Faded Splendour Golden Past Urban Images Of Burma:

Faded Splendour, Golden Past Ellen Corwin Cangi, 1997 Faded Splendour Golden Past Urban Images of Burma focuses on Burma's best known and most often visited cities Pagan Mandalay and Rangoon. It analyses the role each city played at critical periods in Burma's history from ancient times up to World War II. Pagan and Mandalay were both associated with the rise and fall of two of Burma's great empires founded by the Pagan and Konbaung dynasties. Even though centuries separate them, there are surprising similarities between the two royal capitals. In contrast, everything about Rangoon, from its physical layout to the amenities which it offered, was vastly different. Although established by a Konbaung king, Rangoon was completely rebuilt by the British who made it their colonial capital. Topics of interest include the physical plan of each city, important landmarks such as palaces, temples and pagodas, and everyday city life. This book goes beyond the standard guidebook and should be of interest to urban historians as well as specialists in South East Asia. Myanmar \(Burma\) since the 1988 Uprising Andrew Selth, 2022-01-24. Updated by popular demand, this is the fourth edition of this important bibliography. It lists a wide selection of works on or about Myanmar published in English and in hard copy since the 1988 pro democracy uprising which marked the beginning of a new era in Myanmar's modern history. There are now 2 727 titles listed. They have been written, edited, translated or compiled by over 2 000 people from many different backgrounds. These works have been organized into thirty five subject chapters containing ninety five discrete sections. There are also four appendices including a comprehensive reading guide for those unfamiliar with Myanmar or who may be seeking guidance on particular topics. This book is an invaluable aid to officials, scholars, journalists, armchair travellers and others with an interest in this fascinating but deeply troubled country. Historical Dictionary of Burma (Myanmar) Donald M. Seekins, 2017-03-27. Burma/Myanmar is a Southeast Asian country that is emerging from crisis after more than a half century of hard line military rule and cultural, diplomatic and economic isolation. With the dissolution of its military regime, the State Peace and Development Council, in 2011 a formally civilian but military dominated constitutional government was inaugurated. By 2012 Burma's president, retired General Thein Sein, had established a working relationship with Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, the leader of the country's pro democracy movement since 1988, and after a 2012 by election she and members of her opposition party, the National League for Democracy (NLD), entered the new Union Parliament as legislators. However, even with the election victory of Daw Suu Kyi and the NLD in the General Election of November 2015, Burma faces daunting challenges. It is still one of the poorest countries in Southeast Asia, fissured by longstanding ethnic conflicts that have made a nationwide peace agreement elusive, and its people's security and the environment are threatened by foreign economic exploitation. Religious discord is also widely evident as Buddhist militants instigate violence against the country's religious minorities, especially Muslims. Today Burma's prospects are the most hopeful they have been for over half a century as the country takes steps along the road to a more open society and economy. This edition of the Historical Dictionary of Burma/Myanmar encompasses not only current developments but also Burma's over 1 500 years old recorded history and the most important features of its cultures ethnicity religions society and economy This is done through achronology an introduction and an extensive bibliography The dictionary section has over 700 cross referenced entries on important personalities politics economy foreign relations religion and culture

Karaoke Fascism Monique Skidmore, 2012-02-24 To come to Burma one of the few places where despotism still dominates is to take both a physical and an emotional journey and like most Burmese to become caught up in the daily management of fear Based on Monique Skidmore's experiences living in the capital city of Rangoon Karaoke Fascism is the first ethnography of fear in Burma and provides a sobering look at the psychological strategies employed by the Burmese people in order to survive under a military dictatorship that seeks to invade and dominate every aspect of life Skidmore looks at the psychology and politics of fear under the SLORC and SPDC regimes Encompassing the period of antijunta student street protests her work describes a project of authoritarian modernity where Burmese people are conscripted as army porters and must attend mass rallies chant slogans construct roads and engage in other forms of forced labor In a harrowing portrayal of life deep within an authoritarian state recovering heroin addicts psychiatric patients girl prostitutes and poor and vulnerable women in forcibly relocated townships speak about fear hope and their ongoing resistance to four decades of oppression Karaoke fascism is a term the author uses to describe the layers of conformity that Burmese people present to each other and more important to the military regime This complex veneer rests on resistance collaboration and complicity and describes not only the Burmese form of oppression but also the Burmese response to a life of domination Providing an inside look at the madness and the militarization of the city Skidmore argues that the weight of fear the anxiety of constant vulnerability and the numbing demands of the State upon individuals force Burmese people to cast themselves as automata they deliberately present lifeless hollow bodies for the State's use while their minds reach out into the cosmos for an array of alternate realities Skidmore raises ethical and methodological questions about conducting research on fear when doing so evokes the very emotion in question in both researcher and informant
