Heft, 2009-08-25 How do Catholic intellectuals draw on faith in their work And how does their work as scholars influence their lives as people of faith For more than a generation the University of Dayton has invited a prominent Catholic intellectual to present the annual Marianist Award Lecture on the general theme of the encounter of faith and profession Over the years the lectures have become central to the Catholic conversation about church culture and society In this book ten leading figures explore the connections in their own lives between the private realms of faith and their public calling as teachers scholars and intellectuals This last decade of Marianist Lectures brings together theologians and philosophers historians anthropologists academic scholars and lay intellectuals and critics Here are Avery Cardinal Dulles S J on the tensions between faith and theology in his career Jill Ker Conway on the spiritual dimensions of memory and personal narrative Mary Ann Glendon on the roots of human rights in Catholic social teaching Mary Douglas on the fruitful dialogue between religion and anthropology in her own life Peter Steinfels on what it really means to be a liberal Catholic and Margaret O'Brien Steinfels on the complicated history of women in today's church From Charles Taylor and David Tracy on the fractured relationship between Catholicism and modernity to Gustavo Gutierrez on the enduring call of the poor and Marcia Colish on the historic links between the church and intellectual freedom these essays track a decade of provocative illuminating and essential thought James L. Heft S.M. is President and Founding Director of the Institute for Advanced Catholic Studies and University Professor of Faith and Culture and Chancellor University of Dayton He has edited Beyond Violence Religious Sources for Social Transformation in Judaism Christianity and Islam Fordham People of Faith John Arnold Schmalzbauer, 2003 Over the past two decades a host of critics have accused American journalism and higher education of being indifferent even openly hostile to religious concerns These professions more than any others are said to drive a wedge between facts and values faith and knowledge the sacred and the secular However a growing number of observers are calling attention to a religious resurgence journalists are covering religion more frequently and religious scholars in academia are increasingly visible John Schmalzbauer provides a compelling investigation of the role of Catholic and evangelical Protestant beliefs in the newsroom and the classroom His interviews with forty prominent journalists and academics reveal how some people of faith seek to preserve their religious identities in purportedly secular professions What impact he asks does their Christianity have on their jobs What is the place of personal religious conviction in professional life Individuals featured include the journalists Fred Barnes Cokie Roberts Peter Steinfels Cal Thomas and Kenneth Woodward and the scholars John DiIulio Elizabeth Fox-Genovese Andrew Greeley George Marsden and Mark Noll Some of the journalists and academics with whom Schmalzbauer spoke qualified displays of personal religious belief with reminders of their own professional credibility drawing a line between advocacy and objectivity Schmalzbauer highlights the persistent tensions between the worlds of public endeavor and private belief yet he maintains there is room for faith even in professional environments that have tended to prize empiricism and detachment over expressions of personal conviction

Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 1996-06 America's Bishop Thomas C. Reeves, 2001 Among Fulton J. Sheen's

thousands of converts were celebrities such as Clare Booth Luce and Henry Ford II and former communists Louis Budenz and Elizabeth Bentley Reeves discusses these conversions and Sheen's close friendship with J. Edgar Hoover and details for the first time the struggle between Sheen and his chief rival Francis Cardinal Spellman a battle of ecclesiastical titans that led all the way to the Pope and to Sheen's final humiliation and exile Radical Conversion Christopher M.

