Facing The Ocean The Atlantic And Its People 8000 Bc Ad 15:

Facing the Ocean Barry W. Cunliffe, 2001 The Bretons are not French the Celts are not English and the Galicians are not Spanish writes Barry Cunliffe These maritime communities have long looked north and south along the coast not inland to claim a common bond Even today the Bretons see themselves as distinct from the French but refer to the Irish Welsh and Galicians as their brothers and cousins In Facing the Ocean Barry Cunliffe one of the world's most highly regarded authorities on prehistoric Europe offers an utterly original way of looking at that continent He argues that the peoples of the Atlantic rim of Iceland Scotland Ireland Brittany Spain Portugal and Gibraltar all share a cultural identity shaped by the Atlantic Ocean an identity which stretches back almost ten thousand years These peoples lived at the edge of the world in places called Land's End Finistère and Finis terra and looked out on a bountiful but terrifying expanse of ocean a roiling merciless infinity beyond which there was nothing Their profound relationship with the ocean set these communities apart from their inland countrymen creating a distinct Atlantic culture Cunliffe culls the archaeological evidence to illuminate the bonds that developed and intensified between these isolated communities and helped to maintain a shared and distinctive Atlantic identity Attractively designed and vibrantly written Facing the Ocean offers a striking reassessment of a people who have usually been regarded as peripheral to European history It will send shock waves through the history world and will radically change our view of the European past

Ancient Ocean Crossings Stephen C. Jett, 2017-06-06 Paints a compelling picture of impressive pre-Columbian cultures and Old World civilizations that contrary to many prevailing notions were not isolated from one another In Ancient Ocean Crossings Reconsidering the Case for Contacts with the Pre-Columbian Americas Stephen Jett encourages readers to reevaluate the common belief that there was no significant interchange between the chiefdoms and civilizations of Eurasia and Africa and peoples who occupied the alleged terra incognita beyond the great oceans More than a hundred centuries separate the time that Ice Age hunters are conventionally thought to have crossed a land bridge from Asia into North America and the arrival of Columbus in the Bahamas in 1492 Traditional belief has long held that Earth's two hemispheres were essentially cut off from one another as a result of the post-Pleistocene meltwater fed rising oceans that covered that bridge The oceans along with arctic climates and daunting terrestrial distances formed impermeable barriers to interhemispheric communication This viewpoint implies that the cultures of the Old World and those of the Americas developed independently Drawing on abundant and concrete evidence to support his theory for significant pre-Columbian contacts Jett suggests that many ancient peoples had both the seafaring capabilities and the motives to cross the oceans and in fact did so repeatedly and with great impact His deep and broad work synthesizes information and ideas from archaeology geography linguistics climatology oceanography ethnobotany genetics medicine and the history of navigation and seafaring making an innovative and persuasive multidisciplinary case for a new understanding of human societies and their diffuse but interconnected development

The Last Turtlemen of the Caribbean Sharika D.

Crawford,2020-10-01 Illuminating the entangled histories of the people and commodities that circulated across the Atlantic Sharika D Crawford assesses the Caribbean as a waterscape where imperial and national governments vied to control the profitability of the sea Crawford places the green and hawksbill sea turtles and the Caymanian turtlemen who hunted them at the center of this waterscape The story of the humble turtle and its hunter she argues came to play a significant role in shaping the maritime boundaries of the modern Caribbean Crawford describes the colonial Caribbean as an Atlantic commons where all could compete to control the region s diverse peoples lands and waters and exploit the region s raw materials Focusing on the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Crawford traces and connects the expansion and decline of turtle hunting to matters of race labor political and economic change and the natural environment Like the turtles they chased the boundary flouting laborers exposed the limits of states sovereignty for a time but ultimately they lost their livelihoods having played a significant role in legislation delimiting maritime boundaries Still former turtlemen have found their deep knowledge valued today in efforts to protect sea turtles and recover the region s ecological sustainability A Search for Sovereignty Lauren Benton,2009-11-30 A Search for Sovereignty approaches world history by examining the relation of law and geography in European empires between 1400 and 1900 Lauren Benton argues that Europeans imagined imperial space as networks of corridors and enclaves and that they constructed sovereignty in ways that merged ideas about geography and law Conflicts over treason piracy convict transportation martial law and crime created irregular spaces of law while also attaching legal meanings to familiar geographic categories such as rivers oceans islands and mountains The resulting legal and spatial anomalies influenced debates about imperial constitutions and international law both in the colonies and at home This study changes our understanding of empire and its legacies and opens new perspectives on the global history of law The Cambridge History of Ireland: Volume 2, 1550-1730 Jane Ohlmeyer,2018-03-31 This volume offers fresh perspectives on the political military religious social cultural intellectual economic and environmental history of early modern Ireland and situates these discussions in global and comparative contexts The opening chapters focus on Politics and Religion and War and offer a chronological narrative informed by the re interpretation of new archives The remaining chapters are more thematic with chapters on Society Culture and Economy and Environment and often respond to wider methodologies and historiographical debates Interdisciplinary cross pollination between on the one hand history and on the other disciplines like anthropology archaeology geography computer science literature and gender and environmental studies informs many of the chapters The volume offers a range of new departures by a generation of scholars who explain in a refreshing and accessible manner how and why people acted as they did in the transformative and tumultuous years between 1550 and 1730 The Indo-European Puzzle Revisited Kristian Kristiansen,Guus Kroonen,Eske Willerslev,2023-05-11 This book examines the impact of ancient DNA research and scientific evidence on our understanding of the emergence of Indo European languages in prehistory Offering cutting edge contributions from an international team of scholars it considers the driving forces behind the Indo European migrations during the 3rd and 2nd millennia BC The volume explores the rise of the world's first pastoral nomads the Yamnaya Culture in the Russian Pontic steppe including their social organization expansions and the transition from nomadism to semi sedentism when entering Europe It also traces the chariot conquest in the late Bronze Age and its impact on the expansion of the Indo Iranian languages into Central Asia In the final section the volumes consider the development of hierarchical societies and the origins of slavery A landmark synthesis of recent exciting discoveries the book also includes an extensive theoretical discussion regarding the integration of linguistics genetics and archaeology and the importance of interdisciplinary research in the study of ancient migration

