Building Bridges in a World of Crumbling

Connections Ronald Higdon, 2022-06-07 What can you do when you see bridges between people breaking down all around you? What should you do? Dr Ron Higdon has served many congregations and taught seminars over many years helping people to learn to reach out to one another, learn to work together and to resolve differences through dialog. In this short, non-technical book, he calls on us all to take up the task of building bridges. This involves both a commitment of the heart and actions in the world around us that tend to create peace. Peacemaking can be a dangerous profession, but Dr Higdon sees it as a crucial part of Christian living and Christian ministry. But this book goes beyond peacemaking and presents strategies for bridge building and reconciliation in all of our relationships. It is about building community and understanding that is possible even in the midst of different perspectives and points of view on critical issues. The goal is to enable reconstruction and renewal of damaged connections that have resulted in distrust, suspicion and isolation. Are you reconciled? Is perhaps the biggest question and the major challenge in many families, communities and certainly in our nation. Our time calls for those who can bring us together and enable us to live with mutual respect and commitment to the common good. The goal of this book is to present a prescription for building bridges of possibility. Anyone who would like to work toward that goal will benefit from reading and studying it.

Spinoza: Reason, Religion, Politics, 2024-08-09 At his death, Spinoza left two major works very different from one another. The first is the Ethics, rigorously set out in geometrical terms with definitions, axioms and theorems. In the Ethics, Spinoza takes the reader down the path of reason to an ultimate beatitude, a rational salvation, a kind of peace of mind attained through the true knowledge of God, oneself and one's place in the world. The other is of a very different sort. The Tractatus theologico-politicus is set out in twenty chapters. It begins with a discussion of prophecy and revelation, followed by a detailed description of Scripture and what we can learn from it, the message of Scripture. And that message is to be obedient to God and to love our neighbours as ourselves. Two books, two styles of argument, two very different paths to salvation, arguably two Gods and arguably two very different kinds of salvation at the end. But one author. The challenge is evident: how do these books fit together? One is about reason, the other about revelation; one is about personal salvation, the other more focused on how we live together. Spinoza's writing has always drawn strong reactions, both positive and negative: he was accepted by some as a kind of secular prophet offering us a guide to life and rejected by others as a kind of atheist and heretic. In this book, a diverse international group of seventeen scholars confronts these two central works in the philosophical canon and explores what Spinoza is trying to tell us about life, the world and our place in it.

Romans Craig S. Keener, 2011-01-01 A helpfully concise commentary on Paul's letter to the early Christians in Rome which the Apostle wrote just a few years before the outbreak of Nero's persecution Keener examines each paragraph for its function in the letter as a whole helping the reader follow Paul's argument Where relevant he draws on his vast work in ancient Jewish and Greco-Roman sources in order to help modern readers understand the message of Romans according to the way the first audience would have heard it Throughout Keener focuses on major points that are especially critical for the contemporary study of Paul's most influential and complex New Testament letter Methodist Magazine and Quarterly Review, 1901 The Methodist Review, 1901 New Testament Theology Jon Isaak, 2011-01-01 New Testament theology ought to be both descriptive and constructive this is the argument of New Testament Theology: Extending the Table According to Isaak New Testament theology is descriptive in that it deals with the accounts that people narrate of their experience with Yahweh the God of Israel in the light of Easter It is constructive in that it joins the diverse testimonies of the New Testament writers into a textured and thick space within which contemporary followers of Jesus continue to be shaped by the ancient yet living Spirit of God Isaak's approach is historical thematic and theological in orientation It explores the conversation taking place around the table where the writers of the NT share their guiding vision of God's saving work among them and their passion for the Christian church engaged in God's mission The differing perspectives of the New Testament authors are held together without reduction forming a deep and rich space within which ongoing community reflection and praxis can take place
