Facilitating Word Recall:

Facilitating Word Recall Jean G. DeGaetano,1995-01-01      The Processing of Memories (PLE: Memory) Norman E. Spear,2014-05-09 Originally published in 1978 this volume contains the evidence that is most crucial for our understanding the processes of forgetting and retention Organized in terms of problem areas and issues that are particularly pertinent to understanding these processes the book deals with both animal and human studies The author begins by defining the topic and reviewing its historical development A theoretical orientation follows and then the author begins to address the major factors that determine what is and what is not remembered Although we cannot yet specify the principles from which we can predict when an episode once learned will be remembered well or forgotten entirely the author demonstrates that such principles are not that far away He considers the issues that must be resolved before such principles are established and in the course of doing so covers the major research on why we remember events and why they are forgotten      Reduction of Environmental Distraction to Facilitate Cognitive Performance Annelies Vredeveltdt, Timothy John Hollins,2015-03-26 When faced with a difficult task people often look at the sky or close their eyes This behavior is functional the reduction of distractions in the environment can improve performance on cognitive tasks including memory retrieval Reduction of visual distractions can be operationalized through eye closure gaze aversion or by comparing exposure to simple and complex visual displays respectively Reduction of auditory distractions is typically examined by comparing performance under quiet and noisy conditions Theoretical reasoning regarding this phenomenon draws on various psychological principles including embodied cognition cognitive load and modality specific interference Practical applications of the research topic are diverse For example the findings could be used to improve performance in forensic settings e g eyewitness testimony educational settings e g exam performance occupational settings e g employee productivity or medical settings e g medical history reporting This Research Topic welcomes articles from all areas of psychology relating to the reduction of distractions to improve task performance Articles can address but are not limited to new empirical findings comprehensive reviews theoretical frameworks opinion pieces or discussions of practical applications      Otto E. Attributes of Memory (Psychology Revivals) Peter Herriot,2013-11-05 First published in 1974 Attributes of Memory rejected the prevalent stress on the structure of memory It suggests that the view of memory as a sequence of stores through which information passes is mistaken Instead the author emphasizes the coding process of memory by which the nominal stimulus the stimulus as presented is transformed into the functional stimulus the stimulus as coded Dr Herriot proposes that there are many different forms of coding and that efficiency of recall or recognition performance is a function of the nature of coding employed He suggests that the subject s linguistic system is the most frequently employed linguistic device that is that the underlying attributes and rules of language are used automatically when material is verbal Since the basic function of language is to communicate meaning those forms of coding which are meaningful in nature are most effective in memory The book cites a great deal of experimental evidence including many studies of the time As well as stating a point of view it should be useful to undergraduate and postgraduate students as a review of the early literature read in its historical context
