

Facing Unity: Models, Forms and Phases of Catholic-Lutheran Church Fellowship. Roman Catholic/Lutheran Joint Commission. New York: Lutheran World Federation, 1985. 80 pages. $5.00.

This brief volume is the result of the Lutheran/Roman Catholic International Dialogue. While not put forward by that dialogue as a "final report," it provides a welcome brief synthesis of theological and ecclesiological directions which move one of the most serious of the dialogues in which the Roman Catholic Church is involved. One could say it begins to shift the dialogue from theory to praxis. The brevity and economy of the volume likewise commends it as an auxiliary text for teachers working in the areas of history, ecclesiology, Roman Catholicism, ecumenics and questions of religion and culture.

The text itself is based on the years of careful work covering the issues that have traditionally divided Lutherans and Catholics. It presumes the work in the U.S. dialogue on papacy, justification and the sacraments. It specifically builds on the worldwide dialogues on eucharist and ministry. Its review material covers the ecclesiological issues raised in the World Council discussions of "Conciliar Fellowship," the Lutheran World Federation discussions of "Reconciled Diversity," and picks up on the Anglican directions suggested in "Unity by Stages." For this reason it provides a summary outline of ecumenical hopes as well as specific proposals. The careful work of Catholic and Lutheran scholarship in reflecting on the Augsburg Confession and the papal initiatives indicate that this particular dialogue is of strategic importance among those in which the Roman Catholic Church is engaged with the churches of the West. It may be that internal Roman Catholic renewal is not yet at a point in which it can deal with the specifics of this dialogue. It does bring together some of the best research done by Congar, Rahner and Fries, and provides the educator and church leader an opportunity for expanding the ecumenical imagination preparatory to such action.

One can only regret that this text was not released by its officially commissioned authors with the same challenging format as the Anglican/Roman Catholic Final Report and the Baptism, Eucharist and Ministry document of the World Council of Churches. Official responses from the Roman Catholic Church, through its bishops' conferences and Roman curia and from the member churches of the Lutheran World Federation would have indicated the specific difficulties that still remain before us. One would suspect that Lutheran and Catholic scholars need to do just as serious work on the Council of Trent, as has already been done on the Augsburg Confession and (implicitly) on Vatican I and Vatican II in this dialogue. Further, one would expect that certain Lutheran churches in the Lutheran World Federation will be ready to move forward in challenging the Roman Catholic Church to incorporate in its own life and structures the theological proposals it puts forward in this dialogue.

We should be grateful to the authors of this statement and to the Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity for continuing to press forward with this still unfinished reconciling agenda of the Second Vatican Council. The question now is as much in the hands of the educators and church leaders around the Catholic world, as it is in the hands of the professional ecumenist and the Vatican regarding effective response and reception of this mature proposal.

