Westminster School and there the poet laid the solid foundations of his classical learning Jonson always held Camden in veneration acknowledging that to him he owed All that I am in arts all that I know and dedicating his first dramatic success Every Man in His Humour to him It is doubtful whether Jonson ever went to either university though Fuller says that he was statutorily admitted into St John's College Cambridge He tells us that he took no degree but was later Master of Arts in both the universities by their favour not his study When a mere youth Jonson enlisted as a soldier trailing his pike in Flanders in the protracted wars of William the Silent against the Spanish Jonson was a large and raw boned lad he became by his own account in time exceedingly bulky In chat with his friend William Drummond of Hawthornden Jonson told how in his service in the Low Countries he had in the face of both the camps killed an enemy and taken opima spolia from him and how since his coming to England being appealed to the fields he had killed his adversary which had hurt him in the arm and whose sword was ten inches longer than his Jonson's reach may have made up for the lack of his sword certainly his prowess lost nothing in the telling Obviously Jonson was brave combative and not averse to talking of himself and his doings

[i.e. Ben Jonson.] MS. notes Ben Jonson,1732 Epicone, Or the Silent Woman Ben Jonson,2018-07-28 The play takes place in London primarily in the home of Morose Morose is a wealthy old man with an obsessive hatred of noise going as far as to live on a street too narrow for carts to pass and make noise He has made plans to disinherit his nephew Dauphine by marrying This is due to the schemes and tricks Dauphine has played on him in the past To combat this Dauphine concocts a plan with Cutbeard Morose s barber Cutbeard presents Morose with a young and supposedly silent woman to marry When Morose met

Epicene he tries to find out if she's really a silent woman testing her obedience. He tells her not to succumb to the temptations of the court and tells her about the virtues of silence. Under the assumption that his fiancé Epicoene is an exceptionally quiet woman, Morose excitedly plans their marriage. Unbeknownst to him, Dauphine has arranged the whole match for purposes of his own. At the same time, there is an alliance of women with intellectual pretensions called the Ladies Collegiates. They are married women that live away from their husbands and talk their minds. They talk about how women can use sex to control their husbands. Truewit, hoping to secure his friend's inheritance, attempts to persuade Morose that marriage would not be good for him. Truewit says that no matter what, Morose will find himself unhappy in marriage regardless of if she is pretty, ugly, rich, poor, or even if Morose loves her. Truewit tells Morose that it's not the women's fault; all of them are corrupted. He also tells Morose to kill himself instead of getting married. The couple are married despite the well-meaning interference of Dauphine's friend Truewit. Morose soon regrets his wedding day as his house is invaded by a charivari consisting of Dauphine, Truewit, and Clerimont, a bear warden named Otter, and his wife, two stupid knights, La Foole and Daw, and an assortment of Collegiates. The house is overrun with noise and clamor much to Morose's chagrin. Worst for Morose, Epicoene quickly reveals herself to be a loud nagging mate.
