Faith For The Non Religious:

Faith for the Non-Religious Michael Green, 1971-01-01 The Non Religious Christian Vern Jones, 2011-10-14 Are you more spiritual than religious Have you ever wished for a way to engage the question of faith without suffering the scorn and judgment from those who call themselves Christian In The Non Religious Christian Vern Jones shares his journey growing up constrained by the strict dogma of an evangelical Baptist church to a renewed faith without the myths and restrictive ideology taught by so many churches Through the eyes of a scientist who has studied the Bible his entire life Jones debunks many so called biblical truths and the whole notion of biblical inerrancy He then puts forth a new and exciting way of looking at faith without the restrictions placed by organized religions nor the need to be a part of a church to be a Christian Many of the significant social issues of our time including abortion stem cell research school prayer evolution and the display of the 10 Commandments are addressed in this book with new insights that run contrary to those in the traditional evangelical movement Vern is not attempting to convert anyone but simply sharing his years of research with fellow truth seekers to find a faith that they may call their own Faith among Faiths James L. Fredericks,

Faith Schools and Society Jo Cairns, 2011-10-20 Do faith schools have a place in a plural society Which types of school contribute most effectively to a plural society This fascinating monograph seeks to answer these questions and more by exploring the fit between personal spiritual and academic goals in contemporary educational experience and individual school cultures Jo Cairns a well respected authority on faith schools argues that educational ideology in plural societies has to find a way of recognizing and responding to the predicament of pluralism as it is experienced by individuals and communities This provocative and challenging book will undoubtedly stimulate debate among educationists across the world

Being Godless Roy Llera Blanes, Galina Oustanova-Stjepanovic, 2017-05-01 Drawing on ethnographic inquiry and the anthropological literature on doubt and atheism this volume explores people's reluctance to pursue religion The contributors capture the experiences of godless people and examine their perspectives on the role of religion in their personal and public lives In doing so the volume contributes to a critical understanding of the processes of disengagement from religion and reveals the challenges and paradoxes that godless people face One Faith No Longer George Yancey, Ashlee Quosigk, 2021-07-06 Irreconcilable differences drive the division between progressive and conservative Christians is there a divorce coming Much attention has been paid to political polarization in America but far less to the growing schism between progressive and conservative Christians In this groundbreaking new book George Yancey and Ashlee Quosigk offer the provocative contention that progressive and conservative Christianities have diverged so much in their core values that they ought to be thought of as two separate religions The authors draw on both quantitative data and interviews to uncover how progressive and conservative Christians determine with whom they align themselves religiously and how they distinguish themselves from each other They find that progressive Christians emphasize political agreement relating to social justice issues as they determine who is part of their in group and focus less on theological agreement Among conservative Christians on the other hand the major concern is whether one agrees with them on core theological points Progressive and conservative Christians thus use entirely different factors in determining their social identity and moral values In a time when religion and politics have never seemed so intertwined One Faith No Longer offers a timely and compelling reframing of an age old conflict Chaplaincy Grace Thomas, 2024-09-30 This new collection from chaplains in a wide variety of contemporary chaplaincy settings in the UK and around the globe brings together practitioner perspectives with academic discussion and is tailored to support students of Chaplaincy at every level The lively narratives and reflections make this book accessible to those engaging with what chaplaincy means for the first time while the rigorous critical engagement with key issues makes this a key read for anyone seeking a fresh and global perspective on developments at the forefront of this swiftly growing and diversifying field of ministry The volume explores what chaplaincy means in contemporary and global settings It takes seriously the intersectionality of both practitioners and recipients of chaplaincy ministry centering factors such as race gender and disability alongside political missional and denominational considerations Faith Not Religions Ghulam Chatha, 2004-12 Wisdom is ignorance in an unwise society Contentment is a state of soul which material possessions or achievements can not provide how great they may be A loving heart is essential and only eligibility to have faith in the God Those who do not qualify need not seek it in books or prayers Wisdom is ability and ignorance inability to acknowledge and accept the truth Religions consist of allowed or not allowed and not necessarily good or truth while faith in the God naturally recognizes universal good and truth Who so ever seeks finds the God but religions deny this inborn equal right of humans and each one of them claims to be an exclusive permit holder Unlike religions faith in the God is neither a heritage nor an inheritance Free your thoughts and you are Out of religion Meditate on universe and nature and you are In spirituality Mostly people are inclined to believe what they like to believe and are not inclined to believe what they do not like to believe This is also bigotry

Religion and Politics in International Relations Timothy Fitzgerald, 2011-10-27 Scholars in International Relations concerned with religion and its relations to world politics are rhetorically constructing a powerful modern myth A component of this myth is that religion is inherently violent and irrational unless controlled by the secular state which is inherently rational and only reluctantly violent Timothy Fitzgerald discusses how in this modern myth religion appears as a force of nature which either assists or threatens the sacred secular order of things and how religion is portrayed as a kind of universal essence which takes many forms its recent most dangerous manifestation being Islamic terrorism This book illustrates that the essential distinction between irrational religion and rational secular politics appears as an unquestioned preconception on the basis of which policy is conducted countries invaded and wars fought Arguing that this rhetorical construction of religion provides the foundation for faith in the rationality of modern liberal capitalism Fitzgerald demonstrates how a historically contingent discourse has been transformed into a powerful set of global assumptions

Phenomenology of Religion Archana Barua,2009-01-01 Out of the wide variety of themes covered by Husserl's phenomenology and later developed by Heidegger Merleau Ponty and others in different possible directions the present work attempts to indicate the few features of the method that derives from Edmund Husserl's basic themes of the phenomenological movement and its methodology Barua explores the manner in which this method has been applied to the study of art and religion by other phenomenologists and accordingly introduces the problem of this profound bulk namely the phenomenological approach to religion mostly in their terms

Clandestine Theology Francois Laruelle,2020-09-03 In this new translation Laruelle offers a serious and rigorous challenge to contemporary theological thought calling into question the dominant understanding of the relation between Christ theology and philosophy not only from a theoretical but also political perspective He achieves this through an inversion of St Paul's reading of Christ through which the ground for Christianity shifts It is no longer the event of the resurrection as philosophical and theological operation Badiou's St Paul so much as the Risen Himself that forms the starting point for a non philosophical confession Between the Greek and the Jew Laruelle places the Gnostic Christ in order to disrupt and overturn such theologico philosophical interpretations of the resurrection and set the Risen within the radical immanence of Man in Person Forming the basis for a non Christianity Clandestine Theology offers a more radical deconstruction of Christianity resting upon the last identity of Man and the humanity of Christ as opposed to endless deferral or difference Nancy or the universalising economy of Ideas and Events Badiou
