Britton, 2019-09-19 Adam Smith's Theory of Moral Sentiments 1759 defines sympathy as a series of shifts in perspective by which one sees from a different point of view British and French novels published over the following century redefine sympathy through narrative form shifting perspectives or stories within stories in which one character adopts the voice and perspective of another Fiction follows Smith's emphasis on sympathy's shifting perspectives but this formal echo coincides with a challenge For Smith and other Enlightenment philosophers the experience of sympathy relies on human resemblance In novels by contrast characters who are separated by nationality race or species experience a version of sympathy that struggles to accommodate such differences Encounters between these characters produce shifts in perspective or framed tales as one character sympathizes with another and begins to tell her story echoing Smith's definition of sympathy in their form while challenging Enlightenment philosophy's insistence on human resemblance Works of sentimental and gothic fiction published between 1750 and 1850 generate a novelistic version of sympathy by manipulating traditional narrative forms epistolary fiction embedded tales and new publication practices the anthology the novelistic extract Second hand stories transform the vocal mobility emotional immediacy and multiple perspectives associated with the declining genre of epistolary fiction into the narrative levels and shifting speakers of nineteenth century frame tales Vicarious Narratives argues that fiction redefines sympathy as the struggle to overcome difference through the active engagement with narrative by listening to re telling and transcribing the stories of others      Fiction Treasures by Maritime Writers Gwendolyn Davies, 2015-08-13 Though little known today from 1860 to 1940 Canadian novelists from the Maritime provinces were writing highly successful books which were widely read in Canada the US and Britain Although today only Lucy Maud Montgomery is remembered and read there were several dozen writers who enjoyed the same level of success and renown

This book brings these authors and their most successful books back into the spotlight of Canadian writing In 2001 Canadian literature specialist Gwen Davies and Formac publisher James Lorimer set out to republish books by these largely forgotten Maritime authors Readers can now discover 35 of their novels all reprinted in Formac s Fiction Treasures series For each book series editor Gwen Davies commissioned an introduction by a contemporary scholar who offers a brief biography of the writer and a discussion of the text itself As Gwen Davies notes These introductions not only capture new research in literary biography or publishing history but also broaden our understanding of regional popular reading tastes from the era of Queen Victoria to the Second World War This book brings these introductory essays together in a single volume so that readers can discover these writers and get an overview of their best works Nothing to Write Home About Laura Ishiguro,2019-05-01

In the context of surging interests in reconciliation and decolonization settler colonialism increasingly occupies political public and academic conversations Nothing to Write Home About is a detailed study of the settler colonial significance of British family correspondence sent between the United Kingdom and British Columbia between 1858 and 1914 Drawing on thousands of letters written by dozens of correspondents it offers insights into epistolary topics including trans imperial family intimacy and conflict settlers everyday concerns such as boredom and food and the importance of what correspondents chose not to write about Analyzing both the letters content and their conspicuous loaded silences Laura Ishiguro traces how Britons used the post to navigate the family separations integral to their migration and to understand British Columbia as an uncontested settler home This book argues that these letters and their writers played a critical role in laying the foundations of a powerful personal settler colonial order that continues to structure the province today Health and the Art of Living Antje Richter,2025-08-22 Health and the Art of Living offers reflections on health and illness in early medieval Chinese literature ca 200 ca 600 through a range of literary sources essays prefaces correspondence religious scriptures and poetry including works by Liu Xie and Xie Lingyun Sacra Pagina: First and Second Thessalonians Earl J. Richard,2021-03-04 The letters First and Second Thessalonians are traditionally associated with the Pauline foundation of the Macedonian Church at Thessalonica The first is seen as representing Paul s earliest epistolary efforts and as providing two successive moments in his long relationship as advisor to that community Soon after leaving the area for the southern province of Achaia Paul addresses the concerns of the new Gentile converts and at a later period responds more directly to queries received from the thriving and successful community The second document written in Paul s name and at a later date attempts to calm the apocalyptic fervor of the community by reiterating its traditional eschatological and Christological teaching After treating these introductory matters this study provides a new translation of each section of the canonical text explains in notes the pertinent textual and linguistic features of the text and then offers in a series of interpretive messages a literary rhetorical and thematic analysis of the biblical documents The constant concern of this commentary is to provide assistance to modern readers in discerning the relationship between the authors and their intended readers Short

Discerning the "Word of the Lord" Michael W. Pahl, 2009-05-07 In 1 Thessalonians 4:15 the Apostle Paul appeals to a word of the Lord to provide authority for his eschatological encouragement This appeal has left a perplexing problem related to the nature and function of the specific authority to which the phrase refers Two theories have predominated in the history of interpretation either 1 it refers to a directly received prophetic revelation whether to Paul or to another Christian prophet or 2 it refers to a teaching of Jesus received as tradition whether preserved in the Gospel tradition or otherwise unknown This book investigates this problem from three angles epistemological analysis examining Paul's authorities for his knowledge particularly in his eschatology linguistic analysis including both grammatical and lexical study of the phrase and contextual analysis setting the statement within its historical and literary contexts These approaches converge to suggest a fresh solution to the problem while Paul does appear to employ traditional Christian eschatological teaching in his response to the Thessalonian crisis 4:16-17a the phrase does not refer to this tradition but rather refers to the proclaimed gospel message about Jesus centred on his death and resurrection which forms the theological foundation of Paul's response cf 4:14
