EDITED BY MARTIN STONE

Kurt Flasch and Udo Reinhold (eds.), Das Licht der Vernunft: Die Anfänge der Aufklärung im Mittelalter. (München: C. H. Beck Verlag, 1997.) Pp. 191.

This multi-author volume explores the beginnings of a form of rationalism, more ordinarily associated with the Enlightenment, in the middle ages. The essays it contains originated in a series of talks for Deutschland-Radio in 1994. Despite the condescension of the authors to the requirements of a non-specialist audience, their papers contain much information that is directly relevant to students of the history of the philosophy of religion. The topics covered include discussions of Maimonides, Averroes, Aberland, Albert the Great, Thomas Aquinas and Meister Eckhart. Issues such as rationalism, materialism, logic, natural philosophy and the practices of magic and alchemy are also covered in extensive detail. Written by many eminent authorities in the field – Kurt Flasch, Loris Sturlese, Luca Bianchi, Alan De Libera and Olaf Pluta – the essays provide the reader with simple and clear instruction in the ways of medieval philosophical thought. Perhaps the highlights of the volume are the essays of Loris Sturlese and Alan De Libera. Sturlese's 'Der Rationalismus Alberts des Großen' provides a very thorough overview of the work of Albert the Great. By paying close attention to Albert's use of the work of Aristotle as well as to his Neoplatonism, Sturlese shows how Albert sought to construct from these twin influences a system of knowledge which could integrate the needs of science and the requirements of theology with the methods of philosophy. De Libera's masterful essay, 'Die Rolle der Logik im Rationalisierungsprozeß des Mittelalters' tells the story of medieval logic and its place within modern logic. Beginning with the Arab commentators of Aristotle and proceeding to Aberlard and thence to later thinkers, De Libera shows how so much medieval speculation about the laws of thought are directly relevant to the concerns of twentieth-century philosophers. His essay is a pithy reminder to the modern reader of the fecundity of the medieval philosophical inheritance, an inheritance which Flasch's and Jecks's Das Licht Der Vernunft manages to capture in interesting and persuasive detail.

Robert Pasnau, Theories of Cognition in the Later Middle Ages. (Cambridge and New York: Cambridge University Press, 1997.) Pp. x + 330. £35.00 hbk.

Robert Pasnau's innovative study concerns itself with the neglected area of late medieval theories of cognition. The principal aim of the book is to show how and why issues such as mental representation, intentionality, scepticism, and realism – issues which are by no means absent from current debates in epistemology and the philosophy of mind – were of interest to medieval authors in the period 1250–1350. To this end, Pasnau provides a careful analysis of Thomas Aquinas, Peter John Olivi and William Ockham. Duns Scotus and Henry of Ghent also receive attention, while

Fact Value And God:

