures and miscellaneous data of an historic economic scientific and social nature Twentieth Century Quarterly ,1904 Place of Science in a World of Values and Facts Loucas G. Christophorou,2005-12-27 This is an engrossing book It is also an unusual book it is written by a scientist who is quite willing to talk about the softer side of life about things such as love and respect and responsibility and to try and position them in the context of his science He is also willing to talk about religion the manner in which it relates to science and science to it and to attempt reconciliation of both He sets himself a tough task to tread the narrow path between the maudlin and the severely sober In this he is eminently successful He is successful not because he aims at any grand synthesis but because he has chosen the more modest path of simply laying out the cards on the table This work is also unusual for another reason The majority of books that attempt to explain science to a lay public that try to describe its workings its raison d tre its hidden contents its societal impact its implications for our future etc are written by theorists This is hardly surprising The theoretician after all is expected to think deeply to be the great unifier to be concerned with meaning Very few books about science are written by scientists ones who spend their time in a working experimental laboratory This is such a book And because it is it is also a very different book The Nature of Order, Book One: The Phenomenon of Life Christopher Alexander,2020-03-30 Christopher Alexander s series of ground breaking books including A Pattern Language and The Timeless Way of Building have pointed to fundamental truths of the way we build revealing what gives life and beauty and true functionality to our buildings and towns Now in The Nature of Order Alexander explores the properties of life itself highlighting a set of well defined structures present in all order and in all life from micro organisms and mountain ranges to good houses and vibrant communities In The Phenomenon of Life the first volume in this four volume masterwork Alexander proposes a scientific view of the world in which all space matter has perceptible degrees of life and sets this understanding of order as an intellectual basis for a new architecture With this view as a foundation we can ask precise questions about what must be done to create more life in our world whether in a room a humble doorknob a neighbourhood or even in a vast region He introduces the concept of living structure basing it upon his theories of centers and of wholeness and defines the fifteen properties from which according to his observations all wholeness is built Alexander argues that living structure is at once both personal and structural Taken as a whole the four books create a sweeping new conception of the nature of things which is both objective and structural hence part of science and also personal in that it shows how and why things have the power to touch the human heart A step has been taken through which these two domains the domain of geometrical structure and the feeling it creates kept separate during four centuries of scientific thought from 1600 to 2000 have finally been united The Documentary Imagination in Twentieth-Century French Literature Alison

James,2020-09-03 The Documentary Imagination in Twentieth Century French Literature identifies a documentary impulse in French literature that emerges at the end of the nineteenth century and culminates in a proliferation of factual writings in the twenty first Focusing on the period bookended by these two moments it highlights the enduring concern with factual reference in texts that engage either with current events or the historical archive Specifically it considers a set of ideas and practices centered on the conceptualization and use of documents In doing so it contests the widespread narrative that twentieth century French literature abandons the realist enterprise and argues that writers instead renegotiate the realist legacy outside or at the margins of the fictional space of the novel Analyzing works by authors including Gide Breton Aragon Yourcenar Duras and Modiano the book defines a specific documentary mode of literary representation that records assembles and investigates material traces of reality The document is a textual visual or material piece of evidence repurposed through its visual insertion textual transcription or description within a literary work It is a fact but it also becomes a figure standing for literature s confrontation with the real The documentary imagination involves a fantasy of direct access to a reality that speaks for itself At the same time it gives rise to concrete textual practices that open up new directions for literature by interrogating the construction and interpretation of facts Writing Facts Susanne