Facing Unity, 1985 The Church We Believe in Francis A. Sullivan, Francis Aloysius Sullivan, 1988 An ecclesiology textbook establishing theological grounds for ecumenism Lutheran and Catholic Reconciliation on Justification John A. Radano, 2009-07-28 After centuries of estrangement between Lutherans and Catholics new ecclesial relationships began at Vatican II and continued to develop during the following decades In this broader context Lutheran and Catholic Reconciliation on Justification traces the evolution of the 1999 Joint Declaration on the Doctrine of Justification While describing the steps that led to the Declaration and showing the Lutheran initiatives indispensable for making those steps John Radano pays particular attention to the Holy See's contributions Apostolic and Prophetic Gesa Elsbeth Thiessen, 2012-07-26 Apostolic ecumenical and radical these are the ecclesial characteristics highlighted by Gesa E Thiessen while explaining her vision of the church The author focuses on the meaning of each of these marks as well as on their intrinsic connections an approach that leads her to delve deep into the history of the church and to draw a wide span between the apostolic past and a radical perspective on the present and future ecumenical church Apostolic and Prophetic studies the concept of apostolicity emerging in patristic theology and examines this concept as it has been developed in select Lutheran Roman Catholic and Anglican ecumenical documents Cruciform Ecumenism Elizabeth Smith Woodard, 2019-09-06 The truth claims of Christianity appear compromised by the division of Christ's followers into different denominations What keeps Christians separated retreating to their corners labeled Catholic Orthodox and various types of Protestant Elizabeth Smith Woodard accounts for Christian disunity in terms of ecclesiology episcopacy and apostolicity in brief Who are we Who is in charge And are we who we say we are Woodard argues that the controversial issues dividing Christians today stem from these questions of authority and identity What would it look like Woodard asks if Christians did not insist on making others more like us but instead worked toward all of us becoming more and more like Christ She answers that growing in such cruciformity should serve as the basis for unity Using recent unity achieving Anglican Lutheran discussions as a case study she examines the crucial intersection of ecclesiology episcopacy and apostolicity to argue that Christians growth in Christ's mission necessarily entails growing in unity and cruciformity Growing Consensus Joseph A. Burgess, 1995 Is the Reformation Over? Mark A. Noll, Carolyn Nystrom, 2008-04 An evangelical evaluation of post Vatican II Roman Catholicism and evangelical Catholic relations Harvesting the Fruits Walter Kasper, 2009-12-14 Cardinal Kasper summarises the results of his intense dialogues with Anglican Orthodox Lutheran Reformed and Methodist Churches and sets out a blue print for consensus and convergence and sets out a map for the way forward Ecumenical Future Braaten, Robert W. Jenson, 2004-01-15 Last year a group of sixteen theologians from various church traditions published In One Body through the Cross a landmark statement on the present state and future possibilities of modern ecumenism In order to help readers understand the true depth of this document also known as The Princeton Proposal The Ecumenical Future makes available the scholarly studies that stand behind it According to the editors of this timely and provocative volume the perception is widespread that the ecumenical train is stalling or has even run off the tracks In spite of significant gains in understanding between Catholics Orthodox and various Protestant denominations the church's present divisions are nothing less than a scandal Seen in the light of Jesus' prayer in John 17 that all may be one ecumenism is neither an option nor a social or political football The fourteen essays in this book represent a focused examination of the issues that still divide and of the common ground still to be discovered Called to Witness and Service Council for Christian

Unity, 1999 This report presents the proposed agreement which encourages the French Protestant Churches to seek closer fellowship with the Anglican Churches across the channel The Churches acknowledge one another and commit themselves to closer fellowship and co-operation on the way to fuller visible unity The Liturgy of the Gospel Wolfgang

Vondey, 2025-09-12 Vondey argues that theological hermeneutics in Pentecostal perspective is the interpretation of the world explicitly and specifically informed by the liturgy of the gospel This book identifies the corresponding hermeneutical questions that have dominated the formation of a liturgical Pentecostal horizon of interpretation since the twentieth century Pentecostals are acutely aware that the claim of their interpretive position shows not only a fusion of horizons but also a rejection of the dominant descriptive mechanisms How this tension in the history of Pentecostal theology is resolved and contributes to the emergence of Pentecostalism as a hermeneutical tradition is the subject of three critical inquiries 1 the question of truth in the Pentecostal tradition 2 the extension of the question of truth to hermeneutical experience and 3 the ontological shift of Pentecostal hermeneutics Vondey identifies how Pentecostal hermeneutics emerged not only thematically and historically but experientially and subjectively through the themes of the full gospel This book shows that rather than by the dominance of language the dynamic hermeneutical positioning in the narrative of this gospel originated and continues to be shaped liturgically My Ecumenical Journey Bishop Michael Putney, 2014-03-20 This book is a collection of essays by the Australian Roman Catholic Bishop Michael Putney on the topic of ecumenism The essays date from 1991 through to 2009 and are taken from papers and articles that he has written The book's introduction outlines Bishop Michael's involvement in ecumenical affairs from his early seminary days his participation in local ecumenical dialogue and initiatives right through to as a Bishop in his international involvement with bodies such as the World Council of Churches and later as a bishop with bodies such as the World Council of Churches and in as a member of the Vatican's Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity The book has chapters on relations with the Anglican Communion the Lutheran Church and the Methodist Churches as well as the Jewish faith It also examines some key themes and issues in ecumenism the papacy baptism and justification The book includes a Foreword written by theological friend and colleague from the International Methodist Roman Catholic dialogue the Revd Geoffrey Wainwright of Duke University USA Church and Communion Philip Goyret, 2022-01-21 This book is about ecumenism from a Catholic point of view The first part chapters 1 and 2 describe the history of divisions within the Church as well as of the efforts to bring about Christian unity The second part examines Ecumenism from a systematic theological perspective This first part takes into account the different factors that led to definitive ruptures within the Church which usually are not only theological The text gives useful information about what happened after the respective divisions as well as about the various attempts to restore unity the development of the Ecumenical Movement in the 20th Century and the current situation of ecumenical dialogue within the Catholic Church While offering insight into the sad history that has led to the present disunity this work also highlights the way Christians have sought to bring to fulfill the petition of Christ that his disciples might be one as He and the Father are one The second part chapters three four and five offers a systematic theological analysis of unity in the Church from the point of view of dogmatic theology We find here an explanation of the Catholic concept of ecumenism of how Catholic theology understands the unity of the Church and finally of the Catholic principles which sustain the efforts for regaining unity in the Church The Second Vatican Council and particularly the Constitution Lumen gentium and the Decree Unitatis redintegratio are at the foundation of these reflections At the same time since the theology of the Church and the life of the Church are intimately connected there is a profound link between this dogmatic section and the earlier historical section The last chapter about the practice of ecumenism is also written from a theological perspective but with more links with life and spirituality The chapter recalls that ecumenism can never simply remain a set of theological principles but rather inspires an attitude and action in charity which are essential to the Christian life

