

Faith and Speculation: An Essay in Philosophical Theology by Austin Farrer. Pp. viii + 175 (A. and C. Black) 20s.

WHEN Finite and Infinite came out twenty years ago, I described it as 'a landmark in metaphysics'. The present book is a sequel to it and in a way a corrective. It begins by restating some of the most important conclusions in a form which puts them more at the disposal of the non-specialist, although he may sometimes lose his way in the imaginary dialogues which twist and turn in so fascinating and yet sometimes in so bewildering a fashion and which have become the main feature of Dr Farrer's method. Anyhow it will be clear to everyone early in the book that 'to become aware of the divine activity' is 'to go into another dimension', that 'God and the world must both in some fashion have made their print in our minds, and not the world only' (pp. 21, 23). What Farrer is chiefly concerned to stress about this is that the knowledge which we have of God is not a mere 'intellectual vision' but 'the experience of his action', and with this I am in wholehearted agreement. He is at pains to distinguish it from 'mystical contemplation', as of course it must be distinguished, but, from the epistemological point of view, it is surely the basis of Christian mysticism. The early chapters work up to the following conclusion: 'The physical model reveals its inadequacy by blotting out the very subject we come to study, the divine. For we challenge anyone to tell us what middle position is tenable between a serious personalism in religion, and that pious atheism which has no other god than the backside of human nature' (p. 48).

The central chapters consist of three chapters dealing with 'the conceivability of a divine action in the world'. A paragraph on 'value' demands quotation:

Value cannot substitute for evidence; what it can do is to force us to judge it. Let the evidence of an existence be in some way difficult to assess by the customary rules. Then the intrinsic value of the existent which the evidence would prove if the evidence were sound, forces on us the effort of judging whether it is sound or not; always supposing that the value would be one that would make claims on our action. And so it has always been recognized that faith in God calls for voluntary effort; we could spare the trouble of deciding so mysterious and unique an issue, were it not that the absolute value of the Being involved obliges us to the exertion (p. 59).

Faith and Speculation Austin Farrer,1988-01-01 Faith and speculation Austin Farrer,1964 Faith and Speculation Austin Farrer,1967-01-01 Faith and Speculation Reverend Farrer,1967 Philosophical Theology and Christian Doctrine Brian Hebblethwaite,2008-04-15 Philosophical Theology and Christian Doctrine surveys and comments on recent work by philosophers of religion in the analytic tradition on the doctrines of the Christian creed Topics covered include creation Incarnation Trinity salvation and eschatology and the ultimate future of creation Comprehensive survey of core Christian doctrines A Philosophical Theology of the Old Testament Jaco Gericke,2020-01-08 Are we able to identify and compare the philosophical perspectives and questions that must be postulated as having been somehow present in the language ideas and worldviews of the Biblical authors This book sets out an approach to something that has been generally considered impossible a philosophical theology of the Old Testament It demonstrates and addresses the neglect of a descriptive and comparative philosophical clarification of concepts in Old Testament theology and in so doing treads new ground in Biblical studies and philosophical theology Recognizing the obvious problems with and objections to any form of interdisciplinary research combining philosophical and Biblical theology this study presents itself as introductory and experimental in nature The methodology opted for is limited to a philosophical clarification of concepts already found in Old Testament theology while the findings are presented via the popular thematic approach found in analytic philosophical theologies with no attempted justification or critique of the textual contents under investigation These approaches are combined by primarily looking at the nature of Yahweh in the Old Testament This book offers a new vision of Biblical and philosophical theology that brings them closer together in order that we might understand both more broadly and deeply As such it will be vital reading for scholars of Theology Biblical Studies and Philosophy A Grammar of Christian Faith Joe R. Jones,2002-06-03 A Grammar of Christian Faith is a two volume set that aims to confront the widespread disarray in the language and practices of Christian faith today As a grammar it explains how Christian faith provides special ways of speaking and acting that make sense of human life by giving it meaning practicality and hope It advances the thesis that learning how to speak Christian language in worship and life is crucial to learning how to be a Christian Rather than supposing that Christian language and theology need continual updating in order to be relevant to the world Jones urges the church to recover anew how Christian concepts and understanding are intended to form Christian life in all its rich depths Construing theology as confessional theology in the context of the church Jones understands the church as that liberative and redemptive community called into being by the Gospel of Jesus Christ to witness in word and deed the triune God for the benefit of the world The full range of doctrinal themes that are deemed essential to the witness of the church are explored including clear explanations of why they are essential and how they are to be understood In pursuit of a truthful and beneficial witness of the church the work centers on a trinitarian understanding of God in which God freely and lovingly interacts with the world as Creator Reconciler and Redeemer The work throughout affirms the belief that the gracious triune God is the Ultimate Companion who will redeem all creation

The Virtue of Faith and Other Essays in Philosophical Theology Robert Merrihew Adams, 1987-04-30 Robert Merrihew Adams has been a leader in renewing philosophical respect for the idea that moral obligation may be founded on the commands of God This collection of Adams essays two of which are previously unpublished draws from his extensive writings on philosophical theology that discuss metaphysical epistemological and ethical issues surrounding the concept of God whether God exists or not what God is or would be like and how we ought to relate ourselves to such a being Adams studies the relation between religion and ethics delving into an analysis of moral arguments for theistic belief In several essays he applies contemporary studies in the metaphysics of individuality possibility and necessity and counterfactual conditionals to issues surrounding the existence of God and problems of evil

