Aging Invisibly ,2024-09-16

Statistical data suggest that many people with chronic health conditions pass away at much younger ages than their peers Yet large quantitative datasets that address aging with chronic illness often do not capture the diversity of people with chronic diseases and their experiences of growing older The assumptions built into many core data resources on aging often erase the journeys of people occupying marginalized social locations Likewise these same assumptions can result in omission of people who survive for long amounts of time while managing conditions with relatively short median life expectancies These barriers to understanding diverse experiences of aging with chronic illness are endemic but not unique to quantitative research Qualitative data collection can indeed offer richer insight into both of these intersecting sets of aging experiences However even more in depth approaches to inquiry with smaller groups of people require asking questions that explicitly explore and affirm the diversity of identities and health statuses held by older adults A more constructive and impactful approach to capturing meaningful data on diverse experiences of aging with chronic disease is thus to focus on affirming study architecture rather than viewing one particular set of methods as a panacea for exclusion With this new edited volume the editors support the broader goal of expanding knowledge on diverse trajectories of aging with chronic health conditions Contributed chapters range from critical reviews to methods primers to empirical investigations The authors focus synergistically on amplifying the attributes and experiences of diverse social populations and on highlighting journeys of longevity with chronic disease Contributors are Nicholas B DiCarlo Angela Hunt Ian M Johnson Nat Jones Kristen D Krause Nik M Lampe Ginny Natale Audria LB Kirsten Ostergren Clark Manacy Pai Michele Wise Wright and Terry Gene Wright

Alzheimer's Disease Fitten,1996 Depression in Long Term and Residential Care Robert L. Rubinstein,Mortimer Powell Lawton,1997 Text on the research developments regarding the nature and treatment of depression among the elderly For gerontologists clinical psychologists Handbook of Neuropsychology and Aging Paul David Nussbaum,2013-11-11 Leaders in neuropsychology behavioral neurology speech and language science neuropsychiatry and many other disciplines contribute to this volume the first comprehensive review of knowledge in the field They discuss a wide range of disorders including areas of recent research such as frontal lobe dementias and the neuropsychological aspects of late life depression and clinical problems typically given insufficient consideration in other works such as seizure disorder head injury and mental retardation Normal aging is also covered in detail and assessment procedures and clinical interventions are given thorough treatment Other highlights include discussions of guardianship and caregiving personality and behavior psychotic disorders Alzheimer s and head trauma The Year Book of Geriatrics and Gerontology, 1995 John C. Beck,1995 This text part of the Yearbook of Geriatrics and Gerontology series contains articles selected from over 900 international journals It provides a regular insight into literature specific to the fields of geriatric medicine and gerontology Emotion and Aging: Recent Evidence from Brain and Behavior Natalie Ebner,Håkan Fischer,2015-05-05 Emotions play a central role in every human life from the moment we are born until we die They prepare the body for action guide decisions and highlight what should be noticed and remembered Since emotions are central to daily functioning and well being it is important to understand the extent to which aging affects the perception of attention to memory for as well as experience and regulation of emotions An early scientific view of how people s emotions are affected by aging argued that aging led to a deterioration of emotional function This theory represented by for example Carl Jung 1875 1961 claimed that old age is a period of life when people feel an increased emotional sameness and less emotional energy According to this scientific view the aging emotional landscape was bleached barren and flattened Current psychological research however shows that emotion is rather a psychological domain that is relatively unaffected by the aging process or even improves with age in contrast to most cognitive functions For example even though there is evidence that aging is associated with deficits in emotion recognition various emotional functions seem to remain intact or become better with age such as the ability to regulate one s emotions or the extent of experiencing positive emotions However more research is needed to determine brain and behavior related quantitative and qualitative age related changes of different aspects of emotion processing and emotional functioning In the current Frontiers research topic we aim to present exciting new findings related to the effects of healthy aging on both more perceptually driven bottom up as well as more cognitively driven top down aspects of emotions In particular questions such as the following need to be raised and addressed What neural and behavioral processes are underlying age differences in emotion perception and memory for emotional information Are there differences between how older and younger adults experience and regulate their emotions and what drives these differences Is there a gradual reduction or more of a qualitative change of our emotional experiences over the life cycle from the turbulent childhood and youth to the mellower old age And what aspects of age related changes in emotional processing can be explained by age related changes in the brain and which are more affected by other factors such as changes in other body systems in experiential processes or in overall life goals Home Care ,1996 Clinical Neurology of Aging Martin Albert, MD, PhD, FAAN,Janice Knoefel, MD, MPH,2011-01-11 Aging does not automatically imply decline Many older people find joy in their friendships and their willingness to look at the world with a calmer view than they may have had in youth This book clinically focused is designed to help clinicians help older persons maintain that joy Clinical Neurology of Aging Martin L. Albert,Janice E.

Knoefel,2011-03-03 This clinically focused book is designed to help clinicians help older persons maintain that joy Now divided into 9 comprehensive sections this edition contains subjects ranging from geriatric assessment to pain management and palliative care Current Research and Emerging Directions in Emotion-Cognition Interactions Florin Dolcos,Lihong Wang,Mara Mather,2015-03-02 Emotion can impact various aspects of our cognition and behavior by enhancing or impairing them e g enhanced attention to and memory for emotional events or increased distraction produced by goal irrelevant emotional information On the other hand emotion processing is also susceptible to cognitive influences typically exerted in the form of cognitive control of motion or emotion regulation Despite important recent progress in understanding emotion cognition interactions a number of aspects remain unclear The present book comprises a collection of manuscripts discussing emerging evidence regarding the mechanisms underlying emotion cognition interactions in healthy functioning and alterations associated with clinical conditions in which such interactions are dysfunctional Initiated with a more restricted focus targeting 1 identification and in depth analysis of the circumstances in which emotion enhances or impairs cognition and 2 identification of the role of individual differences in these effects our book has emerged into a comprehensive collection of outstanding contributions investigating emotion cognition interactions based on approaches spanning from behavioral and lesion to pharmacological and brain imaging and including empirical theoretical and review papers alike Co hosted by the Frontiers in Neuroscience Integrative Neuroscience and Frontiers in Psychology Emotion Science the contributions comprising our book and the associated research topic are grouped around the following seven main themes distributed across the two hosting journals I Emotion and Selectivity in Attention and Memory II The Impact of Emotional Distraction Linking Enhancing and Impairing Effects of Emotion III What Really is the Role of the Amygdala IV Age Differences in Emotion Processing The Role of Emotional Valence V Affective Face Processing Social Cognition and Personality Neuroscience VI Stress Mood Emotion and the Prefrontal Cortex The Role of Control in the Stress Response VII Emotion Cognition Interactions in Clinical Conditions As illustrated by the present collection of contributions emotion cognition interactions can be identified at different levels of processing from perception and attention to long term memory decision making processes and social cognition and behavior Notably these effects are subject to individual differences that may affect the way we perceive experience and remember emotional experiences or cope with emotionally challenging situations Moreover these opposing effects tend to co occur in affective disorders such as depression and PTSD where uncontrolled recollection of and rumination on distressing memories also lead to impaired cognition due to emotional distraction Understanding the nature and neural mechanisms of these effects is critical as their exacerbation and co occurrence in clinical conditions lead to devastating effects and debilitation Hence bringing together such diverse contributions has allowed not only an integrative understanding of the current extant evidence but also identification of emerging directions and concrete venues for future investigations Cumulated Index Medicus ,1995