Duncan,2021-07-13 Radical Conversion utilizes both analytic and normative philosophic theoretical frameworks to study the relationship between Christian Catholic conceptualizations of politics citizenship faith and religion as viewed through a quasi theological lens The work is situated in the context of the American liberal tradition and in conversation and debate with the public philosophy that attempts to sustain it and provide a rationale for its perpetuation In a single sentence the book's thesis is that for America to fully realize its authentic and unique moral and political mission and secure it into the future it will need to become both more Catholic and more catholic Concordantly that mission properly understood is nothing less than the recognition and protection of the idea of the sacredness of every individual human person and their right to flourish and realize the fullness of their particular vocation as a child of God A Catholic Modernity? James L. Heft,1999-09-30 This book offers a series of reflections on the state of Christianity and especially Catholicism in the world today The centerpiece of the volume is a lecture by the renowned philosopher Charles Taylor from which the title of the book is taken The lecture delivered at Dayton University in January of 1996 offered Taylor the opportunity to speak about the religious dimensions of his intellectual commitment dimensions left implicit in his philosophical writing In fact this is the only place where Taylor a Roman Catholic spells out his theological views and his sense of the cultural placement of Catholicism its history and trajectory He uses the occasion to argue against the common claim that obstacles to religious belief in modern culture are epistemic that they have to do with the triumph of the scientific worldview The real obstacles says Taylor are moral and spiritual having to do with the historic failures of religious institutions Four well known commentators on religion and society two Protestant two Catholic were invited to respond to Taylor's lecture William M. Shea George Marsden Jean Bethke Elshtain and Rosemary Luling Haughton Their chapters offer a variety of astute reflections on the tensions between religion and modernity and in particular on the role that Catholicism can and should play in contemporary society The volume concludes with Taylor's perceptive and thoughtful response to his interlocutors A Catholic Modernity provides one of the most thoughtful conversations to date about the place of the Catholic Church in the modern world and more generally about the role of religion in democratic liberal societies In the Lógos of Love James Heft,Una M. Cadegan,2016 So much has changed about Catholic intellectual life in the half century since the end of the Second Vatican Council that it has become difficult to locate the core concepts that make up the tradition In the Lógos of Love is a collection of essays that grew out of a 2013 conference on Catholic intellectual life co sponsored by the University of Dayton and the Institute for Advanced Catholic Studies at the University of Southern California The essays written by scholars of theology history law and media studies of religion trace the history of this intellectual tradition in order to craft new tools for understanding the present day and approaching the future Each essay explores both the promise of Catholic intellectual life and its various contemporary predicaments How does a changed media landscape affect the way Catholicism is depicted and the way its adherents understand and communicate among themselves What resources can the tradition offer for reflection on new understandings of sexuality and gender How can and should US Catholic intellectual life embrace and enhance and introduce students to the new ways in which Catholicism is becoming a more global tradition What is the role of scholars in disciplines beyond theology Of scholars who are not Catholic Of scholars in universities not sponsored by Catholic religious orders or dioceses By providing context for and proposing responses to these questions the scholars invite discussion and reflection from a wide range of readers who have one important thing in common a stake in sustaining a vibrant flourishing intellectual tradition

Zerstrittene »Volksgemeinschaft« Manfred Gailus, Armin Nolzen, 2011-09-14 In 1933 more than 95% of the German population were members of one of the two major Christian religions This picture did not change dramatically throughout the entire 12 year reign of the Third Reich This is all the more surprising in light of the fact that at the same time a large proportion of the German population also belonged to some Nazi organization Apparently during this period on some intellectual religious level these two irreconcilable roles of being a politically devout National Socialist and a conventional Christian were able to coexist side by side This volume examines which forms this coexistence took on the changes it experienced and the conflicts it created It also explores the question whether the religious situation of that day and age can be reduced solely to a struggle between Church and State of the two major religious faiths Catholic Women's Colleges in America Tracy Schier, Cynthia Russett, 2002-04-05 Provides a comprehensive history of more than 150 colleges in the United States which were founded by nuns and how they met the challenges of broader educational change The authors explore how and for whom the colleges were founded and the role of Catholic nuns in their founding and development They examine the roots of the founders spirituality and education they discuss curricula administration and student life And they describe the changes prompted by both the Church and society beginning in the 1960s when decreasing enrollments led some colleges to opt for coeducation while others restructured their curricula partnered with other Catholic colleges developed specialized programs or sought to broaden their base of funding American Catholic Studies, 2005