Fact, Value, and God Arthur Frank Holmes, 1997 Reacting to contemporary thinkers who celebrate a liberation from absolute truth Arthur Holmes explores historical ways of grounding moral values objectively in the nature of reality and reconnecting to objective and universal moral norms Facts and Values M.C. Doerer, J.N. Kraay, 2012-12-06 The answer to philosophical questions will often depend on the position one takes regarding the fact value problem It is therefore not surprising that in the tradition of western philosophy the past 200 years or so record an animated discussion of it In the present collection the debate is continued by representatives of various schools in contemporary western thought A number of philosophers from non western cultures too enter into it The contributions do not all reflect on the same theme nor do they use the same approach Essays written by philosophers sympathetic to the analytical tradition are followed by reflections on the part of those inspired by phenomenology A third group of contributions is by non western thinkers who are more likely to approach the problem in terms of culture Their engagement with the issue clearly shows among other things that it is almost exclusively in the western tradition that the fact value distinction is often understood as an outright dichotomy The occasion for the publication of this collection is Dr Cornelis Anthonie van Peursen's retirement as Professor of Philosophy This year he leaves the Free University Amsterdam until 1982 he was professor at the University of Leyden as well In the Netherlands and beyond he has become known for his concern with constructive comparison of diverging philosophical trends and the cross cultural fertilization of thought Characteristic of his career are his efforts to render the results of academic philosophizing understandable to a broader audience Fictions of Fact and Value Michael LeMahieu, 2013-10-02 Fictions of Fact and Value argues that the philosophy of logical positivism considered the antithesis of literary postmodernism exerts a determining influence on the development of American fiction in the three decades following 1945 in what amounts to a constitutive encounter between literature and philosophy at mid century after the end of modernism as it was traditionally conceived but prior to the rise of postmodernism as it came to be known Two particular postwar literary preoccupations derive from logical positivist philosophy the fact value problem and the correlative distinction between sense and nonsense Even as postwar writers responded to logical positivism as a threat to the imagination their works often manifest its influence specifically with regard to emotive or meaningless terms Far from a straightforward history of ideas Fictions of Fact and Value charts a genealogy that is often erased in the very texts where it registers and disowned by the very authors that it includes LeMahieu complicates a predominant narrative of intellectual history in which a liberating postmodernism triumphs over a reactionary positivism by historicizing the literary response to positivism in works by John Barth Saul Bellow Don DeLillo Iris Murdoch Flannery O'Connor Thomas Pynchon and Ludwig Wittgenstein As LeMahieu compellingly demonstrates the centrality of the fact value problem to both positivism and postmodernism demands a rethinking of postwar literary history A trenchantly argued study that unearths an important part of postwar literary history Fictions of Fact and Value will interest anyone concerned with postmodernism modernist studies analytic philosophy or the history of ideas The Eternal Covenant Daniel James Pedersen,2017-08-21 Schleiermacher s readers have long been familiar with his proposal for an eternal covenant between theology and natural science Yet there is disagreement both about what this covenant amounts to why Schleiermacher proposed it and how he meant it to be persuasive In The Eternal Covenant Pedersen argues contrary to received wisdom that the eternal covenant is not first a methodological or political proposal but is rather the end result of a complex case from the doctrine of God the notion of a world and an account of divine action With his compound case against miracles Schleiermacher secures the in principle explicability of everything in the world through natural causes However his case is not only negative Far from a mere concession the eternal covenant is an argument for what Schleiermacher calls the essential identity of ethics and natural philosophy Indeed because the nature system is both intended for love and wisely ordered the world is a supremely beautiful divine artwork and is therefore the absolute self revelation of God Schleiermacher s case is a challenging alternative to reigning accounts of God nature divine action and the relationship between religion and science God, Morality, and Beauty Randall B. Bush,2019-07-01 Randall B Bush analyzes the ways unacknowledged axiological assumptions e g about what is important why human beings are valuing creatures and where the capacity to value comes from prejudice the perspectives and approaches of various academic disciplines especially in the social sciences and the humanities The disciplines of ethics and aesthetics provide the most useful tools for a philosophy of value but academic overspecialization has compartmentalized and segregated these disciplines from others threatening to unravel the unity of conceptions of the moral and the beautiful in human existence Bush argues that a dialectical approach to conflicts between ethics and aesthetics can point to a broader axiological vision informed by a Trinitarian conception of reality in which the whole a coherent theory of value is more than the sum of its parts Human Values D. Oderberg,T. Chappell,2004-10-14 In recent decades the revival of natural law theory in modern moral philosophy has been an exciting and important development Human Values brings together an international group of moral philosophers who in various respects share the aims and ideals of natural law ethics In their diverse ways these authors make distinctive and original contributions to the continuing project of developing natural law ethics as a comprehensive treatment of modern ethical theory and practice B. B. Warfield's Scientifically Constructive Theological Scholarship David P. Smith,2011-08-05 B B Warfield the Lion of Princeton is perhaps America s most prolific and preeminent biblical and theological scholar and yet he has been largely misunderstood and misrepresented In this landmark work David Smith penetrates to the defining features of Warfield s thought and helps us understand its revolutionary character Warfield s detractors have maligned his thought as static and beholden to an outdated epistemology yet Smith debunks this myth Placed within his historical context we discover Warfield expressing the organic and dynamic nature of truth overcoming the subject object dilemma that plagues Western epistemological rationalism and mysticism and all through his explaining the doctrinal system warranted by the Bible Theological scholarship and American

Ethics and Religion in a Pluralistic Age Brian Hebblethwaite, 1998-01-01 This important work explores the distinctiveness of Christian ethics particularly through its interconnections with doctrine and the wider history of religions Brian Hebblethwaite shows how the distinctiveness of Christian ethics can be understood and appreciated He brings out the complex nature of that distinctiveness in Christian individuals and communities as they reflect something of the triune love of God and in contemporary humanism and major world faiths in which this love is also discernable He concludes with an extended exploration of the strengths and weaknesses of the different religions in their contributions to the overcoming of evil

