

GRIEF VS. GRIEVING

The natural response to loss

The collection of emotions that come with loss, such as: sorrow, anger, jealousy, nostalgia, or a whole host of other feelings

Can be triggered by death, the end of a relationship, moving far away, a diagnosis, leaving a job, or some other big change

Not something you can cure, but something you can cope with

There is no right or wrong way to feel grief

The process of coming to terms with loss

The process of exploring your feelings and adjusting to life without the person or thing you've lost

There are many ways to grieve. Some examples are: crying in the arms of a loved one, drawing a picture of the person we miss, making a special food, or going for a long walk to think

We might grieve for the rest of our lives as we continue to process our feelings

There is no right or wrong way to grieve