The One Church of Christ: Understanding Vatican II Stephen A. Hipp, 2018 Vatican II represents a watershed in the history of Catholic ecclesiology Although it stands in organic continuity with previous magisterial teaching distortions of its teaching have proliferated since the time of the Council leading many to conclude that the Catholic Church changed her position regarding the identity that exists between the One Church of Christ and the Catholic Church Stephen A Hipp's The One Church of Christ Understanding Vatican II refutes that conclusion and explains the Catholic understanding of how Christ's indivisible Church relates to the Catholic Church to non Catholic Christian communities and to other religious societies Hipp thoroughly examines the controversial statement that the Church of Christ subsists in the Catholic Church from terminological historical and theological perspectives showing that Vatican II introduces nothing doctrinally new to the Church's self understanding but provides a more nuanced way of speaking about the unicity and universality that define Christ's Church He reveals that Vatican II thereby establishes ecumenism and interreligious dialogue on fruitful ground while calling Catholics to a greater appreciation of the extraordinary gift of the Church's subsistence

The Morally Divided Body Michael Root, James J. Buckley, 2012-09-01 At the same time as Catholic and evangelical Christians have increasingly come to agree on issues that divided them during the sixteenth century reformation they seem increasingly to disagree on issues of contemporary morality and ethics Do such arguments doom the prospects for realistic full communion between Catholics and evangelicals Or are such disagreements a new opportunity for Catholics and evangelicals to convert together to the triune

God's word and work on the communion of saints for the world. Or should our hope be different than simple pessimism or optimism? In this volume eight authors address different aspects of these questions hoping to move Christians a small step further toward the visible unity of the church.

Ecumenical Reception William G. Rusch, 2007-07-16 In 1988 William Rusch wrote a book tracing the development of the idea of reception up to that time. During the intervening years both reflection on reception and the experience of attempting to engage in it have progressed considerably. Rusch begins with a bird's-eye view of the term reception across several disciplines: law, philosophy, literary criticism, before homing in on its theological import. He traces its use as a term and as a practice from the New Testament up to the twentieth century, painting a picture of a dynamic process that fosters unity and diversity among churches and spiritual communities. Finally, he examines the new chapter in the history of reception due to the establishment of the ecumenical movement and considers what will be necessary for it to continue to move the church forward.

Martin Luther Alberto Melloni, 2017-12-20 The three volumes present the current state of international research on Martin Luther's life and work and the Reformation's manifold influences on history, churches, politics, culture, philosophy, arts, and society up to the 21st century. The work is initiated by the Fondazione per le scienze religiose Giovanni XXIII Bologna in cooperation with the European network Refo500. This handbook is also available in German.

Engaging the Doctrine of the Holy Spirit Matthew Levering, 2016-07-19 A Distinguished Theologian on the Doctrine of the Holy Spirit. Distinguished theologian Matthew Levering offers a historical examination of the doctrine of the Holy Spirit, defending an Augustinian model against various contemporary theological views. A companion piece to Levering's Engaging the Doctrine of Revelation, this work critically engages contemporary and classical doctrines of the Holy Spirit in dialogue with Orthodox and Reformed interlocutors. Levering makes a strong dogmatic case for conceiving of the Holy Spirit as love between Father and Son, given to the people of God as a gift.
