Ernest Van Den Haag:

The Death Penalty Ernest Van den Haag, John Phillips Conrad, 2013-06-29 From 1965 until 1980 there was a virtual moratorium on executions for capital offenses in the United States This was due primarily to protracted legal proceedings challenging the death penalty on constitutional grounds After much Sturm und Drang the Supreme Court of the United States by a divided vote finally decided that the death penalty does not invariably violate the Cruel and Unusual Punishment Clause of the Eighth Amendment The Court's decisions however do not moot the controversy about the death penalty or render this excellent book irrelevant The ball is now in the court of the Legislature and the Executive Legislatures federal and state can impose or abolish the death penalty within the guidelines prescribed by the Supreme Court A Chief Executive can commute a death sentence And even the Supreme Court can change its mind as it has done on many occasions and did with respect to various aspects of the death penalty itself during the moratorium period Also the people can change their minds Some time ago a majority according to reliable polls favored abolition Today a substantial majority favors imposition of the death penalty The pendulum can swing again as it has done in the past

The U. N. , in Or Out? Ernest Van Den Haag, John Phillips Conrad, 2014-01-15 The Death Penalty: a Debate, 1986 Ethics and the Arts David E. W. Fenner, 1995 Twenty nine collected essays represent a critical history of Shakespeare's play as text and as theater beginning with Samuel Johnson in 1765 and ending with a review of the Royal Shakespeare Company production in 1991 The criticism centers on three aspects of the play the love friendship debate Race and Education, 1954-2007 Raymond Wolters, 2008 Retracing Supreme Court decisions on race and education beginning with the Brown v Board of Education decision Wolters distinguishes between desegregation and integration and shows how devastating educational and cultural consequences resulted from subsequent Supreme Court decisions that conflated the two and led to racial balancing policies that have backfired Provided by publisher

Ernest van den Haag Hrsg. Marktfeindschaft, warum? (Capitalism, sources of hostility, dt.), 1981 The Economics of Art and Culture James Heilbrun, Charles M. Gray, 2001-04-23 The 2001 second edition of this survey of the economics of and public policy towards the fine arts and performing arts covers arts at federal state and local levels in the United States as well as the international arts sector The work will interest academic readers in the field and scholars of the sociology of the arts as well as general readers seeking a systematic analysis of the arts Theoretical concepts are developed from scratch so that readers with no background in economics can follow the argument The authors look at the arts historical growth and then examine consumption and production of the live performing arts and the fine arts the functioning of arts markets the financial problems of performing arts companies and museums and the key role of public policy A final chapter speculates about the future of art and culture in the United States

Punishment A. John Simmons, Marshall Cohen, Joshua Cohen, Charles R. Beitz, 2022-02-08 The problem of justifying legal punishment has been at the heart of legal and social philosophy from the very earliest recorded philosophical texts However despite several hundred years of debate philosophers have not reached agreement about how legal punishment can be morally justified That is the central issue addressed by the contributors to this volume All of the essays collected here have been published in the highly respected journal Philosophy Public Affairs Taken together they offer not only significant proposals for improving established theories of punishment and compelling arguments against long held positions but also original and important answers to the question How is punishment to be justified Part I of this collection Justifications of Punishment examines how any practice of punishment can be morally justified Contributors include Jeffrie G Murphy Alan H Goldman Warren Quinn C S Nino and Jean Hampton The papers in Part II Problems of Punishment address more specific issues arising in established theories The authors are Martha C Nussbaum Michael Davis and A John Simmons In the final section Capital Punishment contributors discuss the justifiability of capital punishment one of the most debated philosophical topics of this century Essayists include David A Conway Jeffrey H Reiman Stephen Nathanson and Ernest van den Haag

Speaking of Soap Operas Robert Clyde Allen, 1985 From Ma Perkins and One Man's Family in the 1930s to All My Children in the 1980s the soap opera has captured the imagination of millions of American men and women of all ages In Speaking of Soap Operas Robert Allen undertakes a reexamination

A Conversation with Ernest Van Den Haag Tibor R. Machan, Creative Street (Firm), Liberty Fund, 1940-01-01 One of our leading voices in criminology discusses his ongoing work in criminal law and criminology and how his great insights relate to his central belief in a free society

