Foreign Flowers Peter Larmour, 2005-05-31 Wide ranging and cross disciplinary in its approach Foreign Flowers focuses on the process of policy transfer in the Pacific and the use of power to achieve it Many governing institutions in the region have been borrowed transplanted or imposed by colonial rule or military intervention from outside The book attempts to answer several key questions Where do the governing institutions originate and why are so many of them based on Western models Why have some transfers succeeded while others have not What are the effects of transfers What has been the fate of a particular institution the state How does culture affect the transfer of and resistance to institutions Early chapters identify institutional transfer as a persistent theme in the study of the Pacific reflected in ideas like cargo cults homegrown constitutions invented traditions and weak states The author analyzes about forty cases of institutional transfer beginning with Tonga s borrowing of foreign institutions in the nineteenth century and ending with current attempts to induce island states to regulate their offshore financial centers He goes on to distinguish factors that determine whether transfer took place including timing social conditions and sympathy with local values He looks at the kinds of power and coercion being deployed in transfer and at how transfers have been evaluated by their sponsors domestic reformers aid donors international financial institutions and their consultants and academic advisers

Pacific Regional Order Dave Peebles, 2005-10-01 New policies are needed if the Pacific is to realise its potential as a peaceful prosperous region where the Pacific s citizens enjoy good standards of health and education long lives and many opportunities where Pacific economic growth is constantly improving driven by environmentally sustainable service industries where coups civil conflict and the dangers of failed states have been relegated to the past where the Pacific is integrated into the wider region and is an influential voice in world affairs Argues that Pacific countries including Australia need to embrace regional integration to realise this vision The book sets out a comprehensive plan for realising a Pacific regional community dedicated to promoting sustainable development security human rights the rule of law and democracy