Exploring Megalithic Europe Julian Heath, 2019-11-07 Abundant prehistoric remains survive in the wide landscapes of Europe but none are arguably as fascinating or awe inspiring as the megalithic after the Greek mega great and lithos stone monuments built by the people who lived here during the three hugely important periods of European prehistory known respectively as the Neolithic the Copper Age and the Bronze Age These huge prehistoric stone structures can still be found scattered in their thousands across Europe and provide a tentative but evocative link to their builders and to Europe's distant past From the Mediterranean islands to the colder climes of Scandinavia Exploring Megalithic Europe takes readers to many European countries examining both famous and lesser known megalithic monuments and looking at what insights these remarkable reminders of prehistoric life may provide into the ancient communities responsible for their construction

A Marxist History of the World Neil Faulkner, 2013-04-05 This magisterial analysis of human history from Lucy the first hominid to the current Great Recession combines the insights of earlier generations of Marxist historians with radical new ideas about the historical process Reading history against the grain Neil Faulkner reveals that what happened in the past was not predetermined Choices were frequent and numerous Different outcomes liberation or barbarism were often possible Rejecting the top down approach of conventional history Faulkner contends that it is the mass action of ordinary people that drives great events At the beginning of the 21st century with economic disaster war climate catastrophe and deep class divisions humans face perhaps the greatest crisis in the long history of our species The lesson of A Marxist History of the World is that if we created our past we can also create a better future

Eurasia at the Dawn of History Manuel Fernández-Götz, Dirk Krausse, 2017-01-16 Our current world is characterized by life in cities the existence of social inequalities and increasing individualization When and how did these phenomena arise What was the social and economic background for the development of hierarchies and the first cities The authors of this volume analyze the processes of centralization cultural interaction and social differentiation that led to the development of the first urban centres and early state formations of ancient Eurasia from the Atlantic coasts to China The chronological framework spans a period from the Neolithic to the Late Iron Age with a special focus on the early first millennium BC By adopting an interdisciplinary approach structured around the concepts of identity and materiality this book addresses the appearance of a range of key phenomena

Cohen, 2008-08-04 Through close readings of both familiar and obscure medieval texts the contributors to this volume attempt to read England as a singularly powerful entity within a vast geopolitical network This capacious world can be glimpsed in the cultural flows connecting the Normans of Sicily with the rulers of England or Chaucer with legends arriving from Bohemia It can also be seen in surprising places in literature as when green children are discovered in twelfth century Yorkshire or when Welsh animals begin to speak of the long history of their land s colonization The contributors to this volume seek moments of cultural admixture and heterogeneity within texts that have often been assumed to belong to a single national canon discovering moments when familiar and bounded space erupt into unexpected diversity and infinite realms      The Later Prehistory of North-West Europe Richard Bradley, Colin Haselgrove, Marc Vander Linden, Leo Webley, 2016 The Later Prehistory of North West Europe provides a unique up to date and easily accessible synthesis of the later prehistoric archaeology of north west Europe surveying changes in social forms landscape organization monument types and ritual practices over six millennia
