Epicureans Kitchen Companion:

Passion of a Foodie - An International Kitchen Companion Heidemarie Vos, 2010-03 With the influx of cookbooks cooking shows and chefs in today's world it's difficult to find something out of the ordinary that defines cooking in a whole new way. Passion of a Foodie is that something. Best-selling author Heidemarie Vos recounts a fascinating story and her journey of putting together the world's first cross-referenced book regarding food using more than five languages. This cookbook will become an invaluable resource for your kitchen, cooking school, culinary vacations, professional chef training institute, academy, or restaurant as its contents provide endless information about ingredients, what they are, and where to find them; cooking terms and what they mean, as well as exotic recipes from all over the globe. It also helps the food import/export industry with language. From the new bride/novice cook to the professional chef, Passion of a Foodie is a must-have, must-read guidebook that provides a detailed classification of foods and their ingredients. As a cook/chef, you'll wonder how you ever survived without it. Heidemarie Vos is a writer with a best-selling cookbook to her credit: Chili South Africa, as well as commissioned recipe books for the South African Company Fruit and Veg City. Mrs. Vos has traveled to over 40 countries and has lived on three continents. She is currently writing a nonfiction book about her recently deceased South African husband, and although she herself is an American citizen, she lives in Port Elizabeth, South Africa, at this time. The Epicurean's Kitchen Companion Penny Smith, 1994 For ten years Penny Smith compiled the annual Epicurean Diary which contained new recipes and stories from well-known cooks and food writers around the country. This collection contains the best recipes and hints from those diaries, as well as new recipes and information on Australian wine and cheese. It provides a nostalgic history of Australian food from both home cooks and professional chefs. The text is illustrated with specially commissioned still lifes by Adelaide artist Stephen Trebilcock

Margot Finn,2017-04-24 For the past four decades increasing numbers of Americans have started paying greater attention to the food they eat buying organic vegetables drinking fine wines and seeking out exotic cuisines Yet they are often equally passionate about the items they refuse to eat processed foods generic brands high carb meals While they may care deeply about issues like nutrition and sustainable agriculture these discriminating diners also seek to differentiate themselves from the unrefined eater the common person who lives on junk food Discriminating Taste argues that the rise of gourmet ethnic diet and organic foods must be understood in tandem with the ever widening income inequality gap Offering an illuminating historical perspective on our current food trends S Margot Finn draws numerous parallels with the Gilded Age of the late nineteenth century an era infamous for its class divisions when gourmet dinners international cuisines slimming diets and pure foods first became fads Examining a diverse set of cultural touchstones ranging from Ratatouille to The Biggest Loser Finn identifies the key ways that good food has become conflated with high status She also considers how these taste hierarchies serve as a distraction leading middle class professionals to focus on small acts of glamorous and virtuous consumption while ignoring their class s larger economic stagnation A provocative look at the ideology of contemporary food culture Discriminating Taste teaches us to question the maxim that you are what you eat