The Death Penalty Louis P. Pojman, Jeffrey Reiman, 2000-01-01 Two distinguished social and political philosophers take opposing positions in this highly engaging work Louis P Pojman justifies the practice of execution by appealing to the principle of retribution we deserve to be rewarded and punished according to the virtue or viciousness of our actions He asserts that the death penalty does deter some potential murderers and that we risk the lives of innocent people who might otherwise live if we refuse to execute those deserving that punishment Jeffrey Reiman argues that although the death penalty is a just punishment for murder we are not morally obliged to execute murderers Since we lack conclusive evidence that executing murderers is an effective deterrent and because we can foster the advance of civilization by demonstrating our intolerance for cruelty in our unwillingness to kill those who kill others Reiman concludes that it is good in principle to avoid the death penalty and bad in practice to impose it

An Eye for an Eye Stephen Nathanson, 2001 The death penalty issue has become the epitome of the unresolvable issue the question which people answer on the basis of gut reactions rather than logical arguments In the second edition of An Eye for an Eye Stephen Nathanson evaluates arguments for and against the death penalty and ultimately defends an abolitionist position to the controversial practice including arguments that show how and why the death penalty is inconsistent with respect for life and a commitment to justice A timely new postscript and an updated bibliography accompany the volume

Debating the Death Penalty Hugo Adam Bedau, Paul G. Cassell, 2005-03-24 Experts on both side of the issue speak out both for and against capital punishment and the rationale behind their individual beliefs

Responsibility and Punishment J.

Angelo Corlett, 2006-07-10 Responsibility and Punishment Third Edition presents a clear headed defense of retributivism against several long standing criticisms In the end a viable version of retributivism emerges as one which withstands more criticism than competing theories of responsibility and punishment Extending the problem of wrong doing to collectives and compensation Corlett explores the matter of reparations for past wrongs in the case of the crimes committed against Native Americans by the United States Government No other philosophical work on responsibility and punishment exhibits this breadth of scope as it delves deeply into particular concerns with retributivism responsibility and certain areas of compensation Academicians and professionals in ethics moral social political and legal philosophy are likely to benefit from this analytical treatment of responsibility and punishment Science for Segregation John P. Jackson, 2005-08 With the fiftieth anniversary of the landmark Supreme Court decision Brown v Board of Education now upon us many have begun to reflect upon how the case altered the course of civil rights and education in America Juvenile Justice John T. Whitehead, Steven P. Lab, 2015-02-20 Juvenile Justice An Introduction 8th edition presents a comprehensive picture of juvenile offending delinquency theories and how juvenile justice actors and agencies react to delinquency It covers the history and development of the juvenile justice system and the unique issues related to juveniles offering evidence based suggestions for successful interventions and treatment and examining the new balance model of juvenile court This new edition not only includes the latest available statistics on juvenile crime and victimization drug use court processing and corrections but provides insightful analysis of recent developments such as those related to the use of probation supervision fees responses to gangs and cyber bullying implementing the deterrence model Project Hope the possible impact of drug legalization the school to prison pipeline the extent of victimization and mental illness in institutions and implications of major court decisions regarding juveniles such as Life Without Parole LWOP for juveniles Each chapter enhances student understanding with Key Terms a What You Need to Know section highlighting important points and Discussion Questions Links at key points in the text show students where they can go to get the latest information and a comprehensive glossary aids comprehension Punishment and Ethics J. Ryberg, J. Corlett, 2010-10-20 A collection of original contributions by philosophers working in the ethics of punishment gathering new perspectives on various challenging topics including punishment and forgiveness dignity discrimination public opinion torture rehabilitation and restitution Buckley Carl T. Bogus, 2011-11-01 This is an insightful book that will please anyone interested in midcentury American history and politics Anyone serious about political philosophy will learn from it Highly recommended Library Journal starred review William F Buckley Jr was the foremost architect of the conservative movement that transformed American politics between the 1960s and the end of the century When Buckley launched National Review in 1955 conservatism was a beleaguered fringe segment of the Republican Party Three decades later Ronald Reagan who credited National Review with shaping his beliefs was in the White House Buckley and his allies devised a new model conservatism that replaced traditional ideals of Edmund Burke with a passionate belief in the free market religious faith and an aggressive stance on foreign policy Buckley's TV show Firing Line and his campaign for mayor of New York City made him a celebrity his wit and zest for combat made conservatism fun But Buckley was far more than a controversialist Deploying his uncommon charm shrewdly recruiting allies quashing ideological competitors and refusing to compromise on core principles he almost single handedly transformed conservatism from a set of retrograde attitudes into a revolutionary force

The Death Penalty in the Nineties Welsh S. White, 1991
An up to date examination of legal changes and shifting attitudes surrounding capital punishment