Reason & the Contours of Faith Richard Rice, 2013-05-17 Can reason and religion get together Should believers think Can thinking people believe Does religion have to make sense Does careful thinking help or hinder religious experience People have wrestled with such questions for hundreds of years and they are just as perplexing today as ever Reason the Contours of Faith explores the wide ranging issues these questions raise from biblical interpretation and proofs for God's existence to the nature of religious conversion Its central purpose is to find an alternative to both fideism the idea that reason has nothing to do with faith and rationalism the conviction that reason has everything to do with it Part One Reason and the Contents of Faith argues that reason contributes in important but limited ways to our understanding of religion Part Two Reason and the Experience of Faith shows that reason can support religious commitment but never produces it

In Defence of Christianity Brian Hebblethwaite, 2006 This short book of apologetics originated in the two Gifford lectures which I contributed to a joint series in Glasgow in September 2001 and the four Hensley Hanson lectures which I delivered in Oxford in May 2002 Much rewriting and reordering has taken place Pref

Essays Anglican and Analytic Robert MacSwain, 2025-04-17 Explore the riches at the intersection of Anglican and philosophical theology In this thought provoking essay collection Robert MacSwain explores important connections between Anglican and philosophical theology Shining a spotlight on the underappreciated theological work of Austin Farrer and David Brown he brings them into creative conversation with better known figures such as Joseph Butler C S Lewis Stanley Hauerwas and Eleonore Stump He skillfully leads readers through diverse conceptual territory ranging from the Reformed epistemology of Alvin Plantinga and Nicholas Wolterstorff to the hiddenness argument of J L Schellenberg to a sacramental vision of human culture and the arts More broadly MacSwain outlines what he calls Critical Catholicism explaining how it differs from other movements in contemporary Christian thought such as Radical Orthodoxy and Analytic Theology These perceptive essays will be of particular interest to scholars and pastors who are curious about connections between theology philosophy and Anglican studies

Scripture, Metaphysics, and Poetry Robert MacSwain, 2016-04-01 This book offers a critical edition of arguably the greatest work of English theology in the 20th century Austin Farrer s Bampton Lectures published as The Glass of Vision in 1948 Farrer was an interdisciplinary genius who made original contributions to philosophy theology and biblical studies as well as to our understanding of the role of imagination in human thought and Christian doctrine According to Farrer the three primary themes of these lectures are scripture metaphysics and poetry individually and in relation to each other The lectures defend his famous theory of divine revelation through images rather than propositions or events a provocative account of the place of metaphysical reasoning in theology and a literary approach to the Biblical text that was decades ahead of its time and is still controversial The Glass of Vision has generated a rich and interesting interdisciplinary conversation that has lasted for decades starting with commentators such as Helen Gardner and Frank Kermode In addition to Farrer s full text this critical edition also contains an introduction to the significance and context of Farrer s thought and a selection of thirty years worth of commentary by leading British and European theologians and literary scholars David Brown Ingolf Dalferth Hans Haug Douglas Hedley David Jasper and Gerard Loughlin Of interest to literary and biblical scholars theologians and philosophers this book holds particular value for those exploring the nature of imagination in contemporary thought and scholarship

Maximus the Confessor and Evolutionary Biology Andrew P. Jackson, 2024-11-04 This book brings Maximus the Confessor s logoi doctrine into dialogue with modern day evolutionary biology It explores the extent to which the logoi as described by Maximus exhibit features that are concordant with evolution before going on to consider more discordant aspects that cannot be ignored The author addresses the curious resonance between the logoi and evolution in a systematic way through a close reading of primary textual material allied with a deep understanding of both the classical Darwinian and extended evolutionary syntheses The study joins with other Maximian interpreters in attesting to the incarnational and theophanic nature of the logoi but seeks to extend this distinctively Eastern Christo cosmology into the problematic territory of biological evolution a territory historically dominated by Western scholarship The book will be of interest to scholars of religion and science as well as Patristics and the Eastern Orthodox theological traditions

Mormonism in Dialogue with Contemporary Christian Theologies David Lamont Paulsen, Donald W. Musser, 2007 This volume brings together for the first time a broad range of scholars from Mormon and other Christian traditions Replacing polemics and apologetics with dialogue these exchanges show how the full spectrum of contemporary theologies can be informed by uniquely Mormon ideas and correlatively how Mormon thought can be illuminated through the study of key ideas of the foremost theologians of the twentieth and twenty first centuries

Faith and Speculation Austin Farrer, 1967

In Face of Reality Thomas A. James, 2011-04-01 This study of the work of noted liberal theologian Gordon Kaufman tracks his career from his first published book Relativism Knowledge and Faith 1960 through his 2006 book Jesus and Creativity in light of recent conversations about divine action and modern scientific knowledge James interprets Kaufman s mature position as a sophisticated reconstruction of divine activity that makes use of recent scientific theory and its naturalistic assumptions in order to revitalize a theocentric frame of reference rooted in classical theological tradition Though there are costs to be paid in the construction of a theology of radical naturalism particularly with respect to the relation between divine action and the human good Kaufman s program offers a distinctive way forward After developing a critical analysis of the limitations and possibilities of Kaufman s mature position James suggests that a christological reconsideration of the meaning of human flourishing offers the prospect of an even more radically naturalistic and theocentric theology The Nature and Limits of Human Understanding Anthony Sanford, Philip Nicholas Johnson-Laird, 2003-05-01 This book is an exploration of human understanding from the perspectives of psychology philosophy biology and theology The six contributors are among the most internationally eminent in their fields Though scholarly the writing is non technical No background in psychology philosophy or theology is presumed No other interdisciplinary work has undertaken to explore the nature of human understanding This book is unique and highly significant for anyone interested in or concerned about the human condition