Jonathan Edwards' Concerning The End for Which God Created the World Walter J. Schultz, 2020-01-20 This book is an exposition of Jonathan Edwards' argumentation in his dissertation Concerning the End for Which God Created the World In addition to stating Edwards' theses regarding God's end and motivation in creation this book identifies and discusses the assumptions of his argumentation analyses and explains its crucial components and explores its philosophical implications These implications include a version of exemplarism i.e. the nature of God's ideas for creation dispositionalism i.e. the characteristics of God which explain God's motivation and emanationism i.e. what God shares of himself with persons who have a living faith in Christ These entail a view of idealism i.e. a view of the ultimate ontological ground of the universe God's temporal nature continuous creationism i.e. how God sustains creation a version of panentheism i.e. how God who is infinite is related to creation from which God is absolutely distinct and occasionalism i.e. the nature of causation of physical events or states of creation These concepts and what they entail constitute a complete metaphysical system providing a thoroughgoing divine action understanding of the foundation of reality For Jonathan Edwards God's acting according to his plans for his purposes in Christ is fundamental to all things Were we to have an understanding of how the fundamental concepts of science mathematics and ordinary experience are related in reality to the God who acts for his original ultimate end in creation sustaining the universe while providentially guiding its affairs and working redemption we would have the opportunity to develop these as he had hoped he pointed the way for others to follow

Biblical Critical Theory Christopher Watkin, 2022-11-08 With a foreword from Tim Keller A bold vision for Christians who want to engage the world in a way that is biblically faithful and culturally sensitive In Biblical Critical Theory Christopher Watkin shows how the Bible and its unfolding story help us make sense of modern life and culture Critical theories exist to critique what we think we know about reality and the social political and cultural structures in which we live In doing so they make visible the values and beliefs of a culture in order to scrutinize and change them Biblical Critical Theory exposes and evaluates the often hidden assumptions and concepts that shape late modern society examining them through the lens of the biblical story running from Genesis to Revelation and asking urgent questions like How does the Bible's storyline help us understand our society our culture and ourselves How do specific doctrines help us engage thoughtfully in the philosophical political and social questions of our day How can we analyze and critique culture and its alternative critical theories through Scripture Informed by the biblical theological structure of Saint Augustine's magisterial work The City of God and with extensive diagrams and practical tools Biblical Critical Theory shows how the patterns of the Bible's storyline can provide incisive fresh and nuanced ways of intervening in today's debates on everything from science the arts and politics to dignity multiculturalism and equality You'll learn the moves to make and the tools to use in analyzing and engaging with all sorts of cultural artifacts and events in a way that is both biblically faithful and culturally relevant It is not enough for Christians to explain the Bible to the culture or cultures in which we live We must also explain the culture in which we live within the framework and categories of the Bible revealing how the whole of the Bible sheds light on the whole of life If Christians want to speak with a fresh engaging and dynamic voice in the marketplace of ideas today we need to mine the unique treasures of the distinctive biblical storyline understand that knowing doctrine and walking in practical Christianity are not competing interests The Christian Faith is divided into six parts five of which each focus on an aspect of God while the first part sets up an understanding and appreciation for the task of theology itself addressing topics like The source of theology where the idea of theology comes from and what its limits are The origin of the canon how the modern Bible came about and why we can trust it The character of theology is the nature of theology practical theoretical or can it be both In a manner equally as welcoming to professors pastors students and armchair theologians Horton has organized this volume in a readable fashion that includes a variety of learning features A brief synopsis of biblical passages that inform certain doctrines Surveys of past and current theologies with contemporary emphasis on exegetical philosophical practical and theological questions Substantial interaction with various Christian movements within the Protestant Catholic and Orthodoxy traditions as well as the hermeneutical issues raised by postmodernity Charts sidebars questions for discussion and an extensive bibliography divided into different entry levels and topics At the heart of this book is a deep love for and curiosity about God Its basic argument is that a personal relationship with God goes hand in hand with the pursuit of theology It isn't possible to know God without studying him
