but has done so by means of a source somewhat neglected in legal doctrine. This being the category of general principles peculiar to a certain field of international law i.e. those principles having their own foundations in the international legal order itself but which through the mediation of the judge end up being shaped according to the features typical of a specific normative field. The book as well as having a solid theoretical backdrop as its basis offers a careful and critical analysis of pertinent case law and will prove useful to both scholars and practitioners. Fulvio Maria Palombino is Professor of International Law at the Law Department of the University of Naples Federico II and a member of the Executive Board of the European Society of International Law. Specific to this book: Explains the ICSID practice clearly and concisely. Useful in practical terms. Excerpts from a review: Fair and Equitable Treatment and the Fabric of General Principles is an original and well researched book in which the author challenges a number of conventional wisdoms on FET. Among the strengths of the book one can mention the solid discussion of public international law principles relevant to FET and the interesting incursions into domestic law legal systems which play an important role in the understanding of FET components such as due process, legitimate expectations or proportionality. In particular the section on promises provides a convincing analysis of the issues that arise when the administration makes an assurance or representation to an investor. Against the backdrop of the examination of unilateral acts under public international law Palombino's analysis sheds new light on what ought to be the proper scope of protection under the legitimate expectations doctrine in case of governmental promises, clarifying a number of points which have received insufficient attention by arbitral tribunals thus far. Despite European integration judicial procedure has long remained autonomous i.e. a purely national regulatory object. In recent years however it has been possible to notice increasing traces of the Europeanization of procedural law on multiple levels. The rapid internationalization/development of procedural law advancing on these various levels sets challenges to the research of procedural law as well as to the conduct of judicial procedure. This book consists of a number of independent but interrelated theses and post doctoral research projects. The comprehensive research in this collection examines the challenges that are now taking place in the Europeanization of procedural law. Herdbook Containing the Pedigree of Improved Short-horn Cattle, 1889. Applications of the 'Fair Hearing' Norm in ECHR Article 6(1) to Civil Proceedings Ola Johan Settem, 2015-12-15 This book focuses on the most important implications of the fair hearing right for conducting civil proceedings It provides a thorough and critical analysis of the case law of the European Court of Human Rights the Strasbourg Court regarding Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights It puts forward a generally applicable framework for the analysis of the various procedural issues to which the fair hearing right may give rise then applies that framework to discuss a selection of specific procedural issues The book investigates several important questions of general scope in the context of ECHR Article 6 such as What is the relevance of case law regarding criminal proceedings when the fair hearing right is applied to civil proceedings How does the Strasbourg Court actually proceed when evaluating whether specific court proceedings have been fair What are the roles of fundamental concepts such as the margin of appreciation and proportionality in this regard In the subsequent discussion of specific procedural issues the focus is on the balance that must be struck between procedural safeguards and the objectives of efficiency and economy The book considers specific procedural issues such as When must an oral hearing be held in order for civil proceedings to be fair When will a refusal of specific evidence render civil proceedings unfair When is a civil litigant entitled to legal aid As such the book not only presents current case law it also compares various strands of the case law regarding the fair hearing right and

Report of the Iowa State Fair Board Iowa. Dept. of Agriculture. State Fair Board, 1928 Transnational governance through private authority Maria S. Tysiachniouk, 2023-09-04 This book provides a novel approach for understanding and analyzing transnational governance by private authorities. It brings together theoretical and empirical insights by introducing a new master concept: governance generating networks (GGN). These networks comprise three structural elements: 1) nodes of design where global standards are developed; 2) forums of negotiation where stakeholders discuss and negotiate the standards; and 3) sites of implementation where global rules are transferred into concrete practices on the ground. This concept captures both transnational processes and local practices that take place in the sites of implementation involving local actors and stakeholders as they react and adjust to the new global standards. The book focuses on forest governance through the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certification scheme, investigating implementation of FSC standards in Russia. Using several case studies in which the GGN concept is used as an analytical tool, this study assesses how global governance through the FSC contributes to forest governance in Russia and to what extent it fills an institutional void by giving voice to private actors and enabling them to foster sustainable forest management. Scholars of political science, sociology, and related disciplines, as well as practitioners such as NGO activists, company representatives, FSC experts, managers, and auditors, will find valuable insights both theoretical and empirical in this empirically rich and theoretically innovative study.
