Eosinophils In Asthma Perspectives In Asthma Vol 4:

Pathogenic Advances and Therapeutic Perspectives for Eosinophilic Inflammation Florence E. Roufosse, Mats W. Johansson, 2018-12-06 With the recent approval of the first eosinophil depleting therapeutic agents targeting the IL 5 pathway for treatment of severe eosinophilic asthma eosinophils and eosinophilic disorders are in the limelight Indeed setbacks during clinical development of these compounds have revealed how much remains to be known about eosinophil biology in vivo and have nurtured profuse research both on basic eosinophil biology and on pathogenic disease mechanisms in order to better delineate the most meaningful targets for innovative therapeutic strategies On one hand variable degrees of eosinophil depletion observed in some compartments during IL 5 targeted treatment indicate that certain eosinophil subsets may not rely on this cytokine and or that other important pro eosinophilic mediators and signaling pathways are operative in vivo On the other hand it is increasingly clear that disorders involving eosinophils such as asthma are the final outcome of complex interactions between diverse cell types and mediators beyond eosinophils and IL 5 These include type 2 helper T Th2 cells and innate lymphoid cells mast cells and a variety of factors that either activate eosinophils or are released by them Although a considerable amount of research has focused on asthma because it is a common condition and because management of severe asthma remains a major challenge several rare eosinophilic disorders with more homogenous features have proven to be extremely useful models to reach a better understanding of the involvement of eosinophils in tissue damage and dysfunction and of the micro environmental interactions operating within the complex network of eosinophilic inflammation Unraveling this interplay has resulted in advances in the development of molecular tools to detect disease subsets and to monitor therapeutic responses and in identification of promising new therapeutic targets This Research Topic dedicated to eosinophilic conditions covers aspects of the biology of eosinophils and closely related cells of particular relevance for drug development reports on translational research investigating pathogenic mechanisms of specific eosinophilic disorders in humans that will likely result in significant changes in the way patients are managed and presents an overview of the current advancement of targeted drug development for these conditions with a special focus on asthma

Pathophysiology and epidemiology of virus-induced asthma Hirokazu Kimura,Akihide Ryo,2015-01-26 Virus caused asthma we now call a phenotype of asthma Regardless of the significance and popularity of this disease the etiology of the virus induced asthma have not well understood In addition a few effective vaccines have been applied to prevent respiratory virus infection To solve the issues it is essential to clarify and delineate both aspects of the virus and host defense systems including acute chronic inflammation and airway tissue remodeling To deeply review and discuss pathophysiology and epidemiology of virus induced asthma this topics includes new findings of the host immunity pathology epidemiology and virology of asthma chronic obstructive pulmonary disease COPD We believe that these works are well summarized and informative to glimpse the field of virus associated asthma and COPD and may help understanding the basic and clinical aspects of the diseases Lung Inflammation in Health and Disease, Volume II Yong-Xiao Wang,2021-05-21 Lung diseases are leading causes of death and disability globally with about 65 million people suffering from COPD and 334 million from asthma Each year tens of millions of people develop and can die from lung infections such as pneumonia and TB Systemic inflammation may induce and exacerbate local inflammatory diseases in the lungs and local inflammation can in turn cause systemic inflammation There is increasing evidence of the coexistence of systemic and local inflammation in patients suffering from asthma COPD and other lung diseases and the co morbidity of two or more local inflammatory diseases often occurs For example rheumatoid arthritis frequently occurs together with and promotes the development of pulmonary hypertension This co morbidity significantly impacts quality of life and can result in death for some patients Current treatment options for lung disease are neither always effective nor condition specific there is a desperate need for novel therapeutics in the field Additionally the molecular and physiological significance of most major lung diseases is not well understood which further impedes development of new treatments especially in the case of coexistent lung diseases with other inflammatory diseases Great progress has been made in recent years in many areas of the field particularly in understanding the molecular geneses regulatory mechanisms signalling pathways and cellular processes within lung disease as well as basic and clinical technology drug discovery diagnoses treatment options and predictive prognoses This is the first text to aggregate these developments In two comprehensive volumes experts from all over the world present state of the art advances in the study of lung inflammation in health and disease Contributing authors cover well known as well as emerging topics in basic translational and clinical research with the aim of providing researchers clinicians professionals and students with new perspectives and concepts The editors hope these books will also help to direct future research in lung disease and other inflammatory diseases and result in the development of novel therapeutics
