Catalogue of Current Literature ,1928 Volume 18, Tome II: Kierkegaard Secondary Literature Jon Stewart, 2021-12-16 In recent years interest in the thought of Kierkegaard has grown dramatically and with it the body of secondary literature has expanded so quickly that it has become impossible for even the most conscientious scholar to keep pace The problem of the explosion of secondary literature is made more acute by the fact that much of what is written about Kierkegaard appears in languages that most Kierkegaard scholars do not know Kierkegaard has become a global phenomenon and new research traditions have emerged in different languages countries and regions The present volume is dedicated to trying to help to resolve these two problems in Kierkegaard studies Its purpose is first to provide book reviews of some of the leading monographic studies in the Kierkegaard secondary literature so as to assist the community of scholars to become familiar with the works that they have not read for themselves The aim is thus to offer students and scholars of Kierkegaard a comprehensive survey of works that have played a more or less significant role in the research Second the present volume also tries to make accessible many works in the Kierkegaard secondary literature that are written in different languages and thus to give a glimpse into various and lesser known research traditions The six tomes of the present volume present reviews of works written in Catalan Chinese Czech Danish Dutch English Finnish French Galician German Greek Hebrew Hungarian Italian Japanese Norwegian Polish Portuguese Romanian Russian Slovak Spanish and Swedish

Wright, 2015-09-25 The Letter of Aristeas has been an object modern scholarly interest since the seventeenth century It is best known for containing the earliest version of the translation of the Hebrew Law into Greek and this story accounts for much of the scholarly attention paid to the work Yet this legend only takes up a small percentage of the work Looking at Aristeas as a whole the work reveals an author who has acquired a Greek education and employs both Jewish and Greek sources in his work and he has produced a Greek book Even though Aristeas has garnered scholarly attention no fully fledged commentary has been written on it The works of R Tramontano M Hadas and others often referred to as commentaries only contain text and annotated notes This volume fills the gap in the scholarship on Aristeas by providing a full paragraph by paragraph commentary containing a new translation text critical notes general commentary and notes on specific words phrases and ideas Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2002 of today's most central tracks of cognitive science discourse. It features 15 papers based on topics presented at the Conceptual Spaces Work 2016 conference. The contributors interweave both theory and applications in their papers. Among the first mentioned are studies on metatheories, logical and systemic implications of the theory as well as relations between concepts and language. Examples of the latter include explanatory models of paradigm shifts and evolution in science as well as dilemmas and issues of health, ethics and education. The theory of conceptual spaces overcomes many translational issues between academic theoretization and practical applications. The paradigm is mainly associated with structural explanations such as categorization and meronymy. However, the community has also been relating it to relations, functions and systems. The book presents work that provides a geometric model for the representation of human conceptual knowledge that bridges the symbolic and the sub-conceptual levels of representation. The model has already proven to have a broad range of applicability beyond cognitive science and even across a number of disciplines related to concepts and representation.

Making Christians Denise Kimber Buell, 2020-11-10. How did second-century Christians vie with each other in seeking to produce an authoritative discourse of Christian identity? In this innovative book, Denise Buell argues that many early Christians deployed the metaphors of procreation and kinship in the struggle over claims to represent the truth of Christian interpretation, practice and doctrine. In particular, she examines the intriguing works of the influential theologian Clement of Alexandria (ca. 150-210 CE) for whom cultural assumptions about procreation and kinship played an important role in defining which Christians have the proper authority to teach and which kinds of knowledge are authentic. Buell argues that metaphors of procreation and kinship can serve to make power differentials appear natural. She shows that early Christian authors recognized this and often turned to such metaphors to mark their own positions as legitimate and marginalize others as false. Attention to the functions of this language offers a way out of the trap of reconstructing the development of early Christianity along the axes of heresy and orthodoxy while not denying that early Christians employed this binary. Ultimately, Buell argues, strategic use of kinship language encouraged conformity over diversity and had a long-lasting effect both on Christian thought and on the historiography of early Christianity. A perceptive and closely argued contribution to early Christian studies. Making Christians also branches out to the areas of kinship studies and the social construction of gender. Illustrated
