

The book cover features a dark, moody photograph of a forest. The trees are silhouetted against a lighter, possibly overcast sky, with some light reflecting off the water or wet ground in the foreground. The overall tone is somber and atmospheric.

Faces Of The Wilderness:

Black & Brown Faces in America's Wild Places (20th Anniversary Edition) Dudley Edmondson, 2025-09-23

Encourage diversity in outdoor wilderness areas by reading interviews with 20 people of color who have active roles in nature. During his travels around the country as a wildlife photographer, Dudley Edmondson made a concerning observation: he was the only person of color in many of the wilderness locations he visited. He began asking himself some important questions: Why am I not seeing many people of color in the parks? Where are the voices of African Americans when it comes to decisions about wild spaces? Shouldn't everyone care about the involvement of all Americans in these issues? The matter was far too important to let go. Instead, Dudley turned it into a project seeking out people of color who thrive in the outdoors and asking them about their experiences, passions, and hopes for the future. He met with policymakers, park rangers, outdoor sports enthusiasts, and others with nature-centered careers. The compilation of his interviews became the groundbreaking book Black Brown Faces in America's Wild Places. In these interviews, Dudley gets at the heart of what drew each individual to the outdoors, how they first became involved with nature, why they value those experiences, and why they believe people of color are underrepresented in this country's natural landscape. He explores the connection between this topic and issues like social justice, racial prejudice, personal safety, economics, and cultural traditions. I am honored to let the insightful individuals that I interviewed during the course of writing this book explain how all of these subjects come together in this complex social problem, says Dudley. This 20th Anniversary Edition of Black Brown Faces in America's Wild Places features 20 personal stories from across the USA told by African Americans with strong connections to the natural world. There is a bit of American history and personal history in every account. Each takes you on a fascinating journey through the life of a stranger. The portraits are insightful, revealing, and entertaining. They provide a foundation for discussion about the future of our wild places and hopefully encourage people of color to take up the torch of conservation and carry it forward on behalf of all future generations of Americans.

Faces of the Wilderness Harvey Broome, 1972. Harvey Broome was one of the founding organizers of the Wilderness Society in 1935. He was a man of spirit who found his renewal hiking and packing in the back country. He was firmly committed to wilderness preservation and worked year after year to advance the education process, which ultimately led to the creation of the National Wilderness Preservation System. The book is comprised of entries from Broome's personal journal with minor editing.

Paper Faces Alexis Krogman, 2017-11-30. People like me, people like us, we never stood a chance. Faye is a girl who has been on the streets from the time she and her younger sister, Echo, were abandoned by their parents. Both their lives have been a struggle. The two of them have grown up street savvy, stealing when necessary and never getting caught, thanks to Faye's abilities. Cosmic is a boy who has had an average life until his world fell apart at age seven. He's kept a terrible secret for so long. His life has been a struggle. He wonders if he will ever be anything more than the monster he sees himself as. Both of them have had to fend for themselves until they found people they thought they could trust But not even this trust could last forever Neither one knows the other exists that is until fate brings them together The two are thrown into the Wilderness an entire world which has the sole purpose of disposing of criminals but they are not about to give up that easily Faye has her sister to live for and she will never give up hope so long as there is life in her body Her sister means the world to her and Faye knows that Echo could never survive on her own Cosmic is determined to survive just to spite the world and prove that he can t be disposed of so easily But his will to survive changes when he meets Faye
