Kaplan,2019-11-19 Food is a challenging subject There is little consensus about how and what we should produce and consume It is not even clear what food is or whether people have similar experiences of it On one hand food is recognized as a basic need if not a basic right On the other hand it is hard to generalize about it given the wide range of practices and cuisines and the even wider range of tastes This book is an introduction to the philosophical dimensions of food David M Kaplan examines the nature and meaning of food how we experience it the social role it plays its moral and political dimensions and how we judge it to be delicious or awful He shows how the different branches of philosophy contribute to a broader understanding of food what food is metaphysics how we experience food epistemology what taste in food is aesthetics how we should make and eat food ethics how governments should regulate food political philosophy and why food matters to us existentialism Kaplan embarks on a series of philosophical investigations considering topics such as culinary identity and authenticity tasting and food criticism appetite and disgust meat eating and techno foods and consumerism and conformity He emphasizes how different narratives help us navigate the complex world of food and reminds us we all have responsibilities to ourselves to others and to animals An original treatment of a timely subject Food Philosophy is suitable for undergraduates while making a significant contribution to scholarly debates
